Needles Rescue Youngster From A Life Of Dwarfdom

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Twelve-year-old Scott Lau isn't going to be a dwarf anymore.

After only five months of hormone treatment as part of a University of California research project, the 3-foot, 10-inch Sacramento boy has nearly caught up with his eight-year-old sister Stephanie and has outgrown three pair of shoes while adding three inches to his height.

"I don't like the needles," says Scott, "but it's worth it."

Scott has a defective pituitary gland, the gland which secretes growth hormones — the substances which trigger and control much of the body's growth and development.

FOUR FEET

"Without the growth hormone, he would have been about four feet tall at age 21," says his mother, Mrs. Robert J. Lau.

Scott was five years old before his family and doctors realized that he was a pituitary dwarf. And until he was accepted for the UC research project, that seemed to be his fate.

"He used to eat — he'd try so hard to eat all the things that were good for him — but it just broke our heart because we knew whatever he tried wasn't going to help," says Mrs. Lau.

Researchers at the UC Davis medical school, where Scott receives his hormone shots three times a week, say about 3 per cent of all children are abnormally small and about 15 per cent of those are pituitary dwarfs.

It is a problem understood by doctors since the 1920s, but it was not until the 1950s that techniques were developed for extracting the pituitary hormones which are making it possible for Scott to catch up in his growing.

Scott's father is an Air Force major and was stationed in Okinawa when Scott was accepted for the research project. The Air Force agreed to transfer him to Mather Air Force Base in the Sacramento suburb of Rancho Cordova where the family now lives, about 25 miles from Davis.

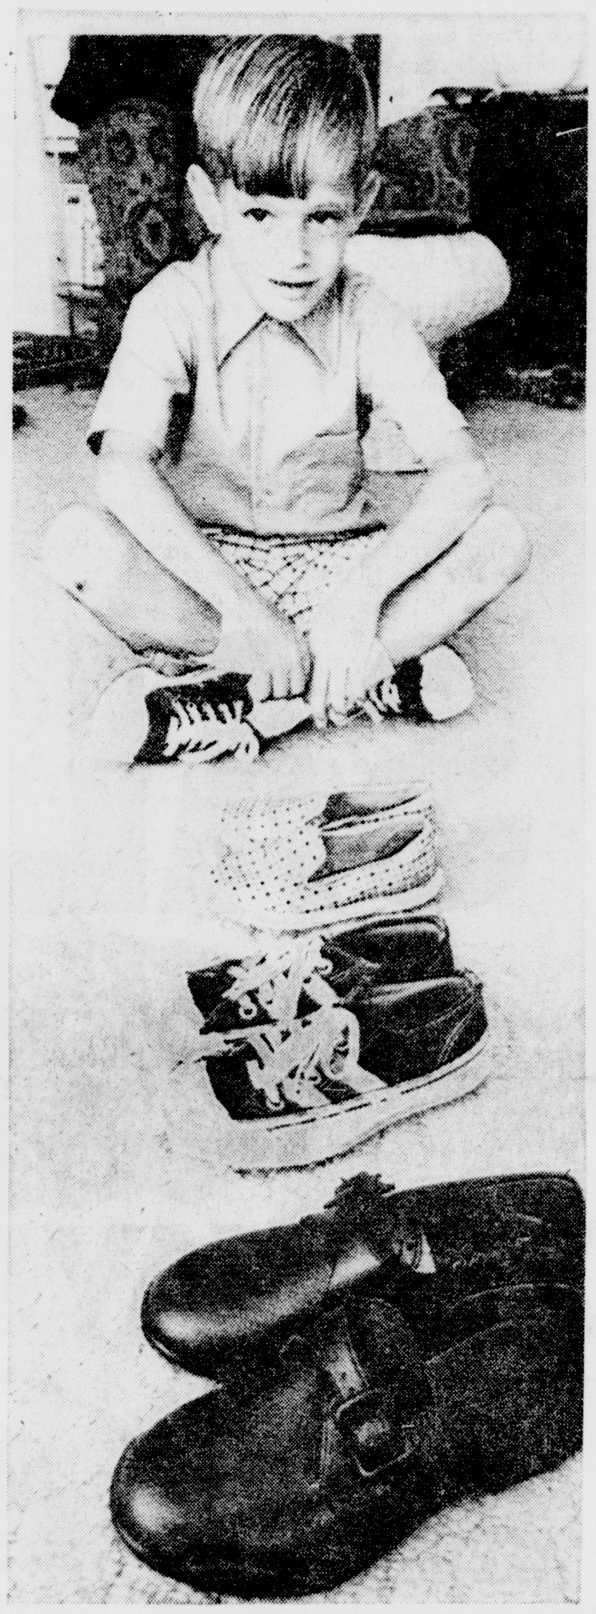
LIMITED SUPPLIES

Supplies of the hormone are limited. Once extracted from monkey glands, it now comes from the pituitaries of dead persons. Scott is expected to require the extract from between 70 and 100 glands a year for the next several years.

After eight months of treatment, Scott will be given a four-month respite from the injections. Otherwise his body would develop antibodies which would eventually counteract the effect of the hormones.

Scott — who is surely one of the world's former dwarfs — only has one worry now: he doesn't want to grow too big.

"I don't want them to say: 'You're too big. You're a horse.'"



GROWING MIGHTY FAST—Scott Lau, 12, of Sacramento displays the three pairs of shoes he's outgrown since January, because hormone shots have rescued him from an apparent life as a dwarf. Without the three-times-a-week treatment, doctors say, Scott would never grow over four feet tall. (UPI Telephoto)

Nixon Reported Confident Of Waxing Economic Tide

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon has reaffirmed to some of the nation's top business and financial leaders his confidence of an upturn in the nation's sagging economy in the second half of the year.

One of the participants at Wednesday night's lengthy White House dinner and give-and-take session said today Nixon "spoke very confidently of an upswing in the third and fourth quarters."

The executive, chairman Robert S. Oelman of National Cash Register Co., did not say, however, that Nixon was able to convince his guests. Said Oelman:

"He convinced me of the optimism of his entire group on the return of the economy."

Oelman was among more than 40 persons — reading like a who's who of business and finance — who attended the dinner, arranged by Nixon in an effort to ease fears about the state of the economy in view of the sharp stock market tumble recently. The atmosphere was said to have been relatively relaxed, with all buoyed by Wednesday's record jump on the New York Stock Exchange.

Cambodia and other world issues were discussed, in addition to the economy, with Nixon handling most of the briefings prior to taking questions.

In addition to reiterating his often-expressed confidence of an economic upswing in the last half of the year, Nixon was said to have told the leaders that the Cambodia operation was

Petaluman Is Slain In Monterey

Susan Jameson, 23, the outstanding woman graduate of Sonoma State College in 1968, was found beaten to death in an office at her Monterey school last night.

Monterey County Sheriff's deputies could furnish no details.

Miss Jameson, who was born and reared in Petaluma, was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Darol R. Jameson, 407 Sunnyslope Avenue.

Mrs. Jameson said her daughter had attended a teachers meeting at the San Benancio Elementary School where she taught second grade. She reportedly left the school shortly after the other teachers, but apparently returned on an impulse.

Mrs. Jameson said her daughter's purse was found in her car and said she felt she probably returned to the school office to get something and startled an intruder.

An active and attractive girl, Miss Jameson attended St. Vincent grammar and high school where she participated in many school activities.

When she received her bachelor of arts degree in education from Sonoma State, she was named as the outstanding woman graduate by the American Association of University Women and won the Dean's Award as the outstanding graduate.

She continued her studies at Sonoma State in 1969 to receive her teaching credential.

Miss Jameson moved to Monterey in September and began her first year of teaching at the modern San Benancio School in a upper middle class residential neighborhood, east of Monterey.

"She loved the ocean and wanted to teach in a small town," Mrs. Jameson said, noting the family was well pleased with her teaching assignment. "Susan had lived in Petaluma all her life and felt she should go away to teach."

"She was thrilled to be teaching second grade because she just loved the little ones," her mother said, expressing concern that her class would not fully understand what had happened to their teacher.

"She had a good life and enjoyed life fully," Mrs. Jameson said. "That's all we have to cling to now."

Her father operates Jameson Trucking in Petalunia.

She is also survived by two brothers, Brent Jameson of the family home and Steven Jameson stationed with the Army in Texas; a sister, Mary Jameson, at home and her grandmothers, Hyda Stromberg and Wilma Jameson of Petaluma.

Funeral arrangements are pending at Sorensen Funeral Home, Petaluma.

Fight Near DMZ Costs Hanoi 76

SAIGON (UPI)—South Vietnamese troops reported killing 76 North Vietnamese regulars in a four-hour battle today near the Demilitarized Zone. Cambodian forces repulsed invading Communist units in street fighting in the provincial capital of Prey Veng.

With the Allied offensive in Cambodia entering its fourth week, official military sources in Saigon said American infantrymen had discovered four base camps in the Communist headquarters known as COSVN—the Central Office for South Vietnam.

President Nixon, in announcing the start of the offensive on May 1, said COSVN was Hanoi's war headquarters and declared that one of the main purposes of the Allied campaign in Cambodia was to destroy it.

CASUALTY REPORT

The casualty report issued today for the week ended last Saturday said 142 Americans were killed in action in Vietnam and Cambodia—75 less than the previous seven-day period. But South Vietnamese casualties last week rose to their second highest level of the year with 734 men killed. The Allies reported killing 3,321 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong.

A report on the four-hour battle in the far northern quarter of South Vietnam today said a battalion of North Vietnamese infantrymen (about 600 soldiers) stormed out of the jungle at 1:30 a.m. and tried to overrun a South Vietnamese artillery base 15 miles south of Quang Tri.

Field reports listed 76 North Vietnamese slain against South Vietnamese losses of three men killed and two wounded. The South Vietnamese reported capturing 40 weapons.

BARBED WIRE

Some of the attacking North Vietnamese reached the barbed wire defense of the artillery outpost before they were either hurled back or killed by defenders who were helped by helicopter gunships. The battlefield was illuminated by hundreds of aerial flares.

The report on discovery of the COSVN base camps lent weight to claims by U.S. officials in Washington that the Cambodian offensive was paying great dividends.

Official military sources said an estimated 1,000 soldiers who had been guarding the camps, plus the commanders themselves, had fled the base camp area in the Fishhook salient of

WALL STREET REBOUND CONTINUES SECOND DAY

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market registered its second bullish session in a row today as prices moved ahead sharply in the heaviest trading of the year.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials closed up 20.95 at 684.15, or a gain of 3.15 per cent.

Volume of 18.9 million shares was the highest turnover of 1970 for the New York Stock Exchange. The record Big Board volume was 21.35 million shares, recorded on June 13, 1968.

Special Rites Set For Memorial Day

Marin's traditional Memorial Day service will be held at 11 a.m. Saturday at the World War I Doughboy Statue at the old Marin County Courthouse in downtown San Rafael.

There will be a massing of colors and placing of a floral tribute at the base of the statue in ceremonies sponsored by the Memorial Day Committee, composed of veterans.

There will be a service at the memorial plaque at Novato City Hall at 11 a.m. and senior citizens in Fairfax will sponsor an observance at 1 p.m. at the Honor Grove next to city hall.

Business generally will be normal on Friday and Monday, but many stores will be closed Saturday. Most city, county and public offices and banks will be open tomorrow and Monday.

Public schools and the College of Marin will be closed tomorrow and public libraries will be closed Saturday.

The Independent-Journal will publish as usual, but the business and classified offices will be closed Saturday.

At the Old Courthouse, Col. Richard B. Newport, director of the 12th Marine Corps in San Francisco, will address the gathering. Newport is recipient of the Distinguished Flying Cross in both World War II and the Korean War and has earned decorations for meritorious service and the Purple Heart in Vietnam in 1965.

Participating in the Novato ceremonies will be the Donald V. Westland Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars; Hamilton Post, American Legion; Disabled American Veterans and Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps Cadets from Novato High School.

In Fairfax, Supt. H. Reginald Hammond of the Fairfax School District will be the speaker at the services sponsored by the Fairfax Senior Citizens Association.

Colors will be displayed by Boy Scout Troops 49 and 7 and Cub Packs 49 and 7.

Retired Army Chaplain Col. S. J. Baumgart of Woodacre will give the invocation and Rev. Rowland Chandler, pastor of Christ the Victor Lutheran Church will give the benediction.

Taps will be played by buglers from San Rafael Military Academy and Elaine Tomlain of Cadette Troop 2198 will read the inscription on the arch at Valley Forge.

In Sausalito, city offices will be closed tomorrow, but most businesses will be open Memorial Day and parking meters will operate as usual. In Belvedere city offices will be closed tomorrow.

In Novato, supermarkets are scheduled to be closed Saturday, but some neighborhood stores will remain open.

Ross, Fairfax, Petaluma, Mill Valley and San Rafael have announced a parking meter holiday Memorial Day.

In Rohnert Park city offices will be closed tomorrow and in Petaluma supermarkets will be open Memorial Day.

In San Rafael, Macy's and the Emporium will be closed Saturday as well as United Markets.

Nixon Aide Denies Presidential Use Of Kremlin Hotline

Source Says Nixon Used Link To Inform On Cambodian Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A neutral diplomatic source in Phnom Penh said today that President Nixon used his hotline to inform the Kremlin in advance that he was sending U. S. troops into Cambodia. The White House denied it.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said "the President has not used the hotline since he took office."

The source in Phnom Penh said the Kremlin relayed Nixon's message to the Soviet ambassador there. He in turn was said to have told Gen. Lon Nol of the U. S. plan to wipe out Viet Cong and North Vietnamese sanctuaries in Cambodia.

Ziegler would not discuss any diplomatic maneuvering that preceded the operation. But other White House sources said the Lon Nol government was informed directly of the operations shortly before they began by the U. S. representative in Phnom Penh.

Ziegler did say any contacts were "consistent with the elements of security and surprise," presumably meaning they were tailored to avoid tipping off the Communists.

Ziegler refused to say whether there was any contact with the Soviet Union apart from the hotline before the Cambodian operation.

The Phnom Penh source said no details were available of exactly what Nixon said in the alleged hot line message.

The source noted that Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin held his first news conference in five years shortly after the American action, and condemned the action while questioning Nixon's integrity.

Field reports had said the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese received advance warning of the Allied push in time to withdraw from the border area. One guerrilla field commander told two detained correspondents the South Vietnamese gave the warning.

The hotline between Washington and Moscow was set up in August 1963, as a teletype link between the Pentagon and Kremlin. A need for such a link was pointed up in the 1962 missile crisis when leaders on both sides found diplomatic channels too slow.

An announcement at the time said the line was set up "to lessen chances of nuclear war through miscalculation." The first time the line was used was in 1967 during the Middle East war.

Both governments share the cost of the line, which is open 24 hours a day and is tested hourly. The United States paid an estimated $182,000 in 1967 as its share of the cost. An exchange over the line takes only minutes compared to at least six hours through other channels.

President John F. Kennedy found himself and former Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khruschev communicating by public statements over news wires during the Cuban missile crisis—an awkward situation that led to the hotline.

Messages from the Soviets are sent in Russian and translated in the Pentagon before being rushed to the White House. The American President sends his messages in English and they are translated into Russian at the other end.

Lawmaker May Ask Peace Stand

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assemblyman Bill Greene said today he may propose a resolution urging Congress "to assume its constitutional responsibility" by taking a firm stand on the Indochina war.

Greene said he would take the action if his measure exempting California residents from an undeclared war fails to get legislative approval.

The Los Angeles Democrat said Sen. Mervyn M. Dymally, D-Los Angeles, would join him in proposing the resolution.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Ohio State Clash

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — National Guardsmen and police clashed with rock and bottle-throwing demonstrators in the Ohio State University area early today, but the confrontation ended abruptly when authorities boxed in the youths and sent them fleeing through private yards to refuge.

No tear gas was used. About 30 persons were arrested, most on charges of refusing to disperse.

The only injuries were bruises to several guardsmen hit by flying missiles.

The incident began when about 400 students who had gathered on the campus were ordered to disperse because of a midnight campus curfew.

In another development, university president Novice G. Fawcett announced that school officials would meet with student negotiators today.

Antiwar Resolution

CHICAGO (AP) — Delegates representing the 3.2 million-member Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. have called for an end to American involvement in the war on North Vietnam.

A resolution passed Wednesday by the church's 182nd General Assembly urged adoption of "a specific timetable for the termination of the American commitment" in Indochina.

As passed, the resolution softened considerably an earlier draft which recommended the assembly "strongly condemn the invasion of Cambodia as an unjustified and dangerous extension of an already illegal war."

S. Korea Plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon is starting to plan for removing some U.S. troops from South Korea, sources say.

The withdrawal, which may start late next year, will be gradual, probably involving less than a division at the start, it was indicated.

A hint of this was dropped Wednesday by Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird in a speech.

"Although I am unable to discuss today specific details of additional troop reductions in the Pacific or Asian area," Laird said, "we are already working on plans for such actions as we reduce our role of world policeman in favor of the Nixon doctrine. . ."

Defense sources said the planning involves South Korea, where the United States has about 64,000 Army and Air Force troops stationed.

To Black School

NEW YORK (AP) — The Rev. Leo McLaughlin, who gained a reputation as an innovator while serving as president and later chancellor of Fordham University, is resigning to become director of freshman studies at a small, predominantly black university in Charlotte, N.C.

"For many years I've been talking about race relations, and it's time I put my life where my mouth has been," he said Wednesday in announcing he has resigned as Fordham's chancellor effective June 30 to join Johnson C. Smith University.

"I hope such shifts become a trend," he said. "The whole tendency of American universities is to attract black scholars from black schools. Perhaps we can reverse this brain drain a little.

Covers Cost

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Mark Hatfield has written a $2,175 personal check to the Post Office to cover the cost of mailing some antiwar material the Senate Rules Committee says was originally sent illegally under his free postage privilege.

The Oregon Republican had the check hand delivered to an assistant postmaster general after the committee ruled in a rare action Wednesday he had violated franking regulations.

The matter may not be ended, however. The Senate Ethics Committee is reported looking into Hatfield's use of the free mail privilege as well as antiwar material mailed under the frank of Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind.

Nostalgia Reigns At Demo Gathering

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats have taken a lingering look backwards at a party fund-raising dinner that produced more than $800,000 for their campaign to stay in command of Congress.

They hailed a gallery of past Presidents, and other party heroes and paid tribute to the retiring speaker of the House John W. McCormack Jr.

Former President Lyndon B. Johnson set the tone in a keynote speech of praise for McCormack—"in my judgment, in our judgment ... the very best."

Johnson himself was acclaimed by Rep. Carl Albert of Oklahoma, the House majority leader, as among "the greatest living Americans, my President, your President ..."

"When Lyndon Johnson returned to the White House today, the stock market went up 32 points," said Albert.

The Step Brothers tap danced; the Brothers and Sisters sang selections including "The Age of Aquarius" and "Auld Lang Syne."

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield sounded the lone political rallying cry, scorning the Republican response to the "national shame" of war abroad and turmoil at home, and declaring Democratic majorities in Congress a vital balance wheel to counter the GOP White House.

More than 2,000 members of the House and Senate, aides, party workers, and lobbyists were on hand at the $500 a plate dinner. Party officials said receipts plus pledges could push the total proceeds to about $1 million.

"This is a wonderful crowd considering the price of admission and considering the Dow Jones averages," said Johnson.

Nostalgia was the prevailing mood. Johnson said he was certain that in praising McCormack, he had the proxy of "a man who was my political mentor as well as John McCormack's, the late, beloved Sam Rayburn."

He said McCormack was a driving force in "what I believe was the greatest Congress that ever assembled in American history, the 89th Congress." That Congress, produced by the Democratic landslides of 1964, passed Johnson's Great Society programs.

McCormack called the roll of Democratic Presidents—Johnson, John F. Kennedy, Harry S son, John F. Kennedy, Harry S. Truman. "And if Hubert Humphrey was President of the United States, he'd make one of the greatesst Presidents of our country," McCormack said.

By contrast, Mansfield's words were somber. "We meet at a time when America's economy is caught in the dead hand of war," he said.

He spoke of widening war and of national divisons.

"There are those whose response to this national shame is still the rhetoric of denunciation and national divison," he said. "... Democrats will not join in dividing America."

He urged Republicans and independents "who want to stop the spread of war" to join Democrats in the coming campaign.

Pre-Launch Test Linked To Near Apollo 13 Doom

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Wiring insulation inside an oxygen tank which exploded on Apollo 13 may have been seriously damaged before the ill-fated moon mission was launched, the chairman of the committee studying the space accident says.

Edgar M. Cortright, chairman of the Apollo 13 review board, said Wednesday that several days before the launch the tank had been filled with oxygen for a rehearsal, and afterwards workmen were unable to drain it in the normal way.

He said special procedures were then used to remove the oxygen, and these "probably resulted in major damage to the wiring insulation" inside the tank.

The tank exploded April 13, as Apollo 13 was more than halfway to the moon. The explosion blew off a panel of the service module, destroyed the spacecraft's major supply of oxygen and electricity, forced cancellation of the moon landing and seriously endangered the astronauts.

Judo For Indians

NEW DEHLI (AP) — Members of Parliament are to be given lessons in judo—with the blessing of Prime Minister Indira Gandhi, according to G.S. Swell, speaker of the lower house. In a letter to Swell, Mrs. Gandhi said she hopes the interest by parliamentarians will help to popularize judo all over India.

Wing Fatigue Snags Giant Lockheed Jet

WASHINGTON (AP) — A scientific advisory board reportedly has told the Air Force efforts to fix critical wing crack in the giant Lockheed C5 transport will not work and an entirely new wing design should be considered for the trouble-plagued plane.

The panel, according to the weekly Armed Forces Journal, reported to Air Force Secretary Robert Seamans earlier this month the giant plane comes up to only a quarter of the Military Airlift Command's requirement of 30,000 hour maximum design fatigue life.

The Air Force would confirm only that Seamans met with the chairman of the blue-ribbon panel May 4 and that the panel's report would not be completed until mid-June.

"Since the report has not been completed, the Air Force has no comment on its findings or recommendations at this time," it said in a statement.

The panel, headed by Dr. Raymond L. Blisplinghoff, dean of engineering at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, was appointed last February after a crack, 8 to 10 inches long, was found in one of the C5s undergoing wing modifications at the Lockheed plant in Marietta, Ga.

All 10 of the big jet transports built so far were grounded until inspections were completed. Since then, they have had their wings reinforced with aluminum braces and are now flying under restrictions imposed by the Air Force.

The C5 program was cut back from 120 to 81 planes by the Nixon administration after spiraling cost overruns produced criticism in Congress.

Deputy Secretary of Defense David M. Packard told the Senate Armed Services Committee Wednesday if Congress fails to provide $200 million included in a total of $544.4 million sought for the C5 for the fiscal year starting July 1, the plane's program would have to be cut back further.

The government has already invested more than $2 billion for the world's largest airplane built to carry troops, trucks, tanks and helicopters. The total cost for the 81 planes is expected to reach nearly $5 billion.

Packard, who made no mention of the Blisplinghoff panel's report, urged Congress to approve the budgeted funds for Lockheed, which is in financial troubles stemming from disputes with the Air Force over three other major weapons programs in addition to the C5.

Even if Congress approves the funds, the Pentagon's No. 2 man said the company would have to get private financial support and consider the possibility of a merger to avoid bankruptcy.

Despite the technical problems with the C5, Packard said the plane "is now in production undergoing fatigue and static testing and will be deployed in our operating forces this June."

Memorial Day Highway Care Urged

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The National Highway Transportation Board today recommended a set of safety guidelines for motorists to follow during the Memorial Day weekend, the first major holiday period of the season:

—Avoid alcohol in any form before or during driving.

—Make certain your car is in good mechanical condition by having brakes and other systems checked out.

—Make sure tires have proper pressure, particularly if traveling on high-speed freeways.

—Avoid overloading auto trunks because this results in loss of steering capability and also raises beams of headlights.

—Get plenty of rest before starting a trip and stop for 10-minute breaks every two hours (or switch drivers each two hours).

—Be particularly alert even when driving near home because lots of people are on the road, driving in unfamiliar areas.

—Plan trips in detail, choosing best routes, avoiding peak traffic periods and allow extra travel time to include sufficient rest stops for all passengers.

Volunteers In India

NEW DELHI (AP) — The West German peace corps, known as the West German Volunteers, has 94 persons in India working in vocational, training and technical programs,, according to an Indian government statement.

New Auto Union Chief Girds For Showdown

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leonard Woodcock, president of the United Auto Workers, said today the union is mobilizing for major wage demands this fall, and won't be swayed by pleas to temper demands in view of inflation.

Woodcock, named president of the union after the death of Walter P. Reuther in a plane crash May 9, said he expected UAW negotiators would have to listen to management's "well-worn script" that wage hikes cause inflation.

"It isn't wages that push up prices but prices that pull up wages," Woodcock said. He also said it was a myth that industrial workers like auto workers are members of the nation's affluent society. They earn less than $8,000 a year, he said, and "That isn't sufficient to properly support a young and growing family."

Woodcock, at a news conference said the union will decide in late August which of the three major auto firms to tackle as a wage pattern-setter, and that in event of a strike, only one firm at a time would be involved. He declined to indicate which of the auto firms would be the bargaining target. There has been speculation that it might be General Motors, where Woodcock directed union operations when he was a UAW vice president.

Woodcock said the union's bargaining goals, its antiwar stance and its social programs were unchanged by Reuther's death.

"The course of the UAW is not changed by our tragic loss," he said, noting he had joined black marchers in Atlanta demonstrating against "repression" and would continue to support Mexican-American farm workers in their California grape strike.

Woodcock blamed inflation on heavy federal war spending and what he called inefficiencies and mismanagement by defense firms.

"If the auto industry were run on that basis, the auto industry would be bankrupt," he said.

"We need to end the war," he said, and spend the money "solving the nation's social problems."

One Of Kennedy's First Calls—To Jackie Onassis

BOSTON (AP) — A list of telephone calls charged to Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's credit card the night Mary Jo Kopechne died and the next morning was made public today in Suffolk Superior Court.

One of the first telephone calls charged to the Massachusetts senator's credit card the day after Miss Kopechne drowned last summer was to a phone listed to Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis. It lasted almost 24 minutes, according to telephone company records.

The list of calls charged to the senator's credit card was made public in Suffolk Superior Court today when Judge Wildred Paquet lifted an order that kept them secret.

Sixteen credit card calls were made on the 18th and 19th of July.

Miss Kopechne, a former secretary to Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., drowned in Sen. Kennedy's car after it overturned into a tidal pool at Chappaquiddick late in the evening of the 18th.

The senator escaped from the car, but didn't report the incident to police until about 10 the next morning. The call to Jacqueline's phone in Hyannis Port was made minutes after the report to police.

Dinner Held For Librarian

A retirement dinner for Herman K. Spector, senior librarian at San Quentin Prison, was held last night at the prison.

The 64-year-old librarian was presented with awards by the State Library Association and given a typewriter to write about his experiences during 23 years at San Quentin.

He arrived at the prison in 1947 after seven years of library work in a New York prison and built a library of 35,000 volumes from a rag-tag assortment of used books.

Spector lives at 10 Sonoma Street, San Rafael, with his wife, Edna.

Stars' Footprint Specialist Dies

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Al Bogatch, manager of the famed Grauman's Chinese theater, collapsed and died Wednesday of an apparent heart attack.

Bogatch, recipient of several awards for distinguished service to the movie industry, was 55.

Bogatch managed the Chinese Theater since October, 1964, and had been associated with National General Corp., owners of the theater, since 1954. He had been in charge of the ceremonies where famous entertainers impressed their footprints in wet cement in the theater courtyard.

YOUNGER
For Attorney General

America's #1 District Attorney Richard Nixon selected him as Chairman of the President's Anti-Crime Task Force, which according to U.S. Atty. Gen. Mitchell, put together the major portion of our stepped-up national law enforcement program.

Enforces Laws Ev Younger believes in fighting crime vigorously, and enforcing the law strictly, without excuses or exemptions.

Convicts College Rioters Ev Younger sought and won conspiracy convictions—the first in America—of students who mauled professors and destroyed property at San Fernando State College.

Investigates Officials
Ev Younger formed a unit to investigate crimes by officials—another first—and sought and won convictions of four city commissioners and one city councilman.

Drafts Drug Abuse Laws
Ev Younger drafted and supported new laws before the State Legislature to combat growing drug abuse.

School Reopening Date Still Unset

There was still no word today whether Sausalito's Martin Luther King School will reopen Monday. The school was closed "for an indefinite period" by Supt. Phillip W. Schneider after fights broke out Tuesday afternoon among students and acts of vandalism occurred.

King teachers met this morning to discuss a possible resumption of classes and to decide whether to meet with two school district trustees today to discuss the closing and the firing of Principal Sidney F. Walton Jr.

The teachers, who met yesterday in the empty school, had asked for a closed meeting with the entire board, but Schneider told them today Trustees C. Gerald Clear and James E. Muldoon had prior commitments and would be unable to attend the hastily-called board meeting.

Trustees Nathaniel Johnson and David E. Freedheim have agreed to meet with the teachers today.

Yesterday approximately 150 teachers, parents and district residents met with the superintendent and King Vice Principal James T. Toliver Jr. to discuss the school closing and Walton's dismissal.

A few parents, including Michael Harris and Mrs. Charles F. Lester vehemently protested the school closure. Harris called it "a deliberate political move designed to affect" the June recall election against Trustees David E. Freedheim and Martha Freebairn-Smith.

"If the recall is successful, you can be sure this moderate board will be replaced by a board . . . of militants on both sides," Harris said, — adding that the obvious reason for the school closing "is to make the recall go through. Over and over again the children have been used and academics have been sadly neglected," he said.

Schneider said that Trustees C. Gerald Clear, James E. Muldoon and Nathaniel Johnson have "stated publicly" that they will resign if the recall is successful. None of the three board members could be reached for comment on the superintendent's statement.

"Was the situaion really so perilous that the children had to be sent home?" Harris asked Toliver. "I don't think you wait until the situation is out of control to move on it," the vice principal replied. "I could see a steady crisis situation building and I was not going to wait and jeopardize the safety of the children."

Toliver pointed out that he had not closed the school, but had made recommendations to the superintendent "on the basis of what I thought was about to happen here."

Schneider said the decision to close the school was a valid one "in the light of the number of incidents" of fighting and vandalism which had occurred at King.

Mrs. Lester disagreed and called for the administration to open the school today. "I feel we parents are being used as political pawns . . . I think they are using the children as a threat to force the school board to do what they want," she said. "I resent it; I'm fed up," Mrs. Lester continued heatedly. "I'm bringing my son here tomorrow — to be educated."

Armando Flores, a King teacher, said the staff of the school has recommended the school not be reopened until Walton is rehired.

Nine King teachers spoke in their principal's behalf. "Sid Walton is no angle," said teacher Richard Aston. "But he is a good principal and a good educator and that is the important thing."

Teacher Julie Whitten said Walton was "a fair and strong administrator. "He's not perfect, but for him not to be given a chance to grow after one year is a crime," she added.

Algae Held Cause Of Fish Kills

Something is killing the striped bass in the Petaluma River and the dead fish are drifting onto Day's Island in the Black Point area.

Although the fish have been dying in the river for the past year, it started getting worse on Sunday, Mrs. Charles T. Hover, a resident of the island, said today.

"At first they were just small fish, but now there are two and three-pound fish floating around," Mrs. Hover said.

G. B. Talbot, director of the Tiburon Marine Laboratory, said that it is lack of oxygen in the water because of algae that is killing the fish.

Algae grows rapidly during the warm sunny days and gives off oxygen, he said, but at night and on cloudy days, it absorbs the oxygen from the water. It can take enough oxygen out of the water so that the fish cannot live, he said.

Other areas where fish cannot live, Talbot said, include Richardson Bay above the Highway 101 bridge, the Bel Marin Keys Lagoon and the Bahia lagoons.

"At first we thought there might be a break in the sewer when we found dead fish in Bel Marin Keys, but the same condition exists at Bahia where there are no sewers," Talbot added.

Some of the trouble is caused by biodegradable detergents. These break down in the water and leave phosphate nutrients for the algae to feed on, he said.

He did not blame the detergents entirely for all of the fish kills. Before there was pollution of water, there were fish kills due to the growth of algae, he said.

Nixon Bids Hickel To Private Meeting

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon invited Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel to the White House today for a private session, the first since Hickel wrote a much publicized letter to the President three weeks ago urging the Administration to listen more to youthful dissenters.

The White House said Hickel requested the meeting to discuss several subjects including development of natural resources and the environment.

WAR

Cambodia 70 miles north of Saigon.

The headquarters was a prime target of the Cambodian offensive as described by President Nixon in a nationwide television address April 29.

"If you equate COSVN as people, then no," it has not been found, one source said. "But if you equate it to buildings, radio communications, yes," it has.

COSVN has been described by U.S. military officials as a highly mobile headquarters capable of being moved at a moment's notice. The president's statement April 29 has been criticized as an oversimplification of the scope of the COSVN operation.

"They've now moved the headquarters itself out of the (21-mile) belt in which U.S. forces are permitted to operate," a military official said, indicating the Communist commanders have moved to interior Cambodia, out of reach of American troops.

He said the U.S. soldiers who found their four base camps have searched two of them and will go through the two others before President Nixon's June 30 deadline for their withdrawal from Cambodia.

No reports were available on what was found in the camps but Allied troops in Cambodia have turned up a total of 14,094 weapons, 4,996 tons of rice, 10,731 tons of munitions, 15 tons of medical supplies and 309 vehicles.

Guerrilla troops in Cambodia this morning shelled and then surged into the provincial capital at Prey Veng 35 miles east of Phnom Penh but were reported driven out at midafternoon after several hours of street fighting.

Military spokesmen in Phnom Penh said the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese penetrated to the center of the city before the Cambodian garrison regrouped to mount a successful counter-attack. No casualty figures were given.

It was the most serious Communist attack into a Cambodian population center since the guerrillas captured Tonle Bet, 50 miles northeast of Phnom Penh, two weeks ago.

Infant Revived; Found Floating In Swim Pool

An 18-month-old Kentfield boy was revived last night by three Kentfield firemen using mouth-to-mouth resuscitation after the infant was discovered floating face down in a neighbor's swimming pool.

Firemen said Mannolete Garcia of 251 Lower Grove Avenue was removed unconscious at 7:30 p.m. yesterday from the pool at 255 Lower Grove Avenue by an unidentified woman.

They said he regained consciousness as firemen Rod Biddleman, Robert Simon and Robert Bettencourt took turns blowing life-saving oxygen into the child's lungs.

The infant, son of Karen Garcia, was rushed to Marin General Hospital where he was immediately transferred to Children's Hospital in San Francisco.

The hospital today refused to release information on the boy's condition.

Funds Approved For Pay Hikes

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The City Council approved today a bill setting aside $57.1 million for 1970-71 salaries including pay raises of nearly $4 million for 5,300 employes.

A motion to add 2½ per cent more for police died for lack of a second. The ordinance provices pay increases ranging from 5 to 12½ per cent.

Cost of living will be considered next January in new salary discussions, city officials said.

Murphy Asks Preservation For Forts

WASHINGTON — Guarantees that forts Baker, Barry and Cronkhite on the Marin Headlands and three other forts on the San Francisco side of the Golden Gate Bridge remain free from future development until environmental studies can be made, have been requested by Sen. George Murphy.

Murphy said his request was based on a letter from Stanley H. Sinton Jr., president of the San Francisco Planning and Urban Renewal Association, who decried any future development of the six forts.

"While the environmental impact of any one of the projects, taken alone, may be minimal," Sinton wrote, "we believe the cummulative effect to be a disaster."

Murphy said he responded to Sinton's plea by firing off letters to the Department of Defense and General Services Administration asking restraint on new developments until environmental studies are made.

He said he asked the Department of Interior and the Council on Environmental Quality to study any development proposals to see whether they conflict with a proposed recreational area, which could include the forts.

"Just as we would not allow the environment of our Bay Area to be destroyed by any single development plan," the senator said, "so must we guard against the destruction of our environment on a piece-meal bases.

"Consequently, proposed construction projects should be carefully studied to determine their individual and cumulative effects on the Bay Area, its priority for land usage and of course its people," he concluded.

Chase Leads To Skidding Patrol Car

San Rafael patrolman Phillip T. Thompson, 27, was treated at Marin General Hospital yesterday for scrapes and bruises after his patrol car skidded into a tree, police reported today.

The accident occurred at 9:45 p.m. at the intersection of D and Ross streets when Thompson applied his brakes to avoid hitting a car driven by Bob B. Ginn, 35, of 111 Reservior Road, San Rafael, which was stopped in the intersection, police said.

Thompson was driving north on D Street at 44 miles an hour to set up a roadblock at the Irwin Street off-ramp in an effort to apprehend purse-snatchers who struck at Marin General Hospital, police said. Ginn pulled into the intersection, became confused by the speeding patrol car and stopped, police reported.

Ray K. Bollinger, administrator at Marin General Hospital, said two men leaving by the employees' entrance seized the purse of Helen Kampo, a medical records employee, as she was entering the building at 9:20 p.m. She was knocked to the ground and was treated later for scraped knees, but had no major injury.

The two men were not caught.

going ahead of schedule. This was taken to mean that he had no doubt about meeting his pledge of pulling out all American troops by the end of June.

A participant said, "He gave us no indication that the United States would be in Cambodia longer than the deadline. He indicated that he thought the whole plan was going well'.'

Chairman Arthur F. Burns was said to have told the private meeting that the Federal Reserve Board would expand the nation's supply of money at a rate greatly in excess of the rate earlier this year.

The New York Times said Burns told the group that the money supply would continue to be increased.

The Fed controls the nation's money supply through regulation of interest rates to member banks and of the amount of money a bank must hold in reserve.

Another participant at the meeting in the State Dining Room, where the night before Nixon entertained President Suharto of Indonesia, said the President talked 30 to 45 minutes "in significant depth" on both the economy and the Indochina war.

The executive said Nixon was "encouraging on both scores."

Another said, "He did a fine job of explaining a lot of things that might have puzzled people before."

Although the official said nothing substantially new was said, "any time you hear things you've read in the papers direct from the President of the United States, you're a little more impressed."

Actor Booked In Assault Probe

BURBANK (AP) — Actor Audie Murphy was booked for investigation of assault with intent to commit murder today in connection with a fight he allegedly had May 18 with a dog trainer.

Murphy, 45, America's most decorated soldier in World War II, was held in lieu of $1,250 bail but called his lawyer and was expected to post bond.

Police Lt. William Smith said Murphy was picked up by officers at his North Hollywood home on the basis of a complaint filed by David Gofstein, a Burbank dog trainer.

Agnew Sanguine Over U.S. Future

HUNTINGTON, N. Y. (UPI) —Vice President Spiro T. Agnew predicted Thursday that 1970 will prove to be a good year for business, a "turnaround" year in Vietnam and "a time when everybody learned that it never pays to sell America short."

In an economy-slanted speech prepared for Suffolk County Republicans, Agnew took a few swipes at Democratic critics of the Administration and even chided Wall Street for predicting "eleven out of the last four recessions."

His remarks apparently were part of a continuing administration effort to reassure the business community.

OBITUARIES

Marin Photographer Kenneth Molino Dies

KENNETH B. MOLINO
Succumbs at 44

Kenneth B. Molino, San Rafael commercial photographer and former head photographer for the Independent-Journal, died today in a local hospital after a long illness. He was 44.

Molino, an award-winning photographer and an instructor at San Francisco City College, was head photographer at the I-J from 1954 until 1959 when he left to open his own photographic studio.

He resided at 9 Nevada Street, San Rafael.

Born in San Francisco, he attended parochial schools there and graduated with honors from San Francisco City College.

During World War II he served with the Navy for four-and-one-half years.

Immediately after the war, he was employed in the sales department of the Texas Oil Co. in San Francisco where he worked on photographic and dealer bulletin assignments.

For years he was a free-lance photographer working on assignments for the New York Daily News doing photo-stories on San Francisco beatniks, on Hamilton Air Force Base pilots who set records, and other special assignments.

He also worked for Popular Mechnics Magazine, Sea Magazine, Argonaut, Gourmet and Leatherneck.

He moved to Marin County in 1953 and was a photographer-reporter for the Mill Valley Record before joining the Independent-Journal staff.

He opened his first studio at 1203 Third Street later moving to larger quarters at 128 Woodland Avenue.

He formerly taught photography at the College of Marin and at Galileo High School.

He has won first, second and third awards and a long list of honorable mentions in contests sponsored by the California Newspaper Publishers Association and the Associated Press.

Molino was a member of the Marvelous Marin Breakfast Club; Club Italia and the Marin Motorcycle Club.

He is survived by his son, Mario and a sister, Claire Sweeney of San Francisco.

Funeral will be tomorrow at 11 a.m. at Keaton's Mortuary chapel with burial at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery.

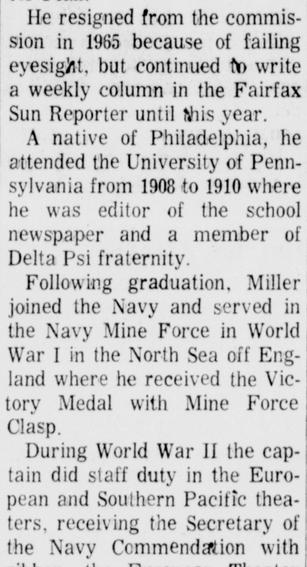
Friends may call only for the funeral service. Memorial contributions to the Leukemia Fund have been requested by the family.

Two Juveniles Still At Large

Two teen-age boys, who walked out of an unlocked kitchen door at Marin Juvenile Hall Tuesday morning, were still missing today, according to probation officers.

Being sought were Larry Blay, 16, and David Makar, 15, both of San Rafael.

Also still missing were five of nine youngsters who escaped from the hall May 20.



CAPT. DANIEL M. MILLER
Ex-planning commissioner

DANIEL MILLER

Navy Capt. (Ret.) Daniel Milton Miller, chairman of the Fairfax Planning Commission from 1960 to 1965, died yesterday at a San Francisco hospital after a long illness. He was 78.

Miller, who moved to 245 Marinda Drive, Fairfax, from Philadelphia, Pa. in 1957, was appointed to the planning commission in 1959. He was one of the key figures in the Fairfax Master Plan.

He resigned from the commission in 1965 because of failing eyesight, but continued to write a weekly column in the Fairfax Sun Reporter until this year.

A native of Philadelphia, he attended the University of Pennsylvania from 1908 to 1910 where he was editor of the school newspaper and a member of Delta Psi fraternity.

Following graduation, Miller joined the Navy and served in the Navy Mine Force in World War I in the North Sea off England where he received the Victory Medal with Mine Force Clasp.

During World War II the captain did staff duty in the European and Southern Pacific theaters, receiving the Secretary of the Navy Commendation with ribbon, the European Theater medal, the American Theater medal, the Asiatic Theater medal and the World War II Victory medal.

Before retiring in 1949, Miller was commanding officer of the Navy Supply Center in Oakland.

In 1949 he was appointed deputy secretary of Forests and Waters for Pennsylvania. From 1952 to 1957 he worked for several Philadelphia business firms.

Surviving are his wife, Mary V. L. Miller; a daughter Lisa W. Miller of Fairfax; and two sisters, Mrs. M. W. Schuyler of Pasadena and Mrs. E. H. Cahill of Haverford, Pa.

Funeral will be at Chapel of the Hills, San Anselmo, at 10 a.m. Monday followed by interment at Golden Gate National Cemetery, San Francisco.

LULU COCKRELL

Funeral for Lulu I. Cockrell, 82, a longtime Bloomfield resident, was held today at Albert Brown Mortuary, Oakland. Burial was at Golden Gate National Cemetery, San Bruno.

Mrs. Cockrell died Tuesday in a Berkeley hospital after a long illness. She was born in San Francisco, but moved to Bloomfield as a child, living there until a few years ago when she moved to Oakland.

She was the wife of the late William A. Cockrell, an attorney.

She is survived by two sons, Homer T. Cockrell and Wilbert D. Cockrell; a daughter Wila I. Buckley, all of Oakland; six grandchildren, and a great-grandchild.

City Amends School Bus Complex Plan

The Board of Education has changed its mind and decided to create one complete elementary school complex under its "Quality-Equality" plan which includes limited busing of students to achieve racial balance.

By a 5-1 vote Wednesday night, the board decided to finance the 12-school Richmond complex and leave the proposed 8-school Park South complex alone until more funds could be arranged.

Since only $1.5 million could be raised out of the $2.8 million considered necessary for both complexes, the board last week voted to involve 10 schools of the 20 in both districts.

But at the suggestion of parents,' groups in both districts, the new compromise plan was adopted Wednesday with only board president Alan Nichols dissenting. He said some of the Park South schools needed improvements included in the plan.

Estimates are that 20 per cent of the 5,600 students in the Richmond complex will be black and that 2,500 students will have to be bused within the district.

Alcatraz To Become National Park Link

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Alcatraz Island, occupied by Indians since last November, is going to be a national park. What the Indians will do remains to be seen.

Thomas E. Hannon, regional administrator of the General Services Administration, said Wednesday the former federal prison site would become the keystone in a "Golden Gate National Recreation Area."

He said he "would just have to wait and see what the Indians do."

Spokesmen for the 100 or so Indians who invaded the island in San Francisco Bay could not be reached immediately for comment because there is no direct communication with the mainland.

However, they gave an "emphatic no" last month to Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel's plan to turn the island into a park with "maximal Indian qualities." The redmen wanted $300,000 to plan for a university and cultural center on Alcatraz.

But Ray Morris of the Indian depot here, which acts as liaison for the island tribes, said Hannon's announcement "sounded like the same old song and dance."

Hannon said the park will have a theme focusing "on the particular contributions the American Indians have made to our country."

Hannon said the island will be turned over to the Department of Interior for use as a national park because this was determined to be the "most appropriate use" of the land.

The island has been held by the GSA as surplus government property since being abandoned several years ago.

He said the government has held 30 meetings with the Indian representatives and has offered to create a joint planning committee to work out details of the park.

"The offer still stands," he said.

He said the government was "very concerned" for the personal safety of the Indians living in the crumbling prison buildings.

"Last winter a 12-year-old girl was killed in a fall and there is recent evidence of use of drugs and accumulation of firearms," he said.

The government has made no moves to oust the Indians by force "since the demonstration has been peaceful," Hannon said.

Granite Bay Patrols Asked

AUBURN (AP — Placer County supervisors say they will close the road to the state beach and park at Granite Bay if the state doesn't provide more effective law enforcement.

The supervisors announced the decision Wednesday, saying they had received repeated complaints from county residents of vandalism, littering and rowdiness by persons using the state facilities at Lake Folsom.

Granite Bay has more visitors a year than any other state park. Last year's total was 3.8 million. The park includes a beach, boat ramp, snack bar and picnic area.

Graduation Pays

LONDON (AP) — It pays to graduate as a scientist in Britain. A government survey shows that two-thirds of graduate scientists earn more than $4,800 a year but that two-thirds of the scientists who did not graduate earn less than $4,800 a year.

Assessment Roll Increase May Cut College Tax Rate

District income for 1970-71 will be some $50,000 higher than anticipated the Marin Junior College District board was told last night, and the district may get a slight decrease from this year's property tax rate of 93 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

The district now expects to get an additional $30,000 from the state for vocational education, has received $8,000 for flood damage claims, and will gain the rest from district valuation increases, reported Earlene Jones, public information officer.

In a budget session, the board discussed the community services budget, proposed at $321,750, and discussed possibilities for long-range district financing.

Possibilities discussed included an election to seek either a tax rate increase, an extension of the present 35-cent override tax, or a bond issue. No decision was made.

The board reached no budget decision last night, but will take up the budget for action at the June 18 board meeting. Total proposed budget is $4,475,456, a decrease of $119,683 from the 1969-70 figure. District property taxes would raise $2,294,760, according to estimates before valuations were increased this year.

To Superior Court On Auto Theft Count

Leroy Everett Southard, 21, of no known address yesterday was bound over to Marin Superior Court on charges of car theft and possessing stolen property. He is to appear in court Monday for arraignment.

Southard was arrested May 19 by the California Highway Patrol when he was seen driving the wrong way on a one-way street near San Rafael.

Widow Of Huey Long Succumbs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rose McConnell Long, widow of the late Huey Long, died last night at her daughter's home in Boulder, Colo., Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., announced in the Senate today.

Mrs. Long was appointed to the Senate after her husband, a senator and former governor of Louisiana, was assassinated in the state capital in Baton Rouge.

She was the mother of Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., who left for Colorado Tuesday because of her illness. He is the only senator whose mother and father both served in the senate.

Mrs. Long, 78, was born in Greensburg, Ind., and moved with her parents to Shreveport, La., in 1901.

She served in the Senate as her husband's successor from Jan. 31 1936, to Jan 3, 1937.

CALL FROM ALGIERS—John Turner, Black Student Union member, handles the phone at the University of California's Greek Theater. There, a crowd of 4,000 yesterday listened to the amplified conversation that BSU officials said was a call from fugitive Black Panther leader Eldridge Cleaver. (AP Wirephoto)

Cleaver Talks Of Race Bias, Campus Killings

BERKELEY (AP) — A voice identified as that of Black Panther Eldridge Cleaver told a rally by telephone that reactions to student killings at Kent State University and Jackson State College are example of white racism.

The Black Students Union said Cleaver was calling from Algiers Wednesday. A member, John Turner asked Cleaver why there was "widespread reaction" to the killing of four Kent State students and a lesser response to fatal shootings of two Negroes at Jackson State.

"Black blood is not considered to be of any value," Cleaver, 34, declared. "The whole history of racism is the double standard; one standard for blacks and another for whites.

"What we have to do in spite of that history is to continue moving in a way to guarantee the freedom and liberation of our people."

Cleaver's declarations came in a telephone call Wednesday and the BSU had his words broadcast live to 4,000 persons in the outdoor Greek Theater.

The onetime Black Panther minister of information fled the country in November 1968 when his parole on an assault conviction was revoked. He also is wanted on a charge of attempted murder in a shootout with Oakland police in April 1968.

Cleaver said he has traveled on all continents of the world "since leaving Babylon," a term he uses for the United States, "and I see the shadow of the Pentagon, the long arm of the Pentagon, inflicting injury, death and oppression."

He also was asked about commitments to revolution in the United States and whether he plans to return.

"If you think I'd wait until you do it in Babylon," he said, "you don't know too much about me."

Former Irish Leaders Nabbed On Arms Charges

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — Two former government ministers fired earlier this month on suspicion of involvement in an arms smuggling plot, were arrested today and charged with conspiring to import arms.

They were released on bail of £2,400 each.

Both men had earlier denied any part in procuring illegally imported arms for the Catholics in Northern Ireland.

The two men are former Finance Minister Charles Haughey and Agriculture Minister Neil Blaney. Three other men were arrested Wednesday on charges of conspiring to import arms.

The dismissal of Haughey and Blaney on May 5 touched off a crisis for Prime Minister Jack Lynch's government, but Lynch managed to unite his Fianna Fail party and win two votes of confidence in the Irish Parliament.

Flags Awarded To Host High School

The flags of Austria, Sweden and Finland today are on display at San Marin High School in Novato, gifts to the school by three foreign students who have spent this school year in Novato, according to Principal Henry J. Moroski.

They were presented to the school during the awards ceremony Monday night. Presenting the flags were Fluer Maria Woss of Austria, Lars Ehrnstrom of Sweden and Aila Marjatta Karpio of Finland.

Awards and recipients were:

Bank of America awards: Lisa Ann Davis, second place Bank of America vocational arts award in North Bay; Lisa M. Foreman, liberal arts; James R. Koss, fine arts; Steven A. Main, science and mathematics; Rudolf Valentine, trade and industrial arts; Carla Jean Clements, home economics; Connie C. Connell, business education; Janet S. Hunter, foreign language; Barbara R. Kurtz, social science; Alice M. Nelson, English; Dann L. Sill, drama; Karen P. Studley, art; Denise L. Woomer, music; Edward D. Freymiller, laboratory science and Michele Olivier, mathematics.

Life memberships, California Scholarship Federation: Karen Ann Berger, Christa Bretz, Lisa Ann Davis, Lisa M. Foreman, Shirley C. Jordan, Barbara R. Kurtz, Gennine D. Loveland, Valerie L. Lyons; Alice Melinda Nelson, Michele Olivier, Gregory N. Olson, Laureen S. Pisano, Nelda Ann Soderblom and William C. Swearingen Jr.

Michele Olivier received the California State Scholarship and Loan Commission award.

Laureen Silvia Pisano won the Homemaker of Tomorrow award from Betty Crocker and the Silversmiths of America award.

KTIM outstanding senior athlete awards went to Kenneth J. Gnoss and Dennis E. Miller.

The Kiwanis award for academic achievement went to Phillip R. Peterson and vocational award to Walter Antonio.

Barry Smail won the journalism award and Barbara Ruth Kurtz the Lions Club speech contest.

The March of Dimes scholarship went to Valerie Lee Lyons.

The Marin County Parent Teacher award went to David Wong.

Bruce John Hoberg was voted most improved senior football player by the Marin 49ers Booster Club.

In music, the John P. Sousa award went to Richard K. Beele Oliver and Laureen Silvia award went to Denise L. Woomer.

Semifinalists in the National Merit Scholarship were Lisa M. Foreman and Nelda Ann Soderblom. Letters of commendation went to Edward D. Freymiller, Steven A. Main, Michele Olivier and Craig V. Robertson.

The North Bay Artists award went to Vicky J. Fletcher and the art book award to James Koss.

The Principal's Medal to the five top ranking seniors went to Karen Ann Berger, Shirley C. Jordan, Alice M. Nelson, Michele Oliviier and Laureen Silvia Pisano.

Kenneth J. Gnoss took the Reserve Officers Training Corps award.

The Rotary Club award went to Lisa M. Foreman.

The San Marin High School tuition scholarships went to Michele Olivier, Barry Smail and Nelda A. Soderblom; the textbook scholarships to Connie C. Connell, Shirley C. Jordan, Tamara Larsen, Maura K. McCarthy, Debra L. Stortz and David Wong.

The San Marin High School student body activity awards were given to Walter Antonio, Carla J. Clements, Lisa A. Davis, Linda Jean Elkin, Robert H. Jackson, Holly L. Reynolds and William C. Swearingen Jr.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars award went to Barbara Ruth Kurtz. The North Marin Parent Teacher Assoc. award was given to Steven A. Main and the yearbook award to Donald E. Kuhwarth.

Karen Ann Berger won honors at entrance from the University of California.

Another '76 Revolt Seen By Kunstler

BERKELEY (AP) — The second American revolution is in the making says William Kunstler, defense attorney of the Chicago Seven conspiracy trial.

"We are not at 1775," he told a cheering audience of 3,500 at the University of California campus, "and 1776 is around the corner."

"We are at significant point in history," he told a Stanford University audience earlier Wednesday. "If you are prepared to go to the wall for what you believe in, history might change."

At both universities and at San Jose State College the night before, Kunstler warned students to "ignore the lunatic fringe" among demonstrators who would lead them into violence.

"Broken windows won't change social history. They just lead to pigs and provocation," he said.

But, he said, "the government is afraid of you" and "students are Public Enemy No. 1" in the United States today.

Kunstler said students have basically three choices:

"1. Give up, like the Germans, and face repression, preventive detention and denial of all rights.

"2. Many believe we could have a revolution, but the time is not ripe.

"3. Offer every resistance short of violent revolution, saying to the government that "unless there is some unequivocal act of faith we go to the barricades.

Comparing today with the American Revolution, Kunstler said that if Patrick Henry were alive now he "would have eight counts against him" under the interstate antiriot act which led to indictment of the Chicago Seven and later of the Weathermen faction of the Students for a Democratic Society.

"Henry said some heavy things," Kunstler went on, "things that would not be permitted in the United States today.

Bay Industries Battle For Eased Chimney Rules; Smog Board Firm

By DAVID DIETZ

SAN FRANCISCO — Representatives of Bay Area industry launched their long-awaited attack yesterday on a tough new pollution standard, but antismog officials held firm.

The target of industry criticism at a session of the advisory council of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District was a proposal to improve sharply the quality of discharges from industrial smokestacks in the six-county region.

Pollution experts appearing in behalf of the Bay Area League of Industrial Associations assailed the proposal as unrealistic, too costly and unenforceable.

While acknowledging the strictness of the standard and the probable difficulty in measuring it, district officials and a representative of the state Air Resources Board vowed it would stand.

The standard, which will require the opacity of industrial emissions to meet a visual measurement known as Ringelmann 1, was coupled with two other proposed new regulations — aimed at controlling the weight of stack emissions — that were handed down last fall by the Air Resources Board.

The Bay Area district is to file a plan to meet the new state standards in July.

"We have an obligation to meet these standards" said D. J. Callaghan, the district's chief administrative officer. "And there's no way to get around it."

"I can't help it if they're strict," Dr. Kenneth E. Noll, a specialist for the Air Resources Board, said, "They're based on health effects for human beings."

A council member, Charles W. Graham, an official of Dow Chemical in Pittsburg, bucked the endorsement by district staff, charing Ringelmann 1 was too restrictive. The new standard would allow only 20 per cent of light to be obscured by a stack plume, whereas the present standard, Ringelmann 2, allows an obscurity factor of 4 per cent.

"This council has the obligation to set up reasonable controls regardless of whether the state sets up unreasonable standards," Graham asserted.

BALIA representative Rober G. Larson said estimates from 13 per cent of 500 Bay Area industries queried showed tha capital costs to install equip ment to meet Ringelmann 1 had already reached $41 million. This, he said, represents a "substantial economic burden" for "nebulous benefit."

"Clean air is going to cost money," Callaghan said.

"There's no way of getting around it . . .We feel it's money well spent to achieve the goals of the Air Resources Board."

BALIA's presentation, originally due in February but twice postponed at industry's request so that more data could be compiled, was delivered at a crowded council session attended for he most part by industry people. It was led by two pollution specialists, Dale A. Lundgren, staff scientist for Environmental Research Corp. of St. Paul, Minn., and A. E. Gosselin Jr., president of Pollution Research and Control Corp. of Los Angeles.

Lundgren referred to a Riverside study which indicated that many of the particles collected in the atmosphere were not the product of industry but rather formed from gaseous pollutants.

He believed that a decrease in particle mass could be made "more economically, enforceably and economically" by decreasing weight of emissions rather than by reducing opacity standards.

Despite industry denials, Noll of the Air Resources Board later told reporters that control devices were available to achieve Ringelmann 1 but conceded they were "very costly."

To industry suggestions that the district join in a study of the nature and source of particles in Bay Area skies, Callakhan said he would welcome it but explained: "I don't wan't this to stop or detain us from taking action on these proposals . . . We don't feel we should wait to meet state standards."

Power Line Foes Heard In Court

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The State Supreme Court has accepted the Sierra Club's argument that "irreparable damage" might occur in issuing a permanent stay against the construction of the controversial Briones Park power line.

Jon Kouba, attorney for the conservationist club, argued Wednesday that permanent damage to the East Bay park would result if the Pacific Gas & Electric Co. towers were built and then ordered removed later.

The court is currently considering a petition for a writ of review against the Public Utilities Commission's decision allowing the PG&E line.

The stay is effective until the court either affirms or denies the request. The panel earlier granted two temporary stays.

U.S., NATO Allies Map Next Moves

ROME (UPI)—The United States and its NATO allies have set two main conditions for agreeing to a European security conference with the Soviet Union, U.S. officials said today. They are that the meeting should be carefully prepared and should offer some prospects of success.

The sources said discussion of European security questions does not depend on the Russians' agreeing to talk about East-West troop reductions in Europe.

However, U.S. sources agreed that Moscow's growing involvement in the Middle East does not create a propitious atmosphere for a conference to discuss European security or force cuts.

NATO foreign ministers, including U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers, ended a two-day meeting in Rome Wednesday with an invitation to the Soviet Union "and all other interested countries" to open talks with them on European security and mutual force cuts on both sides of the Iron Curtain.

U.S. officials said the NATO allies hope the Soviets will reply within six months to the invitation, although no deadline has been set.

The first person to sail around the world alone was Joshua Slocum of New England, who made the trip between 1895 and 1898.

San Rafael Firemen Remain Unsatisfied

Bargaining between the San Rafael Firemen's Association and the city over pay and working conditions has ended with the firemen unsatisfied with the results.

City Mgr. James H. McCown has promised to give consideration to four of the firemen's requests — a study to improve the retirement plan, a longevity plan, a new vacation schedule and a definitive grievance procedure — but said the other two were out of the question.

These two are the reduction of the work week from 63 to 60 hours and a pay raise to bring salaries up to the levels of those paid San Rafael police. Firemen now receive from 2.5 to 5 per cent less than police.

"We've given them substantial improvements over the present situation," McCown said yesterday. "The firemen will get a cost-of-living wage increase of between 5 and 6 per cent. But we don't feel the time is right for the other two requests, and I was instructed by the city council and the fire commission not to give consideration to them."

The trend in fire departments in the state is toward shorter work weeks, he said, but "this isn't the time to consider it. Maybe next year — not now."

Marvin Vollmer, president of the firemen's association, said the 63-hour work week is out of line with those in 10 cities selected by the firemen and the city as "benchmarks."

Firemen in these cities work an average of 57.6 hours a week. "We're not even asking for that," Vollmer said. "We just want 60."

Since the city council and fire commission told him not to consider the two requests, McCown has refused to meet with the firemen again. "If there were something to discuss, I'd meet with them every day of the week," he said. "But the council is adamant about these two points. Further meetings would be useless."

Vollmer said an attorney for the firemen soon will suggest to McCown that mediation be employed to settle the dispute. The city manager thinks that the firemen should follow established procedure and take the matter to the fire commission and then to the city council.

"The word has gone out — these two requests are not going to be honored. They might as well hear it from the council," he said.

Club Selected For Conference

Redwood High School has been chosen to represent the United States at the University of California's model United Nations in Berkeley next February.

The school was chosen for the position on the basis of its performance in this year's model UN when Redwood was honored as one of the top 10 competitors.

Several members of the February delegation have already been selected. They are: Joseph Franaszek, Chris Fritz, Michael Jacobs, Kirk Pessner, Mary Miller, Janet Robinson, Debbie Ripley and James Holmes.

Red China Faulted For New Crisis

PARIS (AP) — South Vietnam's delegate to the peace talks cited Radio Moscow and the Soviet Communist Party newspaper Pravda today to support his view that the escalation of fighting in Indochina is the fault of Red China.

Addressing the 68th weekly meeting of the conference, delegate Pham Dang Lam said Red China is exhorting "its satellite Communist fronts to make more sacrifices, generate more bloodshed and light new fires of war all over the world."

"There is no more eloquent evidence of the warlike policy of Communist North Vietnam and its big brother, Communist China, than the denunciations made in the Russian newspaper Pravda, condemning the 'pseudo revolutionaries' who have been pursuing for many yeors in Asia an extremely 'aggressive and adventurous policy,' who have been impudently exploiting the so-called 'liberation' movements to satisfy their own imperialist ambitions, a policy which, according to Pravda, is dangerous and will lead to extremely disastrous consequences," Lam declared.

Lam reiterated that South Vietnamese forces were operating in Cambodia to ensure the security of South Vietnam's troops and population.

He formally reasserted the Saigon government's "determination to seek above all a negotiated solution to the conflict. All the proposals which we have put forth at this meeting table remain valid."

Class Action Suit Now Facing Uncertain Fate In House Test

WASHINGTON (AP) — A powerful legal weapon designed to keep merchants honest—the class action suit—faces an uncertain fate in its first congressional test next week because of Nixon administration opposition.

The administration and business groups are attempting to scuttle the bill in favor of a counter proposal which class action backers call a "consumer fraud" in itself.

The class action bill comes before the House interstate commerce subcommittee Tuesday. One of its sponsors says the outcome depends on the swing vote of one Democrat.

The bill would permit an individual to file suit on behalf of thousands of consumers. Presently, an individual seldom goes to court to recover, say, $50 because the court costs would exceed the judgment.

If an individual could file suit on behalf of thousands, proponents add, the judgment would be large enough to make merchants chary of attempting to deceive the public.

The Nixon counter proposal sharply limits the field for class action suits by only allowing a suit once the Justice Department sues, and then only if that suit is successful. Comparable government actions have taken 20 years.

"The Nixon bill is a fraud," Rep. Bob Eckhardt, D-Tex., said Wednesday at a news conference.

Virginia Knauer, the President's consumer assistant, originally testified in favor of the class action but now lobbies against it because of White House pressure, charged Bess Myerson Grant, New York City's consumer commissioner.

Mrs. Grant urged Congress "to stand up to the pressures being mounted by Atty. Gen. John Mitchell, the American Retail Federation, and others."

"We will not be fooled by a fake reform, like the administration's counter measure, a so-called 'consumer protection bill,' so riddled with loopholes, exceptions, qualifications and elaborate triggering mechanisms that it is itself a consumer fraud," Mrs. Grant said.

Lebanese Army Handed Guard Order

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Lebanon gave its army the burden of enforcing a new cabinet decree against Arab guerrilla attacks into Israel from Lebanese territory today in an effort to cool the crisis along the frontier.

The cabinet demanded after an unscheduled meeting Wednesday that the guerrillas in southern Lebanon adhere to an agreement made last Nov. 3 which prohibits them from attacking into Israel without first checking with the government.

President Charles Helou of Lebanon said the nation had two choices—to remain a model of "brotherly living" or to "push civilization back 200 years to the ages of hatred and cruelty."

An official cabinet statement said the minister of national defense would be authorized to enforce the decree with the army. No specific measures were cited in the plan to crack down on guerrilla attacks into Israel.

The army was not expected to use force against the guerrillas as they did in late 1969 in the crisis that led to the Nov. 3 agreement. Spokesmen for the Palestinian Armed Struggle Command in Beirut said they welcomed the new cabinet decree.

Such shellings and ambushes brought both retaliation from Israel and warnings of more retaliation. Israeli army patrols began patrolling Monday in southern Lebanon and reports from Tel Aviv said the practice would continue.

The cabinet's proclamation of a crackdown on the guerrillas followed developments that pointed to a hardening of policies against Israel, with the Lebanese parliament allotting $10 million for a stronger stance along the border.

An Arab guerrilla spokesman in Cairo said the guerrillas welcomed the suggestion, never voted upon, in the parliamentary debate that Lebanon ask other Arab nations for troops and the Soviet Union for military assistance.

The two nations have lived in relative peace throughout their short histories. Lebanon did not join other Arab nations in war against Israel in 1967 and since then has tried to keep Arab guerrillas under control for fear of major Israeli reprisals.

Measure A Would Provide Housing Needed In Marin

The first local measure on next Tuesday's ballot involves outlay of $12.5 million and a whole new lease on life for the Marin County Housing Authority.

Measure A asks for approval for the housing authority to build 600 units of housing for low-income families and the elderly.

The $12.5 million would not be a bond on the taxpayers of Marin County. It would be federal money poured into the project.

THE MARIN COUNTY Housing Authority has traveled a rocky road since it was brought into existence to redevelop the wartime community of Marin City. That project has reached the end of its public housing phase, and recently the housing authority has been engaged in subsidizing clusters of housing for the elderly in several Marin localities.

These clusters are typical of what is planned under the proposed authorization.

The housing authority does not plan any high-rise apartment buildings. It does not plan any large concentration of public housing. Its members have come to recognize that public housing can best serve its purpose if diffused among other residences.

Rental of the 600 units will be limited to those who come within the authority's index as to maximum income. The largest (four-bedroom) units will be for those families with income not over $8,700 per year; the smallest, for couples with income not over $4,625.

The housing would be built by private contract, and would have to meet both federal requirements and local building codes. To place any of the units within any of Marin's 11 cities, the authority would first have to get permission of the city council, thus providing full local control.

THE MEASURE A referendum may be unnecessary to meet legal requirements. There has been a lower court decision in federal court that such housing may be built without a referendum.

Obviously, however, in event that Marin voters turn down the proposal, the housing authority would be precluded as a matter of policy if not of legality from going ahead with the plan.

Public housing has been far from an unqualified success in the United States. The recent efforts in Marin, however — both housing built for the elderly and leased housing — are proving successful, and it is along the lines of the elderly housing already built that the authority plans to proceed if Measure A passes.

The need is there. The plan seems sound. We think Measure A deserves a "yes" vote.

A Real Anti-Pollution Candidate

Ecology and pollution control are "in" this year. Every candidate for public office is all for preserving the environment, all for curbing the polluters — at least, every candidate says so.

There is one candidate, however, who has been fighting automobile-caused pollution for 17 years.

Kenneth Hahn, a Los Angeles County supervisor who seeks the Democratic nomination for U.S. Senate, started needling the "big four" auto makers in 1952 to do something about reducing air-defiling exhaust gases.

He carried on his campaign without letup, in the face of frustrations that would have caused most men to give up in disgust. Finally it bore fruit in 1966 when a federal grand jury took months of testimony that resulted in a criminal action against the auto makers.

That was settled out of court with a consent decree last October. But as a result of Hahn's long battle, there is now a civil suit against the major auto makers by the State of California, charging them with conspiracy to delay installation of effective smog controls on cars.

And the fact that new cars have anti-smog devices is due at least in part to the efforts of Kenneth Hahn, one candidate who has done something about pollution besides just talk about it.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

Next Tuesday To Decide Fate Of A Misleading Proposition

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — In less than a week, the June 2 primary elections will be history, and the one, outstanding issue of the election will have been decided.

This is the fate of Proposition 8, the school teacher association-county supervisors unholy pact to raise the taxes of California more than a billion dollars.

Just how the teachers sold this deal to the supervisors probably never will be known, but it is understandable that the supervisors, if there were any chance of getting off the hook on tax increases, would take the chance, and allow someone else to carry the load.

So when the teachers came along with the pot-of-gold proposition, it was no surprise that the supervisors snapped as it like hungry turtles snapping at flies.

HOWEVER, the flaws in the proposition point out very clearly to people who are in some manner acclimated to the economics of the situation, that there is no end of the rainbow prize to be found if the proposition passes.

Rather, it has the potential of a vast and useless tax increase of $1.3 billion dollars just to start with, and more to come in the future; in fact more every year in the future until the inevitable comes to pass. Which is, the taxpayers will go broke in a vain effort to support public education.

Even some leaders of labor, which noramlly would be listed on the pro side of proposition 8, have climbed on the bandwagon against the proposition.

JOSEPH J. DIVINY, president of the California Teamsters Legislative Council, said that "any measure which offers itself as a property tax relief and yet provides there can be no limit imposed on property taxes must be termed as a complete hoax.

"Proposition 8 is a subterfuge for increased teacher salaries in the name of property tax relief."

In making this observation, Diviny pretty well hit the nail on the head.

Taxpayers of California have in the past not been negligent in kow-towing to the educational system, and have provided the schools with virtually everything they have asked, short of turning the whole area of state financing over to them. Now, lacking full control, the California Teachers Association wants all that's left.!

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Proposition 8 Called Blank Check

Regarding Proposition 8 — Governor Reagan said this proposition is a fraud. Budget Director Post and Finance Director Weinberger disapprove of it. It is a blank check for unlimited spending and tax debt. It reads "nothing in this constitution shall constitute a limit on property taxes". Even worse, it has a clause that reads "the Legislature may establish maximum property tax rates and bonding limittations for units of local government". (5,700 of them). This means that the people will lose their rights to vote on their own tax raises. Vote No on Proposition 8.

More Should Have Visited Candidates

I would like to commend the League of Women Voters of Central Marin for providing the citizens of Marin County with the opportunity to meet with each of the 12 candidates for the municipal court on an individual basis at Marin Catholic High School.

It is truly a shame that more citizens did not take advantage of this fine opportunity to meet with the candidates. For they may have found as I did that the candidates in this race who put up the most and biggest signs are certainly not necessarily the most qualified . . .

Frustrated Citizen Turns New Leaf

These days everyone is talking about frustrations. They are being used as the excuse for all sorts of bizarre, and in many cases, illegal behavior and action. . .

Unfortunately, not much is noticed about the frustrations of those of us — black, white, red, yellow and brown — who work at our jobs, pay our taxes, cause no trouble, mount no protests, offer no pie-in-the-sky solutions, make no nonnegotiable demands, and generally go about the business of trying to make a living. But we do have frustrations — lots of them!

Here are some of mine:

High taxes that keep going higher. . .

The naivete of youngsters who think they are educated — who do not realize that education demands discipline of the mind. . .

The stupidity of those who believe that peace can be won merely by turning our backs on trouble. . .

The young facists who insist on their right of free speech and assembly — but who deny those rights to all who disagree with them.

The fuzzy-minded liberals who condone and excuse, and even encourage, violence and rioting as a "way to be heard."

The colleges and universities — and the professors and instructors in them — that refuse to teach any kind of discipline, mind or body. . .

Welfare workers who make

Letters to "What Our Readers Say" are welcomed. Only letters with signatures and addresses will be considered. Please keep them under 200 words. We reserve the right to cut letters.

little, if any, effort to get their clients off welfare.

The utter arrogance of small minority groups. . .

The irresponsibility of much of the press in dignifying and even extolling such small and noisy groups with coverage far in excess of their real news value.

The mindlessness of those who burn and pillage and throw stones — and of those who excuse such actions or try to explain them away.

Our supineness in not supporting with vigor and strong actions the efforts of our police to maintain law and order.

Our continued toleration of courts that permit procrastination in bringing the charged to trial. . .

These are some of my frustrations — there are many more!

So what do I intend to do about them?. . .Something I should have done long ago. I'm going to work, not just vote, for the election of the kind of men who will pledge to bring sanity and responsibility back into government. . .

I'm going to work to make the government responsive to my wishes! I've let it go by default long enough!

Generation Gap: Here's An Example

Recently a young lady knocked at our door and announced that she was a student at the College of Marin, and asked if I would sign a petition on the Cambodian issue. I replied that first I would need to know the purpose and details of the petition, and that I would be happy to listen to her advocacy of the proposed petition for five minutes if she would agree to listen to my analysis or refutatioon for a similar period. Her reply: "I really do not have the time."

Is this the "generation gap"? Youth complains that adults do not understand them. Is not the reciprocal also true? How can an understanding be established without dialogue or an exchange of ideas? . . .

A solid and democratic basis for the support of justified changes in laws or modifications of social structure could be obtained more surely by respectfully listening to all sides of an issue, and by personal evaluation of the facts and arguments. If schools and colleges can give direction and training in critical thinking, rather than blind involvement in current issues, our national goals of freedom and deomcracy may yet survive.

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

Returned from a day's outing at the beach, a restaurant owner asked his oldest waiter, a race track habitue, "Did Gina Lollobridga come in today.?" "I don't know," confessed the waiter. "I had to leave after the sixth race."

A candidate for governor in a southern state was asked what he planned to do if elected. "That's not worrying me a bit," he replied. "The big question in my mind is: what am I going to do if I'm not elected?"

French See U.S. Repeating Their Own Mistakes In Asia

PARIS — Having made every mistake in the Indochina book during the eight years of their futile and costly war, the French see the United States making the same errors on a vastly greater scale. The invasion of Cambodia, with the South Vietnamese forces threatening to remain there indefinitely, is the climax in the French view of this tragedy of errors.

It can mean a war of endless duration now that the Thieu-Ky regime has thumbed its collective nose at Washington with a statement about "silly men" trying to set a date for withdrawal from Cambodia of the South Vietnamese force. Presumably the United States would continue to give air and logistical support, since otherwise the Vietnamese would be compelled to pull out in a week or so.

SOMETHING WENT very wrong with the calculation of the generals in Saigon and the little group of policy-makers in the White House. Until General Ky spilled the beans with his "silly men" statement, they had apparently calculated on a half-concealed occupation of the sanctuaries in Cambodia by a combined South Vietnamese and Thai force, with other Asians thrown in if any could be found to sustain a "peace-keeping" operation.

This overlooked ancient rivalries and hostilities not to be papered over by the naive hopes of American planners. Both the Vietnamese and the Thais have long harbored ambitions in neighboring Cambodia. The invasion may well serve as an excuse for the rivals to carve out chunks of their next-door neighbor, relatively helpless in the midst of a kind of civil war.

The hapless Cambodians would be caught in a squeeze between two armies equipped by the United States with hundreds of millions of dollars in modern weapons.

AND TO THIS the presence of a half-million Vietnamese in Cambodia and relatively the same number of Cambodians in South Vietnam. How to unscramble this mixture, as nationalist feelings rise, it is impossible to see. President Nixon's appointed role for the United States as "peace keeper" in Asia looks ludicrous alongside the ancient complexities of race, religion and the rivalries of nationalism and ideology.

The rules of the western power game applied to the subtleties of the East inevitably suggests the bulldozer in the pagoda. Power can demolish but can it reconstruct and reconstitute? That is the question underlying the tragedy of Southeast Asia.

IN MARCH Prince Norodom Sihanouk, the mercurial figure who succeeded for so long in holding the Cambodian tangle together in at least an outward show of neutrality, came to Paris with his wife for his annual medical checkup. He was here when anti-Communist (more nearly perhaps anti-Vietnamese) demonstrations broke out in Phnom Pehn outside the North Vietnamese and National Liberation Front embassies. He was then pro-western in his outlook and he apparently figured it would do no harm to let the Communists know how many of his people felt.

Due to return by way of Moscow and Peking, Sihanouk lunched the day before his departure with a French friend of long standing who is also one of the true authorities on Indochina. The friend urged him to return directly to his capital at the earliest moment. Sihanouk seemed to agree. He had had similar advice in a meeting with President Georges Pompidou.

INSTEAD, the prince went to Moscow. There both Premier Alexei Kosygin and party secretary Leonid Brezhnev are said to have urged him to bypass Peking and go at once to Phnom Penh. They had, of course, an obvious reason for not wanting him to fall under control of their great rival in the Communist struggle for world power.

But Sihanouk's two sons were in Peking. He flew to the Red Chinese capital. While he was there the revolution in Cambodia occurred and the regime of Lon Nol took over. Even had he returned at once, Sihanouk might have failed to hold his country together. But, if he had succeeded and the show of neutrality had been maintained, the U.S. would have had no excuse for the Cambodian invasion. On such narrow and incalculable mischances large events turn.

In light of their own failure, the French may be forgiven some schadenfreude — the German word for joy in another's troubles — at the American struggle in the trap of Southeast Asia. But the feeling is one of the deepest concern, for knowledgeable French know what a greatly enlarged war can mean in the threat of a world conflagration.

Promise Of 'No Invasion' May Upset Eire Regime

By DONAL P. O'HIGGINS

DUBLIN (UPI) — Premier Jack Lynch has jeopardized his political future with a promise the independent Irish Republic will never invade the British ruled 5,451 square miles on this island's northeastern corner. Political observers say Irish sympathy for the Roman Catholic minority in Protestant dominated Northern Ireland is so strong that frustration at not being able to intervene in case of major sectarian violence could prove fatal to Lynch's government.

LYNCH'S PLEDGE not to use Irish troops to invade Northern Iraland "in any circumstances" came at the end of a political crisis over his dismissal of two ministers he said were implicated in a plot to smuggle guns across the border between the two Irelands.

The premier's handling of the crisis was criticized right from the beginning—starting with queries about why he did not take action until opposition leader Liam Cosgrave announced he had presented Lynch with evidence linking the two ministers to arms smuggling. Lynch himself seemed to make matters worse by saying he first heard of the plot some time before Cosgrave called it to his attention.

The dismissal revealed a serious rift in Lynch's own Fianna Fail party between hardliners who favored force and less militant members.

But it was Lynch's final speech in defense of his action that may be most significant in the long run.

"We could not and we would not in any circumstances send the Irish Army across the border," the 53-year-old premier told the Irish Parliament.

THE FUROR created by the statement contrasted sharply with approval heard for Lynch's action last summer during the August riots in Belfast and the three-day battle in Londonderry which killed nine and wounded hundreds. Lynch declared then the Irish Republic would not "stand idly by" and watch Catholics in the north suffer attack.

He sent field hospitals to border areas and left unspoken the threat of sending fighting men across the border, satisifying his political colleagues and the Irishmen who took to Dublin's streets to call for action.

Now Lynch has disavowed physical force and increasingly the Irish echo the words of Dublin dock worker Rory O'Connell: "If they bash the Catholics again this year, we won't depend on the British to help them. We'll do it ourselves."

Peripheral Canal Appears Dead —If You Believe In Logic

If one believed firmly in a logical world, then reports of the past week would reassure one that the California water plan and the peripheral canal around the delta were dead as doornails.

News items:

1. An engineer and a zoologist say the peripheral canal would make San Francisco Bay a disaster area.

2. Th U.S. Geological Survey says the bay could become a dead sea if the canal diverts fresh water from it.

3. A Republican state Senate candidate announces his opposition to the peripheral canal because of its potential ecological havoc.

THERE ARE TWO sides to every story, but there is mounting testimony from experts that the grandiose California Water Plan, which would divert Sacramento and San Joaquin river's water to southern California, is a shortcut to disaster for northern California.

By cutting down fresh water flow into the bay, it could make the bay a graveyard instead of a bay rich in marine life, and the agriculturally-rich delta a wasteland.

San Francisco supervisors thought enough of the danger this week to send messages to Sacramento asking the canal project be halted.

A lot of Marin County governing bodies have taken positions against their constituents.

They might do well to make their feelings known about the water plan which could make Marin's shoreline look like the Great Salt Lake.

A COLLEGE student, arguing for his right to drop out this term to work against the war in Asia, had a persuasive argument the other day. "If your house was on fire, wouldn't you leave work to go put it out?"

Yes. Anyone would. And students can't be blamed for trying to minimize the damage to their school careers as they withdraw.

Societies are not changed — peacefully or otherwise — by people whose first concern is to make progress with penalty.

INCIDENTALLY, most black students at College of Marin and elsewhere are sitting out the current anti-war activity. Black speakers at College of Marin laid out the reasons — they consider racism, and the plight of the Black Panther Party, to be the prime issues, and the war issue merely a convenient place for whites to divert their energies for protest.

It's difficult to argue the racism issue. The deaths of black students at Orangeburg, S.C., and Jackson State College, Miss., produced little stir in the nation — and the deaths of white students at Kent State University aroused the biggest protest since the Vietnam war began.

It is still difficult, however, to equate the Black Panther dilemma with the war.

Some 300 Black Panthers are in jail throughout the country, and it may well be that some are being railroaded. But 300 is just about two weeks' death toll — of Americans alone — in Southeast Asia, and a big part of those 300 are black GIs. Their lives with the tens of thousands who died before them, must outweigh 300 lives by numbers alone.

Spiro's Job As Fund-Raiser: Put Raw Meat On The Table

WASHINGTON — Probably the most misunderstood person in the Nixon administration is Vice President Spiro T. Agnew. Everyone believes that just because he attacks the press and TV media twice a week, Agnew is hostile to the communications people. But this not the case. I have it from a reliable source that Agnew finds no pleasure in his work, and is constantly hoping that the President will give him something important to do.

My source, who claimed to be so close to the vice president that he had once been hit in the head by a volley ball Agnew was trying to serve, told me, "The vice president is as upset as anybody about having to take after the Eastern Establishment press in every speech."

"THEN WHY does he do it?" I asked.

"They make him do it."

"Who does?"

"The Republican fund raisers. It's money in the bank."

"I don't understand."

"Well, take his speech in Houston last week. It was a $500-a-plate dinner. When a guy shells out that kind of money, he doesn't want to hear the same old stuff about how well the President is doing with the war and the economy. The contributor knows that already. He wants some raw meat on that $500 plate."

"YOU MEAN Mr. Agnew is supposed to supply the raw meat?"

"Exactly. He has to get the juices flowing or those people will just keep their hands in their pockets. Let us suppose you were a Texan and you had just paid $1,000 for your wife and yourself. What could possibly make a dinner of that kind worthwhile?"

"An attack on the New York Times, the Washington Post and the three television networks!"

"Of course. And, if you throw in the students and the professors for dessert, you've given those Texans a helluva meal."

"You can say that again," I said.

"IT'S NO ACCIDENT the vice president always uses a Republican fund-raising dinner to take off on the communications media," he said.

"Why doesn't he attack the Democrats? Surely the Republicans would enjoy that?"

"Not half as much as they enjoy him knocking the media. The people in the White House who write his speeches know what raw meat works and what raw meat doesn't work at a fund raiser. One chunk out of CBS' hide is worth 10 bites out of Senator Fulbright's."

"Then you mean all the vice president is doing when he attacks the press is raising money for the Republicans?"

"Of course. Mr. Agnew loves the press. Some of his best friends are newspapermen. He reads the Washington Post and New York Times religiously every morning. You don't think he'd read those papers if he didn't like them. He watches ABC, NBC and CBS every night. Surely he wouldn't watch the news on television if he thought it was slanted."

"I never thought of that."

"YOU MUST understand a vice president's job is not an easy one. There isn't much for him to do except raise money for his party."

"But isn't the vice president finding it hard to say something new about the media after speaking to so many dinners?"

"He's finding it harder all the time. That's why in Houston he started to attack people by name, instead of just the publications they worked for."

"I notice that," I said. 'And I, frankly, was very disappointed."

"Why?"

"Well, if he was going to start attacking columnists by name, I was hoping he would do it alphabetically."

Proposition 8 means higher taxes.

Vote no on 8

Should California be required to raise taxes by $1,130,000,000? That's what Proposition 8 is really all about. Proposition 8 means a bigger tax bite for every taxpayer. It does not guarantee a reduction in your property tax. It may result in a small savings for the average homeowner...about $25...the first year. But, it will mean an additional $200 in other taxes for the average family of four, homeowners and renters alike.

Proposition 8 is being passed off as a panacea for property owners. Simple mathematics proves it is far from it.

A lot of Californians have been deliberately misled about Proposition 8. You must act. Tell everyone you know the real story on Proposition 8. And be sure you vote no on 8 June 2. Make sure this piece of bad legislation does not become law.

Remember, if Proposition 8 passes, taxes will go up. $1,130,000,000 this year, and more each year thereafter. And there will be no way to limit the taxation of property short of a constitutional amendment. It will be a financial disaster for the taxpayers of California if Proposition 8 is approved.

Unruh Hits Hollywood Poverty; Yorty Decries Economic Slump

COMBINED AP & UPI

Democrat Jess Unruh, campaigning for governor in Hollywood, says the California film industry "is really on the rocks" and Gov. Reagan — himself a former actor — has done nothing about it "but wring his hands."

Unruh visited the Hollywood office of the state unemployment bureau Wednesday while campaigning in the Los Angeles area. The office was nearly filled with out-of-work bit players, script girls, sound men and others.

Unruh later told newsmen, "There are a lot of people here and in other areas of the state who are in a personal depression."

"If there is nothing the governor can do about it," Unruh said, "then he ought not to be governor of this state."

Unruh repeated his claim that he would win his primary contest with Los Angeles Mayor San Yorty next week, but said he thought the result would be much closer than many of his own campaign aides believe.

In another campaign development, a federal court judge in Los Angeles ordered Rep. George Brown to stop using his congressional free postage privilege for sending out a campaign leaflet.

Brown, who is in a tight race with Rep. John V. Tunney for the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate seat now held by Republican George Murphy, has been accused by Tunney of illegally sending out 300,000 campaign leaflets postage-free.

Democrat Unruh stood firmly neutral today on Prop. 8, the controversial tax measure on next Tuesday's primary election ballot.

As the gubernatorial candidate described it: "I'm ambiguous."

Prop. 8 is backed by Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty, Unruh's chief opponent, and opposed by Republican Gov. Reagan, who has his own Assembly-passed tax reform plan pending in the state Senate.

Commenting on Prop. 8, Unruh said: "I have grave misgivings about where Gov. Reagan might raise the money from. He might very well stick two cents on the sales tax, or extend the sales tax to food.

But Unruh said he is confident he will be inaugurated governor next January, and thus inherit the Prop. 8 headache if the measure passes. He acknowledged taxes would have to be increased to finance the measure, but said he didn't know by how much.

Wednesday night, 90 persons paid $250 a plate to attend an Unruh dinner — probably the biggest fund-raising event of the primary campaign — which featured actor Keenan Wynn, actress Candice Bergen and Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif.

Wynn told the audience at a plush San Francisco restaurant: "I have been quiet about politics for two decades . . . Do you remember the Hollywood black list?"

Wynn referred to the alleged Hollywood Communists who were denied work during the McCarthy era in the 1950s.

But Wynn added, "In the 1970s silence is an obscene luxury."

He said, "The act in Sacramento has been on too long, and Reagan should be replaced by Unruh."

Mayor Yorty predicts a "tremendous Democratic sweep" in November unless the nation's economy changes drastically.

He discounts Wednesday's stock market rebound as "Just technical" and too brief to reflect a trend.

The 60-year-old mayor, on his last scheduled Northern California campaign swing before next Tuesday's primary election, also warned Democrats they should face up to the fact that Jess Unruh's image is that of "Big Daddy, the political boss."

"The fact of the matter is if we Democrats don't face up to this issue now, Republicans will never let him forget about it. If the Democratic Party wants to win, I have to be the nominee."

Doctor Convicted In Silicone Death

PARIS (UPI)—A prominent doctor was convicted Wednesday of negligence in the death of a topless nightclub dancer who died after he injected silicone in her breasts to make them larger.

Dr. Francois Sauville, 70, testified he gave the girl a bowl of tomato soup and sent her home with orders to take a hot water bottle to bed if she became ill after the injection. She died 24 hours later.

Sauville was given a six month suspended jail sentence and ordered to pay a $909 fine and $17,200 compensation to the girl's parents.

The girl, Regine Rumen, was a 28-year-old dancer in the bare-breasted floor show at the Lido Cabaret.

Chamber Supports A, Fights Proposition 8

The Marin County Chamber of Commerce and Visitor's Bureau has endorsed Proposition A and opposed Proposition 8.

Proposition A would authorize low-rent federally financed housing for the elderly and for low-income families up to 600 units. Proposition 8 would require the state to pay 50 per cent of school costs and 90 per cent of social welfare costs not covered by federal funds.

Border Guards Defect To West

BERLIN (AP) — Two East German army border guards defected to West Berlin today and brought two weapons with them.

Police said a 19-year-old corporal and a 21-year-old private crossed the barriers they were guarding apparently unnoticed. They brought a light machine gun, a submachine gun and a flare pistol. This indicated they had abandoned a border watchtower, where such machine guns are standard equipment.

It was the third time this year that two East German border guards had defected. Border guards operate in pairs, with one soldier expected to watch the other as well as the frontier.

West Berlin police say 519 uniformed East Germans have defected to West Berlin since the Berlin Wall was built in August 1961.

Tax Reform Awaiting Tuesday Poll Results

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Reagan's tax reform plan was at the print shop today getting two amendments inserted while legislative leaders marked time waiting to see if it will need more work after Tuesday's election.

They agreed that if Prop. 8 is approved by voters, they'll have to amend the governor's plan to come up with more than $1 billion in new revenue.

Some sources mentioned a contingency plan being drawn up so it will be ready late next week in case Prop. 8 passes, but none would discuss it publicly.

Assembly Speaker Robert T. Monagan, R-Tracy, was asked at his news conference Wednesday whether such a contingency plan was being worked up.

"No, not in any detail," he said. "And there isn't any great magic to this."

Monagan explained that major tax sources "for raising funds in excess of a billion dollars" are the sales tax and the income tax.

Sen. Walter Stiern, D-Bakersfield, chairman of the Senate Revenue and Taxation Committee, said in an interview that he agreed with Monagan's analysis.

"It certainly makes it a whole new ball game if that thing passes," Stiern said of Prop. 8.

Stiern's committee accepted amendments which Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, had promised some assemblymen for their votes last week when he was pushing the tax plan through the Assembly.

School Dope Ring Broken With Raids

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The city's narcotics bureau has cut a possible mainline supply of drugs for Bay Area high schoolers with a pair of raids.

Undercover agents engineered the LSD raids Wednesday and in the process impounded close to $80,000 worth of drugs — 38,000 capsules of LSD and nearly 30 kilos of marijuana.

The raids, in the Richmond District and near the Haight-Ashbury Panhandle, also resulted in the arrest of eight persons.

In the Richmond riad, an agent made a wholesale purchase of $5,000 worth of LSD, which later was analyzed as of "very good quality." As a result, six persons were arrested and 17,000 tabs of LSD and four kilos of marijuana were confiscated.

The second raid was pulled off by two agents working within what police call a "school crew."

The agents had been observing persons suspected of selling drugs to high school students. Two men were arrested and 20,000 tabs of LSD and 25 kilos of marijuana confiscated.

The LSD haul on the first raid was valued at $42,500, based on the going street price of $2.50. The drugs on the second raid were considered of lower quality, probably selling between $1 and $2 per capsule.

Legislature Control Rides On Ballot

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Half of the state Senate's 40 seats are up for grabs in the primary election, with 16 incumbents seeking reelection to four year terms and three veterans just watching the scramble to replace them when they retire.

Republicans and Democrats are battling for control of the Senate, which now is GOP-controlled at 21-19.

Three races loom as dangerous for incumbent Democrats; those of James R. Mills, San Diego; Walter W. Stiern, Bakersfield, and Lawrence Walsh, Huntington Park. Another Democrat, Sen. Alan Short, Stockton, is expected to prevail in a growingly conservative district.

For Republicans, worry centers on Lewis F. Sherman, whose Oakland district is more than 60 per cent Democratic and a former legislator, Sen. John Holmdahl, is running hard. GOP strategists also are concerned about Sen. William E. Coombs, San Bernardino. Two highly-regarded Democratic challengers are battling to repiace Coombs, with a woman county supervisor Nancy E. Smith, slightly favored over Dave Brownell of Victorville.

Three retiring veterans are more or less just spectators in the Senate races this year. Their successors are not expected to change the political lineup, however. They are Sen. Hugh M. Burns, D-Fresno, Sen. Richard J. Dolwig, R-Atherton, and Sen. McCarthy, R-San Rafael.

Sen. George Danielson, D-Los Angeles, is running for Congress. So is Sen. John G. Schmitz, R-Tustin. Democrat Alfred Alquist, San Jose, wants to be lieutenant governor. And two GOP senators — John Harmer of Glendale and George Deukmejian of Long Beach — are seeking the Republican attorney general nomination. The probability is Alquist, Danielson and Schmitz will make it, necessitating more Senate changes. But Harmer and Deukmejian are expected to remain senators with Evelle Younger figured to beat them.

Meanwhile, Secretary of State H. P. Sullivan has predicted that 65 to 70 per cent of California's voters will vote in Tuesday's primary.

Since the state's total registration has reached 8,053,389, this would mean between 5.2 million and 5.6 million ballots would be cast. Voting hours in the state's 21,501 precincts are 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Tuesday's election may indicate whether Republicans or Democrats control the 80-member Assembly for next year's reapportionment, a revision with major political impact throughout the 1970s.

Republicans now hold a paper-thin one-vote margin, 40-39, following the death last week of Republican Patrick D. McGee, R-Los Angeles.

Republicans admit at least three of their men are in trouble: Don Mulford, whose Oakland district is changing to a Democratic area, Earle C. Crandall of San Jose, and Clare Berryhill of Ceres, who narrowly won a special election

Assembly Democrats with difficult districts include Ken Cory of Garden Grove and Ken MacDonald of Ojai. Republicans say they may have a chance to pick up the Fresno seat being vacated by George N. Zenovich, who's going for the Senate seat left vacant by the retirement of Hugh M. Burns.

Meanwhile, California's two most active minor parties, the American Independent Party and the Peace and Freedom Party, fielded a total of 17 candidates for state offices in Tuesday's primary.

The American Independents had 10 candidates. Peace and Freedom had seven. Each party entered two candidates in the gubernatorial primary and the American Independent party had two candidates in the lieutenant governor race as well. There was only one lieutenant governor candidate in the Peace and Freedom party primary.

Cecilia A. Pedroza, who described herself as a consumer protection expert, says she is the only women ever to run for lieutenant governor. She is a Democrat.

Mrs. Alberta Jordan, a Republican, sought the job held by her late husband, Frank Jordan, who was secretary of state from 1942 until his death earlier this year. Mrs. Ivy Baker Priest was unopposed for the GOP nomination for state treasurer. Marguerite M. Buckley ran unopposed for the Peace and Freedom Party nomination for attorney general.

Occupations ranging from welder to actor to university professor were listed by candidates seeking their party's nomination in Tuesday's primary election.

Those trying their hand at politics included a mathematician, a systems engineer, a construction truck driver, theatrical agent, housewives and reporters.

RELIGIOUS VANDALISM BRINGS GRIEF

Roberta Savitsky cries unconsolably as her father, Rabbi Mordecai Savitsky, lifts a badly damaged Sefer Torah from the Holy Ark at the Congregation Chezra Shas Synagaogue in the Dorchester section of Boston. Vandals broke into the synagogue sometime early yesterday, setting fire to the sacred scroll, smashing windows and ransacking two rooms. (AP Wirephoto)

Nixon To Join Graham On Dixie Campus

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon flies to the California White House at San Clemente today for the Memorial Day weekend, stopping en route at Knoxville, Tenn., to speak tonight at evangelist Billy Graham's crusade.

The crusade is being held at the University of Tennessee's outdoor stadium and it will be the first time Nixon will have been on a college campus since his decision to send U.S. troops into Cambodia touched off student violence.

CAMPUS CALM

But the University of Tennessee has been relatively free of unrest. There were demonstrations Jan. 15 over the selection of a new president for the university and peaceful rallies after Nixon's Cambodia decision and the killing of four students by National Guardsmen at Kent State.

Nixon and Graham have been friends for years. Graham has spoken twice at the Sunday religious services Nixon inaugurated in the White House.

The White House said Nixon would speak on the problems of youth, particularly the widespread dissent among college students.

Nixon last appeared at a public gathering on Feb. 5 in front of the Indianapolis, Ind., city hall during a two-day Midwest swing to spotlight his antipollution program.

70,000 EXPECTED

About 20,000 students attend the University of Tennessee and Graham's drawing power is expected to gain an audience of 70,000 for Nixon.

As a prelude to Nixon's appearance, Graham said: "The President's visit will not bring any change in the program of the crusade."

"He is President of all the people, Democrats and Republicans and there will not be anything political, I hope, in his visit," said Graham.

No Sign Of Action On Cambodian Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is ready to adjourn for the Memorial Day weekend without any sign of action soon on the proposal to curb U.S. operations in Cambodia.

In a brief floor flurry Wednesday, Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield first suggested a vote today on one of a series of amendments to negate the proposed curb. Then, obviously embarassed, he objected to one.

The unexplained reason: high absenteeism before a holiday, In addition, Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, the bill's floor manager, planned to leave for California for his son's marriage.

"It is my belief that what we are seeing is in effect a stalling operation up to this time," Mansfield said. "We've spent over two weeks on this bill."

But, a few minutes later, the Montana Democrat's objection to a vote today prompted a perplexed response from Sen. Robert J. Dole, R-Kan., sponsor of an amendment to waive any cutoff on funds while Americans are held prisoner in Cambodia.

"We're not stalling," Dole said.

There was some talk of a vote early next week—possibly Tuesday—on Dole's proposal, but other amendments would have to be disposed of before the Senate can come to grips with the Cambodia cutoff move, sponsored by Church and Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky.

The first key vote could come on a proposal under consideration that would add to the Cooper-Church proposal language that nothing in it would interfere with the President's constitutional authority to protect American troops—something opponents of the Cambodia operation say would give him a blank check to repeat later.

Although Cooper-Church supporters are believed to command a majority now, Dole said "Time is working on the President's side."

Republican Leader Hugh Scott said Wednesday he expects a vote by June 15, and that most American troops will be out of Cambodia by that date.

If the withdrawal is finished before a vote comes, Scott told reporters, "it would seem to me that would moot the thrust of the amendment."

But Mansfield disagreed. "The intent of the amendment is to make sure that the President will not on his own go into Cambodia in the future," he said. "We're going to stay with this proposal until it is decided one way or the other."

Driver Is Released From Base Hospital

A 25-year-old San Rafael woman was released from Hamilton Air Force Base hospital today after being held overnight for observation of possible head injuries following an accident on Lucas Valley Road yesterday.

The California Highway Patrol said Victoria E. Troutman, of 45 Louise Street, Apt. 2, was injured when her car ran off the road about 2.3 miles west of Mount McKinley Road at 12:20 p.m. No further details were available.

Arson Spurs Closure Of State College

FULLERTON (AP) — Student strike headquarters was shut down and the campus closed for three hours by officials at the state college here today after a pre-dawn fire gutted a single-story wooden building.

Fire officials attributed the blaze to arson and set damage at $25,000.

Located about 20 feet away from the strike headquarters, the 10-year-old building was being used as a temporary registration facility for fall enrollment. Some records were destroyed, but a school spokesman said all could be reconstituted by computer.

Lt. Donald Shields, acting college president, closed the campus until 8 a.m., and ordered strike headquarters vacated, an action he reportedly had planned on taking prior to the fire.

Later Shields banned until further notice all rallies, meetings and use of sound amplification equipment to "maintain an atmosphere of calm and order on campus."

The previous night, a small fire broke out following the explosion of a homemade bomb at Cal State Long Beach, causing $100 damage in a faculty office building.

Las Gallinas Is Opposing Sewer Bond Proposition

Passage of San Rafael's Proposition B, the city's proposed sewer bond issue on the June 2 ballot would be "highly unfair" for the residents of Terra Linda and San Rafael Park who live inside San Rafael, the Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District board declared last night.

The board adopted a resolution opposing the sewer bond proposition, to be forwarded to the San Rafael City Council and the State Board of Equalization, according to secretary Lelia C. Sayers.

The resolution says the "property owners in the Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District are paying for sewer bonds for the Las Gallinas Valley and . . . if Proposition "B" passes, the residents of the Las Gallinas Valley will be paying for sewer bonds for the benefits of the residents of San Rafael Sanitary District as well as for their own."

Mrs. Sayers said about a quarter of the Las Gallinas sanitary district is located within San Rafael city limits.

The resolution also claims that if the sewer bond issue is passed by the voters June 2, some property owners within Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District will be "double-taxed" to provide improvements from which they will not benefit.

The secretary said property owners in her district are now paying 15 cents per $100 assessed valuation for existing bonds. Mrs. Sayers added that Proposition "B" would increase the current rate about 8.5 cents for district residents in San Rafael.

Novato Calls Bids For Fire Hoses

The Novato Fire District board last night called for bids to be opened at 7:30 p.m. July 8 for new fire hoses, according to Fire Chief Jack Kidder.

The bids will be for 3,200 feet of three-inch hose, 1,000 feet of 2.5-inch hose and 1,800 feet of 1.5-inch hose.

The board approved displaying the snorkel truck at the Little League pancake breakfast June 6 at the Novato Fair shopping center and having a fire truck on standby at the rodeo on June 21 at the Novato Horsemen's Arena on Bugeia Lane.

An urgent message for Marin Republicans!

One Man...Above All

"Over the past ten years, you have entrusted us to serve you and our party in various leadership capacities. Day in and day out, we have planned, organized, walked precincts, solicited funds and worked to build our party and the principles it represents.

This experience has taught us to know and to respect Republican candidates whose views embrace the entire spectrum of opinion. Our everyday involvement has given us important knowledge as to those who helped; those who hindered; and those who simply weren't interested enough to contribute time, energy or effort.

Every four years, all of us are asked to choose a man to represent our views in the State Senate. Those of us who have been priviledged to give some direction to Republican activities in Marin County would be remiss if we did not take a positive stand when such a critical selection is upon us. Now is that time. And we dare not pick the wrong man.

Based on our experience, we believe it is essential to respectfully suggest that one man -- above all, has genuinely demonstrated those Republican qualities for which we've worked throughout the years. More importantly, that one man will honestly represent your ideas and ideals consistent with your Republican philosophy."

We urge you to vote for Don Pinkerton for State Senate. He merits your confidence.

Lurline Sold To Greek Shippers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Matson Nagivation Co.'s Pacific flagship, the SS Lurline, has been sold to the Chandris Lines of Greece for operation under the Greek flag.

Announcement of the sale, subject to approval by the Maritime Administration, was made after a meeting of Matson's board of directors here Wednesday. Terms of the sale, made through A. L. Burbank & Co. Ltd., of New York, were not announced.

The final cruise by the 26,000-ton liner under Matson operation will take place early this summer.

A. J. Chandris, chairman of Chandris Lines, said she will be renamed Britanis and operate on Chandris' round-the-world service with the Australis and Ellinis.

Air California Eyes New Trade

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Air California, which just came out of a merger cancellation with Pacific Southwest Airlines is now discussing a possible takeover by Westgate-California Corp., a San Diego-based holding company.

Westgate spokesmen said Wednesday it may offer $8 a share for a minimum two-thirds of Air California's 408,198 shares of common stock, which is worth about $2.2 million. PSA cancelled plans to acquire Air California last week blaming delays on hearings before the state Public Utilities Commission.

Both Air California and PSA operate only in California.

Westgate owns Yellow Cab Co. and Aero Commuter-Catalina Airlines.

Senior Citizen Honors To Hub Woman, Marin City Man, Gnoss

For the second year in a row, Marin has two outstanding senior citizens of the year.

Ethel Bryce, 82, of San Anselmo and Louis Hensley, 67, of Marin City, were honored at a luncheon today at the Holiday Inn, San Rafael.

Miss Bryce was named outstanding senior for contributions within a seniors organization and Hensley for contributions to the community.

Also honored at the luncheon with a special achievement award was Supervisor William E. Gnoss. He was presented with a plaque for his many years of dedicated service to the concerns and interests of Marin County elderly.

Miss Bryce and Hensley also received plaques and their names will be inscribed on another plaque in the county library at the civic center.

Hensley of 627 Burgess Court, was nominated for the award by the Marin City Seniors. He retired from his job as an order filler at the Atlas Paper Co. warehouse two and a half years ago, and now volunteers his time to transport elderly persons and handicapped children to doctor appointments and hospitals.

In addition to driving the minibus, which holds about nine persons, three days a week, he is also a Sunday School teacher at the First Baptist Church in Marin City. He hasn't missed a session in 13 years.

Miss Bryce, nominated by the Marin Senior Association, is serving as president of the association for the third time this year, serving also in 1961 and 1962.

She was secretary of the hostess group which managed the Fourth Street senior center in San Rafael when it started, and served for eight years on the senior coordinating council's board of directors.

Miss Bryce, of 53 Woodland Avenue, also was secretary for four years for the advisory board when the senior center was at Second and Brooks streets, and she also served for six years as volunteer librarian of St. Anselm's Church library.

Honored with the winners today were the other nominees: Valerie M. Ansel, San Anselmo; Granville L. Beedle, Mill Valley; Nellie Blagg, San Rafael; Margot Bull, San Anselmo; Marguerite Clark, Santa Venetia; Jean Clarkson, Santa Venetia; Ethel Davis, Marinwood; Earl F. Dunphy, Sausalito; Pearl Dutra, Mill Valley; Ethel Hinnekamp, Novato; Ruth Laidlaw, Homested Valley; Elta McCart, Terra Linda; Elsie Pomeroy, Larkspur; Lorraine Straub, Fairfax; Jessie Sullivan, San Anselmo, and Margaret Weber, San Anselmo.

Kensington Trio Offers Concert

A free public concert will be presented by the Kensington Trio at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the First Presbyterian Church, 72 Kensington oRad, San Anselmo.

The trio is made up of Alison Hanson, cello, the wife of a student at the San Francisco Theological Seminary; Stephen Golden, violin, a student at the seminary, and Wilbur Russell, piano, a member of the seminary's department of sacred music faculty.

The concert will feature the Bay Area premiere of Ross Lee Finney's "Trio No. 2."

Corte Madera's Tax Rate $1.24?

A reevaluation of the proposed 1970-71 budget for Corte Madera indicates the tax rate now stands at about $1.24 per $100 assessed valuation, not $1.20 as thought at close of the town council's Monday night budget session.

Town Mgr. Ronald L. Usher said today the additional 4 cents was discovered Tuesday in additions which had been made to the town's retirement fund.

The town council will continue its study of the city manager's proposed budget June 10 at 7:30 p.m. at the Town Hall.

Bettini Backed For Bridge Board Post

San Rafael Mayor C. Paul Bettini was selected by Marin's city councils by a 6-5 vote last night for appointment to the Golden Gate Bridge District board.

Bettini edged San Anselmo City Councilman Kenneth L. Anderson in secret balloting at a meeting of the Marin Council of Mayors and Councilmen at the Alta Mira Hotel in Sausalito.

Bettini was selected to succeed former Mill Valley Mayor Dean N. Meyer, who defeated him for the same post in a similar vote, 6-5, in January 1969.

Meyer didn't seek reelection to his council post this year and therefore gave up his bridge board seat.

Anderson was appointed to the Marin County Transit District Board in February, a job also held by Meyer while he served on the bridge board.

Appointments to the bridge board are made by the Marin County Board of Supervisors which is expected to follow the councilmen's selection.

Bettini has been mayor of San Rafael since 1965 and previously served on the San Rafael Board of Education for 10 years.

Marin's two other representatives on the bridge board are Supervisor Michael Wornum of Mill Valley and attorney Joseph E. Sheeks of Belvedere.

Tiburon Mayor Denis T. Rice was elected to the Marin County Transit District Board.

Rice receibed 6 votes, Bettini 4, and Corte Madera Mayor Edward W. Colthurst, 1.

Rice will succeed Harley A. McAskill, former Novato mayor who failed in his bid for council reelection.

Ross Councilman Roy Farrington Jones was elected to the Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission by an 8-3 vote over Fairfax Councilman Robert R. Souza.

Jones will succeed former Sausalito Councilman Jan Paul Dyk, who didn't seek reelection to his city council.

Fairfax Councilman Lee Nelder and Novato Councilman Joseph D. Gargiulo were nominated for appointment to the Regional Criminal Justice Advisory Board of the Association of Bay Area Governments. The selection will be made by the association.

Corte Madera Councilman Holmes S. Norville was nominated to serve on the executive committee of the Association of Bay Area Governments. He has served as an alternate delegate.

Tiburon Councilman Anne L. Ellinwood and Mill Valley Councilman Jean Barnard were nominated for alternate delegate.

The election of the ABAG alternate will be at the next meeting of the council June 24 in Tiburon. Sausalito was host city last night.

Blount Belittles Cabinet Rumors

WASHINGTON (AP) — Postmaster General Winton M. Blount says talk about a divided Nixon cabinet is "a lot of marlarky" by a news media biased against the administration.

"They are strong individual people," Blount said of his nine colleagues who with himself, make up President Nixon's cabinet.

"That doesn't mean at all that sometimes we don't hold different opinions, but to say this is a divided cabinet — that's just a lot of foolishness."

Blount said in an interview the news media has inaccurately pictured the cabinet as sharply divided over Cambodia and placed an "extreme overemphasis" on speeches by Vice President Spiro T. Agnew while underplaying demonstrations of support for the President's war policies.

At 100 She Has An Eye On Future, Faith In Psychic

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Eva Irene Higgins is celebrating her 100th birthday today. Yet with her thoughts on the future, she says, "I hope I can learn more if I can stay alive."

Frail physically — she doesn't hear or see well — but tough-minded, Mrs. Higgins recalled the personal high points of her century during a recent interview at her spic and span little apartment in Homestead Terrace, the low cost senior citizens housing project in Homestead Valley.

She lives alone there, the pet of co-residents, with help mornings from a young woman who comes in to help her with housekeeping chores.

LOOKING REGAL with her long, luxuriant white hair piled high on her head, Eva Higgins revealed a strong faith in what she calls "good vibrations" and the power of psychic experiences.

"Vibrations are what hold the world together today," she says, "and I know I am a part of them. I belong to the good principles of life. The church is only one of these. Churches are good and I am not against them, but believing in good vibrations is more universal. The day will come when we realize this," she predicts, "but it is slow in coming."

Marjorie Ward of Mill Valley, a vocational counselor who works at the Civic Center, says of her aunt, "her positive thinking and will are what have kept her young. She is very alert mentally and even manages her financial affairs without my help."

Born on May 28, 1870, in Marshalltown, Iowa, Eva went through grade school there and was married for the first time at 17 to a window decorator and scenery painter.

They had two sons, J. S. Cook, now 72, of Lafayette, La., who has no children, and Ralph K. Cook, now 74, of PlanWell, Mich., who has two sons and three grandchildren. Mrs. Higgins has never seen her grandchildren or great-grandchildren.

SHE HAD one of her many psychic experiences in connection with the death of her first husband.

"He was shot in a robbery," she says, "and at the moment he was dying I saw him standing in the doorway saying, 'Eva, I need you.' This shows there is no end to anything," she insists. "It is a constant revolution."

In 1915 Eva married William C. Higgins, a mining inspector, in Salt Lake City, Utah, whom she met during her period of 12 years in charge of a department handling imported furs, ribbons, buttons and laces in a department store owned by the Keith and O'Brien Mining Company.

The couple came to California about 1918 and lived in Eagle Rock, Glendale, and Los Angeles. Mr. Higgins died in 1930.

Eva lived for short periods in Louisiana and came to live in Mill Valley in 1967 to be near relatives, her half-sister, Mrs. Minnie V. Ward, and her niece, Marjorie Ward. Mrs. Ward, who lives in the Northgate Senior Citizens Apartments in San Rafael, celebrated a birthday "somewhere in her middle 80's," according to her daughter, on May 25.

EVA'S ONLY regret these days is that she can no longer read, for her niece says she is a remarkably well informed person through the knowledge she acquired in reading "vast amounts of nonfiction," her only hobby.

Today Eva is very happy, for her son, J. C. Cook, has driven all the way from Lafayette, La., to be present for her birthday party.

CELEBRATING HER 100th birthday today is Mrs. Eva Irene Higgins. Added to the excitement of the day was the arrival of her son J.C. Cooke, who same from his home in Lafayette, La., to help his mother celebrate. Mrs. Higgins, who lives at Homestead Terrace in Homestead Valley, was born May 28, 1870, in Marshalltown, Iowa.

Picnic For Australia-Bound Family

By MOLLY MARIN

Australia bound is the Frank Raney family. Mr. Raney, principal of Hill Junior High School in Novato, arranged assisted passage with the Australian government for June 26. Over half of the passage for the six Raneys will be paid by the Australian government to encourage migration of professional people of European descent.

They plan to stay two years and "if we like it, much longer," according to Donna Raney. "We wanted to travel while the children were all young enough to be with us." The Raney children range from 8 to 16 years old. "It will be a great vacation! We'll go to Vancouver, Hawaii, Fiji, New Zealand, Pago-Pago and then Sidney.

Mr. Raney hopes to work in Australian school administration or possibly teach techniques of teaching at the University.

A "bon voyage" family picnic will be held Sunday at McNear Park in Petaluma for about 50 friends and family.

GEORGE W. Wheelwright III, owner of the Green Gulch Ranch and co-founder of the Polaroid Corp., Tuesday married Mrs. Paul R. Feeley of Bennington, Vt., in a ceremony in the chapel of the Community Church in Mill Valley.

Mrs. Feeley, the former Helen Webster of Stanford, is the daughter of Dr. David Locke Webster of Stanford and Mrs. Anna Woodman Webster of San Francisco. She is assistant to the dean of studies at Bennington College.

Mr. Wheelwright, winner of the Marin Conservation Council's 1965 award, left yesterday with his new wife to live on his ranch north of Reno, Nev., where his prize herd of Hereford cattle have been moved.

Mr. Wheelwright is the father of George W. Wheelwright IV of New Canaan, Conn., and Michael Wheelwright of Santa Barbara and the stepfather of Arthur Richardson of Mill Valley, Constance Richardson Boden of Bennington, Vt., and Phillip Richardson of Saunderstown, R.I.

THE ENTERTAINMENT committee of the Marin Country Club Homeowners Association held its first annual picnic at Howarth Park in Santa Rosa Sunday with 150 persons attending.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mault are entertainment chairmen; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dinsmore, picnic chairmen; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Proett, talent chairmen and Peter Zucker, games chairman.

MRS. WILLIAM Canavan, a reading specialist at Park School in Mill Valley, who is retiring in June after 22 years of teaching at the school, was the guest of honor at a luncheon Saturday at the Spinnaker restaurant in Sausalito.

Some 60 Park School teachers and friends of Mrs. Canavan, who received her B.A. from Montana State University and started her teaching career in a rural Montana school, attended.

MR. AND MRS. J.W. Fiske of Mill Valley hosted a family dinner Sunday at Deer Park Villa is Fairfax for her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank P. Vance of Springfield, Ill., who celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary. The Vances are spending several months in Mill Valley.

Midwives Making Return As Nurses

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Midwives are making a comeback. But this time they are nurses and they deliver babies in hospitals, not homes.

Pretty, 28-year-old Mary Sue Wilson is helping lead the pack. "With so many women having babies, doctors are having trouble seeing them all," she said. "This is the reason for this new specialty."

Miss Wilson is a nurse with a year of post-graduate study specializing in nurse-midwifery. Now she's qualified to work under the supervision of a doctor, but only with patients whose physicians expect them to have normal deliveries.

"We don't work with women who have a history of diabetes, heart ailments, miscarriages or who have had difficult deliveries in the past," she said.

The daughter of a Fort Lauderdale doctor, Miss Wilson works at the University of Florida Medical School hospital and is to wed a doctor June 13. She is one of a handful of nurse-midwives in Florida.

Miss Wilson takes a hand early in pregnancy and sets up regular visits with her patients until they deliver. All 41 births she has attended have been at hospitals.

Generally, Miss Wilson delivers the child with the help of one regular nurse.

"If anything goes wrong, we are instructed to call the doctor immediately," she said. "We don't deliver breech babies and we don't do any Caesarian sections."

"Some patients are happy to get a woman because they feel a woman would have more empathy," she said. "Others are modest and like a woman for that reason.

"But mainly women like to have a nurse-midwife because she can give more attention. A lot of them seem to relate better to women, anyway."

The nurse-midwife usually settles down in the delivery room with a patient to await delivery.

"One person will stay with her through the whole thing rather than one doctor in charge of three or four patients," Miss Wilson said.

And she adds her personal stamp of approval: "I wouldn't mind having my children delivered by a midwife, especially after the first one."

Pre-Natal Classes

The pre-natal instruction classes for expectant parents program, co-sponsored by the Dept. of Obstetrics and Gynecology of Marin General Hospital and the Marin Chapter of the Red Cross, will begin another six-week series on Wednesday.

The PICEP series is offered at no charge for both expectant parents, and has attracted capacity crowds of 50 men and women when previously given. The sessions begin at 8 p.m. in the Coral Room at Marin General and take about one hour.

Four weeks later, on Aug. 5, the course will begin again for another six weeks. Those interested in participating in either program may call Marin General Hospital, Ext. 268 or 269, between 7 a.m. and 3:30 p.m.

This is your look.

You like it. We like it. If it's classic, we won't insist on showing you frills. If it's anti-establishment, we won't pursue you with the little status dress. If it's colorful, we won't drag out our newest navy because "it's the rage in New York." When you tell us what you want, we listen. We won't sell you another woman's style just to make a sale. HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

If Only One Boy Downgrades A Girl The Truth Soon Comes Out

DEAR HELEN:

My mother won't let me hang around with this girl because she broke up with my brother, and Mom says she's no good. She listens to my brother who says all kinds of mean things about her. Like she's a pick-up and wouldn't stop at anything.

I know better. She quit my brother because he expects any girl he dates to put out. She slapped his face and really told him off, so naturally he's out to ruin her reputation.

Mom thinks my brother is the original Mr. Nice Guy. I'm no fink and besides, she wouldn't believe me. But I don't want my girl friend's name pulled down. What can I do? — UNFAIRLY TREATED

DEAR UNFAIR:

If only one boy downgrades a girl — and the others know she isn't easy — the the truth soon makes the rounds.

A sisterly chat might show Mr. Nice Guy it is in his best interests to cool the gossip before his mother hears it like it was — via the grapevine, of course. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

The trouble with this fella is that when a girl says "No!" he still gropes for an answer. Would you please tell boys that the best way not to win girls is by thinking they're irresistible? When I mage it clear I'm the no-parking type, and a guy still thinks I'll weaken if he breathes heavy down my neck — that's it, brother.

I wish boys would stop reading those girlie magazines long enough to know girls don't want to be pawed on the first date. — Tell 'em, Helen. — AGAINST WRESTLING MATCHES

DEAR AGAINST:

You already told 'em better than I could. Thanks.

Another girl wrote: "These 'handy-men' have the paws that depresses." (So what do you want, good grammer or good puns?) — H.

DEAR HELEN:

My best friend's family moved into a duplex in a mixed neighborhood. It turns out that the renters on the other side are black. The man is a school teacher, and they have very nice kids. Only the color is wrong. But that's enough to make my parents so uptight they won't let me visit my friend.

I never realized my folks were prejudiced before. They cover by saying it's a dangerous area, but really the people there are almost all professionals — doctors, a lawyer, accountants, etc., some white, some black, some yellow.

How can you get through to your parents that times have changed, and they're the ones who are losing out? — A MEMBER OF THE HUMAN RACE

DEAR MHR:

I wish I had a surefire answer to your question, but only time and much patience can undo inbred prejudices.

Perhaps if your parents visited this neighborhood several times they might see for themselves what is very apparent to you, and me, and those who live there: Equality isn't based on color.

Keep trying. — H.

PRESS GUIDE IS AVAILABLE

A new guide for press chairmen of organizations which are interested in getting news to the Marin Women's Section of the Independent-Journal is now available at the San Rafael main office and the Novato, Mill Valley and Southern Sonoma I-J offices.

The booklet, "Getting News Into Your Newspaper," is issued as a service of the Independent-Journal Women's Section to assist press chairmen for women's organizations.

The guide explains policies of coverage, how to prepare news stories and meeting notices, and the special stories and features emphasized by the section.

The booklets at the San Rafael office may be obtained from the switchboard on the main floor.

Death Rate From Breast Cancers Reduced By A Screening Program

By C. G. McDANIEL

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — A screening program using a combination of methods helped reduce the rate of death from breast cancer in a group of women studied, a New York research team reported today.

The project involved 62,000 women in the Health Insurance Plan of Greater New York. Half were offered the screening, and the other half received no special attention.

Preliminary findings on the study, which began in 1963, were reported today at the 10th International Cancer Congress by Sam Shapiro, a vice president of the health plan.

AMONG THE women not offered the screening, there have been 52 deaths from breast cancer, he said. Deaths from breast cancer among women offered the screening now total 31, he said, even though the program was hampered because one-third of the women who were offered screening refused it.

Screening included a clinical examination of the breast by a physician and mamography, a technique that uses low-voltage X rays to examine soft tissues in the breast.

The women studied were aged 40 to 64, the high frequency period for breast cancer, now the leading cause of death from cancer among women. Federal census figures show that among every 100,000 women, 20 to 25 die from breast cancer a year.

After an initial screening, the women studied received three additional examinations at annual intervals.

SHAPIRO SAID 127 breast cancer cases were detected as the result of the screening. The value of the combination technique was demonstrated, he said, by a determination that 42 of the cancers would have been missed without mamography and 56 would have been missed without the clinical examination.

Of the 127 cancers detected, 70 per cent had not spread, which greatly improved the women's chances for survival after surgery.

Housewives Work Just As Hard Now

Housewives today spend as much time in housework as did housewives 50 years ago—despite advances in technology, a survey shows.

The only change, say Drs. Florence Hall and Marguerite Schroeder of the University of Washington, is in the proportion of time consumed in different tasks. In Seattle, for instance, housewives spend less time shopping and on clothing care. But house care takes three more hours per week than it did in 1920, and in food preparation and dishwashing the increase is 5.2 hours. The authors speculate that "children may be helping less at these tasks than formerly, and perhaps household help is less available.

Mrs. Borchardt To Lead Garden Club

Marin Country Club Garden Club members have elected Mrs. Kenneth A. Borchardt of the Country Club Estates in Novato as their president for the 1970-71 year.

Mrs. Borchardt, who enjoys gardening, cooking, reading and traveling, says she has been a member of A.M., sponsored by the Family Service League the past two years.

"Recently I have been involved as a coordinator for a tutoring service sponsored by our church, involving both church members and members of the community as tutors, Joyce Borchardt said.

"Fifteen children from Loma Verde School are receiving help in subjects such as in reading, spelling and math. There is a tremendous need for more help, particularly in reading in the primary grades," she said.

Mrs. Borchardt was graduated from Central College in Kansas City, Mo., as a business major.

She and her husband, Dr. Borchardt, who is chief of clinical microbiology at the U. S. Public USPH Wives Club, treasurer of Health Hospital in San Francisco, have three children. Gregory is 14, Kimberly, 13, and Jeffrey, 11 years old. They have lived in Marin County nearly nine years.

Mrs. Borchardt served as treasurer of the garden club and has been a member the past two years. Beautification of the Marin Country Club Estates and service to the community are the ultimate purposes of the organization. Any woman who is a homeowner in the Marin Country Club Estates is eligible for membership.

Officers serving with Mrs. Borchardt are Mmes. Philip Griffin, vice president; Robert Bliss, recording secretary; John Ahlers, corresponding secretary; Thomas Ruane, treasurer; and Edward Rifkind, parliamentarian.

The bride-elect was graduated from Marin Catholic High School and College of Marin and attended Heald's Business College in San Francisco.

The future bridegroom is a graduate of Capuchino High School in San Bruno and San Jose State College. He is stationed at Craig Air Force Base in Alabama. His sister is Mrs. William Dunn of Travis Air Force Base in Fairfield.

His grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Emil Reichhold of San Francisco.

The couple plan an August wedding.

Mrs. Greubel Elected By Legion Unit

Mrs. Theodore Greubel, a member for 14 years, is new president of Mill Valley Unit 284 of the American Legion Auxiliary. Elsie Greubel has served as president twice previously, and vice president.

Activities the unit plans for the coming year are the Americanism program, Poppy program, and community services such as aiding Tuberculosis Christmas seals, the Cancer Society, Heart Drive, Brownies, Bluebirds and Boy Scouts.

She is also active in the auxiliary's subsidiary group, The Eight and Forty.

Mrs. Greubel, who was born in Washington state, was graduated from Good Samaritan Hospital in Portland, Ore., with an R.N. degree. She has lived in Marin for the past 17 years.

Bowling, sewing, creative arts and knitting are the new president's leisure time interests.

(Memorial Day)

A colorful spring festival of creative arts will be presented Friday, Saturday and Sunday, May 29th, 30th and 31st by Disco Wonderworld, # 1 Larkspur Plaza. Seven artists from throughout Southern California have been invited to demonstrate and display their various media and techniques as a part of a continuing series of cultural events sponsored by Disco Discount Department Stores.

R.C. Stanley, coordinator of the Celebrity Artists, will be among those participating. Mr. Stanley's work is unique in that he uses a palette knife alone in executing his paintings. His works now hang in 25 states, Canada, Australia and Europe.

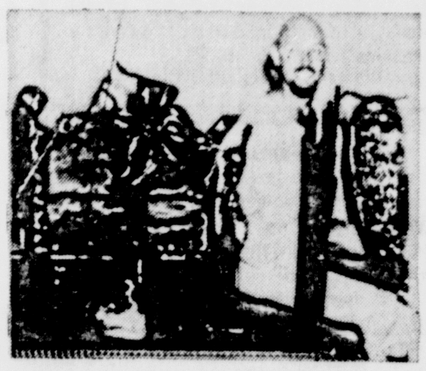
E.A. Nicholson who sculpts and creates from rocks & gems will appear and show his works. One of the foremost cutters of multi-faceted "eggs" in the nation his background includes an impressive list of credits as an actor in "In Cold Blood" and "Funny Girl". He has just left location in Marysville where he is appearing in Sidney Poitier's "Kane"

Sheila Lee will appear in person at Carson City's "Wonder World of Art" and will bring with her, her new collection of bold and colorful abstractions especially created for this Carson City Showing. Miss Lee is the wife of Don Sliger who is also showing at this spectacular event.

Wallace Fisher, a promising young artist from Long Beach, whose style is one of mood and color will display his latest works. Completely dedicated to his artistic life he is much encouraged by the many patrons who are now beginning to collect his landscape impressions.

Hans Luetcke, one of the finest graphic artists on the Pacific Coast will appear at the Carson City event. He has been commissioned by leading authors and Motion picture companies to illustrate their various works. Mr. Luetcke received his training in Europe.

Sandra Fitz, who specializes in the Collage form of art will appear and show her works. She utilizes objects of nature in creating such pieces as soft fern impressions and wispy butterflies. Sandra, who is a Malibu, California artist, has had several of her works selected for permanent display at the University of Nevada, Las Vegas.



Don Sliger whose strong, clean lines change the heaviness of steel into forms of grace and movement will appear at the Wonder World of Art and display his works. The Dynamic Triangle is the keynote of metal sculpturing by Slinger. Professional people from coast to coast now own an original by "Sliger". His wife, Sheila Lee will display her bold & colorful abstractions.

The exhibits will be spaced throughout the Plaza while each artist will be by their works, actually creating their art form on location. The public is cordially invited to view these exciting displays which will be open from 10 A.M. to 9 P.M. FRIDAY, SATURDAY: 10-7. SUNDAY 10 A.M. - 6 P.M.

Town Hall Meeting Set

A town hall type meeting to open dialogue between Sonoma State College students and residents of Cotati and Rohnert Park will be held at 7:30 p.m. today at the Cotati School.

Leaders of the Student Committee on Community Relations said they hope the meeting will improve the relationship between residents and students with open, frank discussion.

Dr. H. S. Lin, an expert in the history of Southeast Asian affairs, will discuss involvement in Indochina. A panel of students, faculty members and community leaders will answer questions along with Dr. Lin.

Marinwood's CSD Budget To Be Considered June 2

The Marinwood Community Services District board has set June 3 for consideration of proposed budget items which total $207,785 for fiscal 1970-71.

Genevieve T. Bolding, board secretary, said yesterday the district's maximum allowable tax rate is $1.35 per $100 assessed valuation. This year's rate is $1.25 for a budget totaling $173,460.

Mrs. Bolding added that the board, meeting Tuesday night, said next year's budget increase was due to proposed salary hikes for district employees.

The district has eight full-time employees and numerious part-time workers, she explained.

Marinwood Community Services District board also:

APPOINTMENT — Approved the appointment of Sheila Herreldt, of 9 Valleystone Drive, to the Marinwood Park and Recreation Commission. Mrs. Herrfeldt will succeed Ralph Tishbern who has resigned.

GIFT — Accepted a $100 donation from the Marinwood Homeowners Association for use in the Marinwood recreation program.

HIRING — Approved hiring seven high school and college students to work in the summer recreation program.

Hunger In Brain

NEW DELHI (AP) — An Indian scientist says the brain makes one feel hungry, not the stomach. K.R. Anand, of the All-India Institute of Medical Sciences, says the "feeding center" in the brain orders the stomach to call food, while the "satiety center" cries halt.

Charles Leone, Asst. Circulation Manager and Alice B. Campbell congratulate David Morey on his award

What's nicer than recognizing a young man for honesty?

People win all kinds of things for personal achievement. So it's refreshing to present a boy like David Morey with an award for just doing what comes naturally - an act of honesty.

Dave is an I-J newspaperboy in San Anselmo. A customer of his is Miss Alice B. Campbell, also of San Anselmo. On a recent shopping tour she was dismayed to find she had lost her purse. But a pleasant surprise awaited her. Dave was waiting for her on her porch, purse safely in hand. He'd found it in the middle of a street and immediately taken it to her home.

Just a small thing in Dave's eyes, but Miss Campbell was delighted. She called the I-J. And that's why Dave Morey is there in the picture, having just received the Community Service Award of the California Newspaperboy Foundation.

They say honesty is its own reward. But maybe a little recognition won't hurt a young fellow of fourteen. Not Dave Morey.

Beethoven Works Closing Season

By JAMES E. WILLIAMS

The San Francisco Symphony Orchestra, which has been celebrating the Beethoven bicentennial year, is in its closing subscription series week, presenting his Symphonies No. 1 and 9.

Appearing as guest artists, in the series which opened last night at the San Francisco Opera House, are Benita Valente, soprano; Lili Chookasian, mezzo soprano; William Cochran, tenor, and Giorgio Tozzi, bass. Due to the popularity of the program presented under the baton of Josef Krips, an additional concert will be given Saturday night.

Also being offered in the classical field for the Memorial Day weekend is Handel's musical drama, "Hercules," opening tomorrow night for three nights at Hertz Hall on the University of California campus at Berkeley.

Taking leading roles are Maureen Lehane, contralto, as Dejanira, Hercules' wife; Dicran Jamgochian, baritone as Hercules, and David Bender, tenor, as Hyllus, Dejanira's son. The drama is being staged by Brian Trowell, head of opera for the BBC in London.

DRAMA

Also coming to the U.C. campus at Berkeley on Tuesday night for four performances will be the Negro Ensemble Company of New Year, presenting "Ceremonies in Dark Old Men."

The company has engagements scheduled in San Francisco following the Berkeley run.

Planning Is Still Theme Of Sparring

First District supervisorial candidates Paul C. Zucker and incumbent John F. McInnis renewed a very familiar campaign theme again last night as once again the primary discussion was Zucker's efforts — or lack of them — as county planning director.

The two candidates fielded questions from about 35 persons gathered at the Church of the Redeemer and while they occasionally sidetrac ed to other issues, planning, as it has in most of the previous confrontations between the two, was the prime issue.

McInnis, as he has in the past, categorized Zucker as a "do nothing" planner, saying that "nothing of note has come from the planner's office" since Zucker was hired four years ago.

McINNIS PLEASED

McInnis said he was pleased to have recently mounted a campaign which lopped $150,000 off the planner's budget because of a lack of production. He said the planner's office was currently overstaffed by 40 per cent when compared to offices of other counties of comparable size.

Zucker, in rebuttal, charged McInnis with "favoring development interests" and saying that to follow McInnis's planning philosophies would lead to "wall-to-wall housing" in Marin County as in San Mateo and Santa Clara counties.

Zucker said his department has "stood up to developers and no longer lets them call the shots" in Marin development.

Both McInnis and Zucker touched on a new issue, however, when the question of Hamilton Air Forc e Base being used as a commercial field was raised.

"KEEPING ABREAST"

McInnis said he was "keeping abreast" of the situation and that before committing himself he would prefer to see broad public discussion of the issue.

Zucker said he felt commercial use of the field would be good if the present runways were shared. "It's an expensive proposition, however, to build new runways," he added. He said he didn't favor Hamilton as the site for the north bay's international airport of the future but saw it as "a commuter service."

Each candidate spoke initially for 15 minutes, had 10 minutes of rebuttal time and then fielded questions from the floor. The meeting was sponsored by the Glenwood Homeowners Association.

DRAMA REVIEW

'Awake & Sing!' Dated But Still Good Evening

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (AP) — "Awake & Sing!" in the revival that opened Wednesday night at the Bijou Theater hardly deserves a joyous yodel, but at least it won't put you to sleep.

When the Clifford Odets' slice-of-Bronx-life was put on by the vigorous Group Theater in 1935, proletariat drama was boldly innovative. Lefty had already arrived, but to have a disadvantaged hero cry, "All I want is a chance to get to first base!" still stirred visceral response.

Done in an era attuned to more extreme, frank and convulsive theatrical statement, the play must struggle against its own internal shortcomings and the external handicap of comparison with a thousand similar studies of life among the lowly that have since clogged stage, screen and TV.

In fairness, credit is due to everybody involved in the production for the affection and simple dignity with which the production is brought off.

Arthur A. Seidelman directs at that level of carefully shaped characterization which Chekhov usually gets. His cast responds with suitable grace, generally.

Joan Lorring doesn't register as a Jewish matriarch with quite that degree of fiercely domineering love-hate the lines imply, but Morris Strassberg is perfect as a tired old lion addicted to Caruso and Karl Marx.

As the youth who finally breaks—perhaps—from stultifying drudgery, Robert Salvio is another John Garfield. Roger Serbagi neatly makes his coldly cynical gambler into a object of sympathy. Others in the company are Salem Ludwig, Phoebe Dorin and Bill Macy.

Ethel Green's dual living-dining room set is realistically detailed down to one of those gothic-domed radios that filled every home with music from the Glen Island Casino.

Entries Now Accepted For Art Festival

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — Entries in the Artrium Festival of the Arts, to be held at Santa Rosa Junior College June 18-21, will be accepted on campus June 13.

Artists from Marin, Sonoma, Napa, Mendocino and Solano counties are eligible to enter their works in the juried show.

Lois Baney, festival director, said classes will include painting, sculpture, prints, drawings, photographs, jewelry, metalwork and ceramics. There will also be craft tables available for artisans who wish to display and then sell their wares.

Entry blanks can be received in Bailey Hall at the college or by writing Artrium, Box 1141, Santa Rosa.

Mrs. Baney said that more than $1,300 in cash awards will be made.

Soloists Set For Concert

Four soloists will sing at the eighth annual Organ Fund Concert at the First Presbyterian Church of San Rafael, Fifthand E streets, at 4 p.m. June 7.

Solists will be Rebecca Jones, soprano; John Pulsiphier, baritone; Gary Walker, baritone; and Byron Jones, baritone, with Jan Mault as accompanist.

They will sing the works of Handel, Mozart, Schubert, Mendelssohn, Brahms and Debussy.

Byron Jones is director of music at the church, Rebecca, his daughter is a student at San Rafael High School, Walker, a voice major at San Francisco State College and Pulsiphier, a senior at Terra Linda High School.

Deadline Soon On Enrolment

Veterans who served in the Armed Forces prior to June 1, 1966, and intend to complete a four-year college course must enroll on a full-time basis before September this year to get full entitlement.

This reminder came today from James V. Burdick, Marin County Veterans Service officer.

Veterans who want furth- apartment building and were cut Burdick. The office is in Room 424 in the Civic Center Administration Building.

Water Board Hopefuls Support Preserving Of Watershed Lands

Candidates for the Division 4 seat on the Marin Municipal Water District board last night agreed on the need for preserving existing watershed lands, but disagreed on whether the district should enter the sewage treatment business.

At a meeting at Brown's Hall in Mill Valley, candidates George W. Blackwell, Eugene A. Miller, Jeffory Morshead, and Herman C. Zwart said they would oppose recreational development of water district lands.

"If you open it up," said Blackwell, "you're going to have to supervise it, and the district just doesn't have the people to do it."

Zwart agreed. "Preserve the land. Current plans call for more recreational development and this means more roads."

The audience of about 60 persons applauded enthusiastically when Morshead told them, "If you don't start putting limits on recreation, this land is going to be ruined. This is not public land," he said emphatically, "It is Marin County land. My credo is that we should give it (watershed land) back 100 years from now just the way Mr. Lent left it when the water district was formed."

"Low density, daytime use seems to be the proper use for this land," said Miller. He then raised the question of leases, notably that of the Meadow Club, which leases 160 acres of water district land for $480 per year, but faces district action on an appraisal that calls for hiking the price to $5,000.

He also complained that two hunting clubs, the Redwood Gun Club and the Big Trees Camp, with a combined membership of only 20 persons, lease a total of 5,850 acres for less than $1,000 a year. "I think these should be examined and examined very quickly," he cried as the audience applauded loudly. "I would not want to renegotiate these. I would want to cancel them," he concluded.

There was not so much agreement on whether the water district should also get into the sewage treatment business. Although the present water board he said that it is "ready, willing and able" to undertake this, candidate Morshead said there was a danger of such a combined water and sewtrage board becoming too powerful.

"A sanitation district," Morshead said, "can tax without limit, and can circumvent local zoning ordinances."

He proposed instead a separate district to deal with the sewage problem.

Miller disagreed. "It would take several years to develop a separate district. The existing water district could step in and begin work immediately."

Candidates Blackwell and Zwart agreed. "No city could do this (sewage treatment) on their own," Blackwell said. "That is where the water district comes in. . . we've got an existing district which is big enough to serve as a sewage district also."

"This," said Zwart, "is the only really workable solution (combining the existing water district with a yet to be formed south Marin sanitation district) for the presentation of the bay."

The vacancy in Divison 4 will be filled in the June 2 primary. If no candidate receives a majority, a runoff between the two top candidates will be held at the general eltction.

Asks Completion

The San Anselmo Design Review Committee last night ordered a letter sent to Gulf Oil Co. requesting completion of planned landscaping at a Gulf station at 700 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, secretary Thelma Foster reported.

Welfare Benefit Form Simplified

WASHINGTON (UPI —Applicants for adult welfare benefits will use a simplified method of determining their eligibility after July 1.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) said Wednesday that under the new method, the applicant will file a comprehensive statement of income, financial resources and personal situation on a form designated by the state welfare department. The form should provide all the information needed to determine eligibility and amount of aid. Formerly social workers had to gather the information.

The regulations apply only to adult assistance programs for the aged, blind and disabled. Tests are being conducted to see if the method should be used for the aid to families with dependent children program.

Last Look Before Big Race: It's Called 'Testing'

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — "Carburetion tests" is a colloquial term used by officials at the Indianapolis Speedway to allow drivers one last chance on the track before the 500.

No cars are allowed on the track after the final round of qualifying except for this three-hour session known as carburetion tests.

Wednesday afternoon the drivers got the feel of their cars and the track carrying a full load of fuel and with most of the engines entirely rebuilt since the final day of qualifying, last Sunday.

Although the idea is not to see how fast you can go, Al Unser, who will start Saturday's race in the pole position, turned in the fastest lap of the day at 169.2 miles per hour. His teammate Joe Leonard followed with 168.5. Both drove identical, P.J. Colt-turbocharged Fords.

Others to crack 166 miles per hour for the day were Dan Gurney, Peter Revson, Bobby Unser, A.J. Foyt and Johnny Rutherford.

Rutherford had the only mishap of the day when a small fire in the lower part of his engine caused the loss of his left rear brake and slight damage to the car.

Most of the drivers appeared calm and ready under Wednesday's warm midday sun.

One of the most calm—and possibly one of the most ready—was Dick Simon, one of four rookies who will go to the starting line at noon Saturday.

The 5-foot-8 balding driver from Salt Lake City climbed out of his Vollstedt-turbocharged Ford smiling and joking after his final turn around the track.

The 36-year-old father of seven was obviously happy with his car's performance.

"The car ran well. We did 158 to 160 (miles per hour). We didn't want to run any faster because Saturday is close and we have no spare parts," Simon said.

It hasn't been easy for Dick to get this far, but a look at his accomplishments outside of racing more than proves his ability to succeed.

Simon is a former ski and parachuting champion, a scuba diver and the possessor of a multiengine pilot's rating. He is also the president of an insurance company and the chairman of the board of two other firms.

He passed his first shot at the rookie test with flying colors but proceeded to blow the rear end of his Vollstedt-turbocharged Ford on his first practice run after the test.

After fixing the rear end and solving a chassis problem which kept his speed under 164, Simon got into his Bryant Heating and Cooling Special and qualified for the race with an average speed of 165.548. He'll be starting from the back row.

"Actually, I'm tickled about our position, it's like old home week. I've run many races around home where they use an inverted start (fastest qualifiers at the rear).

"Positive thinking has been my life anyway. I came here scared about passing my rookie test, but everyone here has been so great. Everyone helped me from the moment I got here," Simon added.

Simon smiled and said with great satisfaction, "Racing offers the greatest challenge I've faced and it requires bringing the most out of yourself."

A Race To Rival Boston Marathon

Saturday's first Golden Gate Marathon run from Tiburon to the San Francisco Marina will, ". . .in my opinion, rival the famous Boston Marathon within five years," claims race director Richard W. Perry.

"This event has all the necessary characteristics to make it a must to all serious marathon runners," he added, noting entries have come from throughout the U.S., Canada, New Zealand and Texas.

To lend a bit of color to the big race, 102-year-old San Francisco jogging advocate Larry Lewis will be the official starter and a cupcake named "Miss Sweat Sock" will crown the winner in S.F.

My only complaint is that they don't start the race in S.F. and end it in Tiburon.

Southbound traffic has to pay a Golden Gate Bridge toll. Northbound is free.

Call Him An Irish Italian

NEXT TIME you see Irish Jim Carroll of Greenbrae just call him "Papa Carrollini."

That was the handle bestowed on the big Hibernian the other night after he was installed as a director of the Italian Athletic Club of Marin.

The club also announced establishment of a $500 scholarship to be presented annually to the outstanding graduating scholar-athlete-citizen in Marin County high schools. The club's directors will make the final selection from nominees submitted by principals of the 10 prep schools in Marin.

For a young club, about 18 months old, the sporty spaghetti benders have made great strides and soon will be starting their second season as a Joe DiMaggio League sponsor.

And, with Papa Carrollini hard at work, they soon may be sponsoring a team in the Casey Stengel League or Joe McCarthy League.

Expensive Golf Prizes

NOTHING CHEAP about the Marin Country Club. For its annual invitational golf tourney last weekend the Novato club spent $3,200 on 40 merchandise prizes.

TAKE THE kids fishing at Marin Municipal Water District Lakes Lagunitas or Phoenix this weekend. The State Department of Fish and Game restocked those waters with catchable-sized trout this week.

PAUL LEE, young brudder of Boston Red Sox pitcher Bill Lee, led U.C. at Santa Barbara in hitting this season with a .308 figure. Lee is eligible for another season at UCSB.

FINAL STATS from the Pacific-8 Conference show that ex-Tam High star Greg Tellis of Cal was third-ranking pitcher this season with a 4-0 record and 2.20 earned run average.

NINTH ANNUAL Harrah's Tahoe Invitational Golf Tournament June 9-11 at Lake Tahoe will read like a Who's Who in pro football quarterbacks with Johnny Unitas, Joe Kapp, Joe Namath, Daryle Lamonica and Craig Morton all on the entry list.

ROARK IS NAMED NEW REDWOOD GRID COACH

Phil Roark, 37, an assistant for the past six years, last night was named new head football coach at Redwood High School.

He succeeds Bob Troppmann who resigned the post after the 1969 season to devote full time to the Larkspur school's physical education department.

Roark's appointment was announced last night by Principal Donald Kreps at a spring sports banquet at Dominic's Harbor Restaurant, San Rafael.

Al Endriss, who was named acting head coach when Troppmann resigned, has elected to remain as the school's head baseball coach and assistant football coach.

Strike Threatens Star Tilt

CINCINNATI (AP) — Only a possibility of a construction workers strike now threatens to keep the 1970 All-Star game from being held in Cincinnati.

City Manager Richard Krabach disclosed Wednesday that the Cincinnati Reds can start using the new Cincinnati Riverfront Stadium June 30 and the All-Star game can be played there July 14 unless the walkout occurs.

Representatives of a majority of building trades unions have ironed out tentative agreements for the contracts of about 12,500 workers which expire June 1 at midnight. The proposals have to be ratified however, and negotiations were continuing with other unions.

Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn had given the city until May 30 to provide him with a definite answer on whether the stadium would be ready for the All-Star game. But Reds president Francis Dale said, "We must assure the commissioner positively by Monday, June 1, that the stadium will be available for the All-Star game."

If assurance cannot be given then, Atlanta will be awarded the classic.

Marichal Still Not Satisfied

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Giants' righthander Juan Marichal still isn't satisfied with his pitching.

But it's good enough to maintain the San Francisco star's Candlestick Park mastery over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Marichal, 2-2, walked four batters and struggled through the last three innings before emerging with an 11-3 victory over the Dodgers Wednesday night, lifting his record to 19-1 against Los Angeles at Candlestick.

13 HITS

Home runs by Willie Mays, Bob Taylor and Frank Johnson highlighted a 13-hit attack that avenged Tuesday night's record 19-3 loss to the Dodgers and a previous victory by loser Sandy Vance, 4-3, over Marichal in Los Angeles.

"I'm still not pitching the way I want to," declared Marichal. "I threw the ball good, but had control problems — I was too high. Poor control will hurt you in a close game."

"But I'm glad I could go all the way — I really need the work," Marichal said,. "Until the seventh, I threw the ball where I wanted it. But then my shoulder tightened a little. Maybe it was the cold weather."

Marichal, who struck out six and allowed only two earned runs in his most impressive 1970

Mudcat Says Egotism Is The Thing

ANAHEIM (AP) — According to the philosophy of Jim "Mudcat" Grant, you have to be an egotist to succeed as a pitcher.

Grant's ego was in full bloom Wednesday night.

The big man in the Oakland Athletics bullpen ran his consecutive scoreless innings streak to 12 2-3 with 2 2-3 innings of clutch relief as the A's shaded the California Angels 4 to 3.

FOURTH SAVE

"You just have to keep thinking you're better than the guy at the plate," Grant said as he accepted plaudits for his fourth save of the season, one which presented starter Jim Hunter with his seventh victory.

Grant's biggest test came when he entered the game in the seventh inning with runners on first and second and one out.

The batter happened to be Alex Johnson, the Angel with the .359 batting average who had already contributed a pair of singles to the California cause.

PART OF IT

"Alex is one of the best hitters in the game," Grant said. "But I knew I could get him out. It's all part of being an egotist."

Johnson hit into an inning-ending double play.

Grant surrendered singles to Jim Spencer and Tommy Reynolds in the eighth but again worked out of trouble by striking out oJe Azcue and pinch-hitter Roger Repoz.

The teams conclude their three-game series tonight with

THE SPORTING GENTRY

Speedy Redhead

By RALPH CHATOIAN

Mike Bingaman is a red-haired, freckle-faced boy of 10 who swims like a fish—only maybe a little faster.

A member of the Hamilton Voodoos, Mike is equally good in all four racing strokes and has registered Double-A times in all of them. His times put him among the top of his class in the 50-yard backstroke, 100-yard butterfly, 100-yard breaststroke and 50-yard freestyle events.

The fleet swimming lad is a fourth grader at Hamilton School and started age group swimming when a seven-year-old, "I guess because it is more interesting for me than baseball."

Mike said he does play some baseball at school, but no Little League. "Freestyle is probably my favorite," he said about his versatile swimming. He said he practices twice on Tuesdays and Thursdays and once on the other days of the week.

"I like the practice," he said, "but I like the meets best."

Mike's parents, Lt. Col. and Mrs. Harold W. Bingaman, also have two daughters, Juliann, 14, and Lori Rene, 13, and, of course, they both belong to the Voodoos team. And being in the 13-14 age group, must compete against each other.

"It's about a standoff," says Mrs. Bingaman. All three Bingaman children began competitive swimming in 1967 when their father was transferred to Hamilton Field. He's the commander of the 1sa Consolidated Aircraft Maintenance Squadron at Hamilton.

Coach of the team is Mrs. Beth Musser, a former teammate of Ann Curtis Cuneo when both women swam for famed swim coach Charles Sava of San Francisco.

"The transfer problem of our team is unbelievable," Mrs. Musser declared. "We lost 35 families to transfers just this year. We started off with 30 swimmers, only 30 were left, and now we're up to 100."

"These kids are just great," enthused Mrs. Musser. "In two years a lot of them progress as much as other swimmers do in four years. Just about then they are transferred. A lot of them still write and keep me posted on how they're doing," she said, referring to letters she receives from all parts of the country, and from out of the States, too.

"That Mike is really a good swimmer," seh said about the 10-year-old, "and more important he's such a wonderful youngster."

Mrs. Musser runs a private business of teaching swimming in addition to coaching for the Hamilton swimmers, in the Novato area.

Terra Linda Girls End Perfect Season

Terra Linda High School's girls' track team completed a perfect season yesterday by winning its eighth and final meet of the Marin County Athletic League season, 61 — 43 over Redwood.

Jeanne Donnell paced the Trojans, taking first in the 50-yard dash and third in the hurdles.

Recreation Softball

The Doves defeated the Broncos, 13 — 12, and The Flintstones downed Gotelli's 9 — 7 in San Rafael Adult Softball League games last night at Albert Park.

Barry MacKay, former U. S. Davis Cup player from Ross, was beaten yesterday in the second round of the French Open Tennis Championships in Paris.

MacKay, who returned to top-flight competition this year, lost to Szabolcs Baranyo of Hungary, 6-3, 2-6, 8-10- 6-2, 6-1.

CHAMPS TOURNEY

Redwood Nine's Underdog Role

Redwood and Petaluma, representatives of Marin and Sonoma counties in the seventh annual Redwood High School Invitational Baseball Tournament of Champions, have the dubious distinction of facing the tournament favorites in today's opening round at Albert Park in San Rafael.

Petaluma, which last Saturday defeated Sonoma in a playoff for the North Bay Laague title, will go at 7 p.m. against the St. Elizabeth Mustangs, champions of the East Bay Catholic League, who after posting a season record of 29 wins and three losses are rated among the best of the eight teams in the tourney.

The Mustangs' strength lies in their pitching. Chuck Fross, who had a record of 9-1 with an earned run average of 0.77, will probably start today, while the Trojans, whose season record was 19-5, will go with Dave Adams. He came up with a sore arm the last half of the season, but Petaluma coach Roy Lattimore thinks he has recovered completely. Lattimore wants to save his ace, Walt Sweeney, until the second round, but will use him if necessary tonight.

For Redwood, which meets powerful Richmond at 9 p.m., there is not question as to who's going to pitch. Roger Smith, owner of an 8-1 record and a unanimous choice for the Marin County Athletic League all-league team, will try to stop the Alameda County champions, who ran up a 22-4 mark this year. The Oilers, who are rated almost even with St. Elizabeth, will go with Darrell Dickens, who chalked up a 6-2 league record this season.

If the Giants of Larkspur, who won 12 and lost 2 in winning the MCAL title, are going to go anywhere in the tournament, it will be their hitting that is responsible. Al Endriss' boys batted .306 as a team with six players over .300.

In other first round games, Washington of Fremont was to meet Antioch at 3 p.m., and San Lorenzo plays Oakland at 5 p.m.

In tomorrow's second round, games will played at 2, 4, 6 and 8 p.m., and on Saturday the final games are scheduled for 1, 3, 5 and 8 p.m. On both days the losers of the previous round will play in the first two games, the winners in the last two.

Admission for each day is $1 for adults and 50 cents for students.

WHEELWRIGHT

Southern Sequel To Namath Case

NEW YORK (AP) — A southern sequel to last year's Joe Namath-Bachelor III storm was brewing today over the acquisition of a Metairie, La., nightspot by running back Ernie Wheelwright of the National Football League's New Orleans Saints.

NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle has confirmed a report in the current issue of Sport Illustrated Magazine that Wheelwright turned down a league request to give up the bar, "Central Park South," because the reputed owner of the property is an underworld figure.

Rozelle said Wednesday that Bernie Jackson of the NFL security staff met with Wheelwright several weeks ago and "expressed great concern" to the 30-year-old pro veteran over the venture.

"Our security people told him they thought it would be wise (to sell) on the basis of the information we had received," Rozelle said. Instead, Wheelwright opened the club 10 days ago under a temporary license. Rozelle said the league is continuing to investigate the matter.

Last summer Rozelle forced Namath, the New York Jets' gifted quarterback, to give up his interest in Manhattan's Bachelors III...under threat of suspension...because the bar allegedly was frequented by undesirables.

Wheelwright, however, has not been directed to sell Central Park South...yet.

"We want to get the rest of the information before we decide what position to take, and then convey that position to him," the commissioner said. "Before giving anybody ultimatums, we like to have strong reasons for doing so. We don't like to intrude in private lives unless there are strong reasons."

Rozelle conceded that Wheelwright's situation parallels the Namath case in that "initially, I had people talk to Joe about his plans, too, before I got into it."

outing, tossed only 61 pitches the first six innings, but added 67 more in the last three frames for a total of 128.

UNDERWEIGHT

"I'm still six pounds underweight," he said. "I didn't have any spring training in Japan, then I spent 10 days in the hospital. I came back too soon and I'm still a little weak."

Manager Charlie Fox concurred. "The doctor said Juan could lose his strength awfully fast, so I was watching him real close from the sixth inning on," the skipper said. "When Juan's well, I'd just as soon see him on the mound as anybody."

Don Sutton, 6-5, was to pitch for Los Angeles against the Giants' Gaylord Perry, 6-5, in this afternoon's final game of the four-game series.

Fox seemed like a genius when reserves Taylor and Johnson came through. Taylor took over in the first inning when Bobby Bonds was thrown out of the game for protesting a strikeout and Johnson replaced injured Willie McCovey.

Mays cracked his 12th homer of the season and 612th of his career in the first inning and Dick Dietz' single, Vance's wild pitch and Tito Fuentes' sacrifice fly made it 2-0 in the second.

CHASE VANCE

Fuentes' two-run double chased Vance in the fourth and Taylor followed with his first major league homer off reliever Jose Pena. Taylor also had two singles for his best performance in the majors.

"I remembered facing Pena in the minors a couple of years ago," Taylor recalled. "He got me out on sliders, so I waited for one this time and hit it out."

LONG BALL

Oakland won Wednesday's battle with the long ball as they reached Angel starter and loser Clyde Wright for three home runs.

The last two were back-to-back shots by Joe Rudi and Sal Bando leading off the sixth inning. It erased a 3-2 Angel lead and put the A's in front to stay.

The other Oakland homer was struck by catcher Frank Fernandez to temporarily tie the game at 1-1 in the second inning.

Benvenuti Picks His Challengers

MILAN, Italy (AP) — World middleweight boxing champion Nino Benvenuti of Italy has apparently chosen his two challengers.

During a ceremony Tuesday night in which the champion was given an award, Benvenuti and his manager Bruno Amaduzzi said Doyle Baird of Akron, Ohio would be the next challenger.

"The site of the bout should be Umag (Yugoslavia), where Nino recently defeated Bethea. The date will be fixed in the future," Amaduzzi said.

Benvenuti knocked out Tom Bethea of New York in Umag last Saturday and retained the title he had won against Emile Griffith of New York.

"After Baird, Nino will defend his crown again," Amaduzzi said. "The challenger would be the winner of the fight between Griffith and (European middleweight champion) Tom Bogs (of Denmark). This title fight may be held in Rome."

Burton Leads Bowlers

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

NORTHBROOK, Ill. — Nelson Burton Jr. of St. Louis and lefty Mary Baker of Central Islip, N.Y., set the pace after the first day of finals Wednesday in the $65,000, 29th All-Star Bowling Tournament in Strike 'N Spare Lanes.

Burton, playing an extreme outside angle, which left him with five gutter balls during the tournament, finished the first four of 12 scheduled rounds with 4,353 pins. This included a 50-pin bonus each game for winning 11 of 16 games.

In second place was the defending champion, Billy Hardwick of Louisville, who had 4,258, 95 pins behind Burton, while Bobby Cooper of Houston was third with 4,236.

Mrs. Baker, a former Chicagoan, averaged 212 to win 8 of 12 games and had 2,945 pins, giving her a 104-pin bulge over the qualifying leader, Pat McNeill of Durham, N.C., who was second with 2,841.

General

PHILADELPHIA — Robin Roberts, one-time Philadelphia Phillies star pitcher, yesterday was injured in a three-car crash in which a woman in one of the cars was killed. Also hurt with Roberts was Robert "Maje" McDonnell, former Phillies pitcher and coach. Both he and Roberts suffered cuts of the face and head.

Baseball

BOSTON (AP) — The stumbling Boston Red Sox recalled veteran right-hander Jose Santiago from Louisville of the International League Wednesday in a move to help their pitching corps.

Santiago, who underwent serious arm surgery a year ago, had a 3-2 record in 10 relief appearances at Louisville.

To make room for Santiago, the Red Sox optioned right-hander Ray Jarvis to Louisville. Jarvis had an 0-1 record in 12 appearances.

Boxing

PATERSON, N.J. —Former heavyweight boxing champion Sonny Liston Wednesday was granted a license to fight in New Jersey.

The license, granted by State Boxing Commissioner A. J. Greene will allow Liston to meet Chuck Wepner in their scheduled 10-round match at the Jersey City Armory, June 26.

Tennis

ST. LOUIS — Top-seeded Rod Laver of Australia downed Ron Holmberg of Highland Falls, N.Y., 6-4, 6-2 in the opening round of the $30,000 Rawlings Tennis Classic.

PARIS — Arthur Ashe of Richmond, Va., advanced to the third round of the French open championships by defeating Billy Freer, South Africa, 6-1, 6-0, 6-3.

Horse Racing

ALBANY, CALIF. — Aquarius, $5.20, took the Sir Francis Drake Stakes at Golden Gate Fields by three lengths over Mr. Forsman.

INGLEWOOD, CALIF. — Over The Counter, $15, beat Cartujo by 1¼ lengths in the Manchester Claiming Stakes at Hollywood Park.

"THANKS YOU"

Around Memorial Day - We always run a big TIRE AD - But honestly we have been so busy - that we haven't had time to write one.

REASON : We sell tires much more competitively than our competition. We're just so much bigger than our local competition. Here is a big list of the brands we're more competitive with:

MICHELIN X - POLYGLASS - DUNLOP SEMPERIT PIRELLI - BRIDGESTONE MONROE SHOCKS - OUR OWN PRIVATE BRAND

That we really discount in a big way - it's our label - just like Shell Oil or Wards or Sears or Standard Oil or Union Oil have their brands. The difference is that we save you the 25% it costs them to distribute their brands.

The Come Up-of this Whole Thing IS CAIN'S SELLS YOU A BETTER PRODUCT FOR LESS DOLLARS.

A DRIVE AROUND THE BLOCK

Startled motorists saw one of the famed Indianapolis-type STP-Turbocars drive on a city street in Santa Monica the other day when Vincent Granatelli, European director of the STP racing team, drove it on an air pollution test. It failed to qualify for the Memorial Day race because of engine restrictions. The controversial "Silent Screamer" still holds the Indianapolis lap record of 171.559. (AP Wirephoto)

Kuhn: Baseball Must Have Reserve System

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn's claims that baseball cannot exist without the reserve system, will be attacked in cross examination Thursday in the seventh day of Curt Flood's $3 million anti-trust suit against baseball.

Jay Topkis, one of Flood's lawyers, barely got started on cross examination of the commissioner Wednesday after Kuhn had testified that the game could not continue to operate on a league basis if the reserve system were removed.

TRADED

Flood, formerly a star center fielder with the St. Louis Cardinals, balked at reporting to the Philadelphia Phillies after he was traded last winter and brought suit against the baseball establishment. One of his main targets is the reserve system, a complex set of rules that provide a club with the option to renew a player's contract each year.

Exectuves of other sports have testified to the way their reserve system operates. Football, for instance, has a clause that permits a player to play one year after his contract has expired and then become a free agent.

Kuhn said the football system would be "very bad" for baseball because he would be concerned about the integrity of the game and the effects on equal competition.

"In our game," said Kuhn, "and in our game alone, I am not talking about football. If a player could play out his option there would be the built-in evils of tampering and behind the scenes negotiations that tend to shake the public confidence in the game."

IMPOSSIBLE

Kuhn said it was impossible to compare baseball and football in economic operation because football has a ready made player development system in the colleges and baseball has to support a minor league system. He also said he thought it was easier to replace a guard or a blocking tackle than a Tom Seaver or a player on the Baltimore Orioles.

The commissioner had found problems in several alternatives to the reserve system given in previous testimony by Hall of Famer Hank Greenberg and Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Baseball Players Association.

Miller had suggested the option be restricted to a definite number of years. Kuhn said this would open the door to a player dealing with another club while still with his first club and possible tampering. He claimed the richer teams would tend to sign the most players and the stars would gravitate to the richer teams.

'A MISTAKE'

As for Miller's suggestion that competitive leagues might be organized, Kuhn said, "that would destroy the game as it now exists."

Kuhn said he felt the decision of the players association to back the Flood case was a "serious mistake." He insisted the matter of considering any modifications of the reserve system should be a subject for bargaining between players and clubs. He said Miller's proposals were all generalized and imprecise.

Good Showing By McPhersons In Keg Tourney

Rich McPherson, 17, of San Rafael, representing Country Club Bowl, was second in the Northern California division of the All-American Youth Bowling Championships and his sister, Nancy, 13, placed sixth.

The two young bowlers advanced through house, sectional, and semifinal eliminations, followed by the finals last weekend at Blackstone Lanes in Fresno.

Winning five of his eight matches, Rich averaged 192 for 20 games with high game of 257. Nancy averaged 170 for 20 games.

Two weeks prior to the tourney, Nancy bowled a 235 game and 605 series in the Youth Bowling Association state championships in Fremont, good for second place in the junior girls scratch division.

Angel Suffers Broken Wrist

ANAHEIM (AP) — California Angels outfielder Bill Voss suffered a fractured left wrist prior to Wednesday night's game with the Oakland A's and was immediately placed on the disabled list.

Voss, hitting .269 and the hero of a 4-2 Angel victory Tuesday, was hit by a line drive off the bat of Joe Azcue during batting practice.

Tom Silverio was recalled from Hawaii to take Voss' place on the roster.

Ivy League Coach For Shrine Tilt

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Shrine East-West college football game will offer its biggest halftime show in several years next Jan. 2, and will include Ivy League representation for the first time in 19 years.

A giant American flag, almost the side of a football field, will be featured in the "Shriners' Patriotic Day" pageant, game officials told a news conference Wednesday. The game will be played in the Oakland Coliseum for the first time.

Such a flag has been used in past East-West shows, but it was missing in recent years because of difficulties in getting it set up in San Francisco's Kezar Stadium and Candlestick Park, sites of the games.

Shrine officials also announced that the Ivy League has given permission for Yale Coach Carmen Cozza to serve as an assistant on the East coaching staff.

The last Ivy Leaguers to take part in the game, including Princeton's Heisman Trophy winner Dick Kazmaier, appeared in 1952.

The Ivy League has had a policy prohibiting players or the coaches from taking part in postseason games. There apparently has been no change in the policy for players.

John Pont of Indiana will be head coach of the East and Eddie Crowder of Colorado will coach the West in the 1971 game.

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

It's A Big Day Of Relief For The A.L. Pitchers

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Relief in the American League is as close as the nearest bullpen.

Mudcat Grant, Pete Richert, Jack Aker, Darold Knowles and Moe Drabowsky all came galloping to the rescue Wednesday night and provided the clutch pitching their teams needed.

Grant worked the final 2 2-3 innings in Oakland's 4-3 triumph over California; Richert put down a Cleveland threat in the ninth, preserving Baltimore's 5-4 victory; Aker checked Detroit on one hit over the last four innings as the New York Yankees beat the Tigers 4-2; Knowles picked up his first win of the year with four scoreless farmes in Washington's 7-5 verdict over Boston and Drabowsky got the last four outs as Kansas City shaded the Chicago White Sox 4-3.

Milwaukee's scheduled game at Minnesota was rained out.

In the National League, Cincinnati stopped San Diego 6-4, Pittsburgh blanked the Chicago Cubs 4-0, the New York Mets shut out St. Louis 3-0, Atlanta thumped Houston 8-1, San Francisco mauled Los Angeles 11-3 and Philadelphia zipped Montreal 3-0.

Sixth-inning homers by Joe Rudi and Sal Bando gave Oakland the lead over California and Grant nailed down the victory. Coming on in the seventh, he fed an inning-ending double play ball to Bob Johnson, struck out Joe Azcue and Roger Repoz with two runners aboard in the eighth and set the Angels down in order in the ninth.

Richert, who has been scored on in only one of 13 relief appearances, showed up in the ninth after Ted Uhlaender and Eddie Leon opened for Cleveland with singles. He got Duke Sims to bounce into a double play, yielded a run-scoring single to Tony Horton, but retired Chuck Hinton on a fly ball for the final out.

The Indians had combined four singles, a wild pitch and an infield out for three runs in the top of the seventh and led 3-2. But the Orioles bounced right back, with Don Buford stroking a two-run baseloaded single and the eventual winning run crossing on Mark Belanger's infield roller. Starter Jim Palmer homered earlier for Baltimore.

Aker appeared on the Yankee scene earlier than usual — in the sixth inning. The Tigers, trailing 4-1, had runners on first and third and none out. Willie Horton's sacrifice fly got one run home but Aker slammed the door after that.

Knowles picked up his win when the Senators rallied for three runs in the seventh to hand the Red Sox their 15th setback in 20 games.

Del Unser, who hit the first pitch of the game for a home run, ignited the winning rally with his third hit. Mike Epstein blooped a two-run double and scored on Bernie Allen's triple, a liner which Tony Conigliaro misjudged. Rico Petrocelli homered and doubled for the Sox, driving in three runs.

Bill Melton had just singled home Chicago's third run with two out in the eighth when Drabowsky took over for Kansas City and calmed things down.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Bonds Hard To Beat For Income Levels

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I am retired, partially disabled and derive all my income from Social Security and 1,500 shares of Sears, Roebuck stock. I understand this is a high-grade investment but need more income. Could you advise what would be best for my situation? — T.J.

A. With bonds yielding around 9 per cent your present capital could produce over $7,800 in annual income as opposed to $2,000 from your Sears shares. I would, however, not favor selling all your Sears, which might entail a heavy capital gains tax. By switching 500 shares to a high-yield bond you could add approximately $1,000 to you annual return.

Two qualifying recent bond issues are AA-rated Pensylvania Power 9¼s of 2000 and Union Electric 9s of 2000. Both are trading at a slight premium and are protected agains refunding until 1975. Sale of a second 500 shares is advised at higher levels. I would retain 500 shares of Sears for gradual growth.

Q. I have shares of Copper Range, bought at 73. The stock has declined recently, despite good earnings. I would appreciate your comments on future growth prospects. — F.H.

A. Because of the tremendous demand for copper and the boost in prices to 60 cents per pound initiated by Copper Range in January, copper companies were expected to report big earnings gains in 1970's first quarter. Copper Range led the list with a hefty 91 per cent increase in net income on a 22 per cent rise in sales.

While CPX operates only one mine, White Pine, the company plans to expand these already sizable facilities to substantially increase output. Additional benefits should be derived from improving margins in the Hussey fabricating division. This operation accounts for approximately 30 per cent of consolidated sales.

Copper stocks may be under some pressure as traders await the government's report on copper price structure. However the outcome is not expected to adversely affect industry trends. With copper demand and prices expected to remain strong, CPX should continue its healthy growth strides. Shares have speculative appreciation value.

Wall Street In Another Big Advance

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market scored another spectacular advance today as the Dow Jones Industrial Average soared in the heaviest trading of the year.

The closely watched barometer of 30 top blue chip companies was ahead 20.95 at 684.15 near the final bell. This on the heels of its best single-day advance ever on Wednesday when it spurted more than 32 points.

The UPI Market Indicator, measuring all stocks traded, showed a gain of 2.66 per cent on 1,614 issues across the tape. Of these, 1,203 advanced, 265 declined.

Volume ballooned to around 19 million shares, compared with the previous 1970 high of 17,510,000 shares on March 25, the day major banks reduced the prime interest rate.

Analysts said that while much of the jubilation carried over from Wednesday, the market also appeared to be giving a favorable response to President Nixon's Wednesday dinner meeting with leaders of the business and financial community.

Among the day's most active issues were Occidental Petroleum, Telex Corp., ESB Inc., Penn Central and International Telephone.

In late trading, Occidental Petroleum was up 1-2 on 242.100 shares, Telex was down 1-8 on 202,000 shares, ESB was 3-4 higher on 170,200 shares, Penn Central was down 1-4 on 142,200 shares, and International Telephone was up 2 1-8 on 101,900 shares.

Also active were University Computing, down 5-8 in late trading, and American Telephone. Xerox closed up 2 at 78 and AT&T gained 1-2, closing at 44 3-4.

Point-sized gainers were spread throughout the list, although electronics were among the strongest performers, as was the case in the previous session. IBM, which climbed 17 Wednesday, gained 8 more today, closing at 267. Du Pont closed up 4 at 108 3-4.

Prices gained sharply in brisk trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Market Jitters Fail To Slow Travel Plans

NEW YORK (BW) — An indiciation that the recent sharp decline in the stock market does not necessarily reflect the overall state of the economy, was revealed yesterday in the latest nationwide sales figures from a leading travel and travel service company.

There are no signs of a slowdown in overall spending by business or pleasure travelers, according to Howard L. Clark, chairman of American Express Co.

"On the contrary," Clark stated, "as of today our indicators show both current and planned spending for travel continuing to run well ahead of year-ago levels. There have been virtually no cancellation even on our most expensive grand tours.

"Furthermore, travelers cheque, card billing and tour booking figures for the latest monthly reporting period, when stock markets have been especially skittish, are running well ahead of last year's record results.

"Travelers cheques, because they are typically purchased only days before a trip departure, provide an excellent barometer of current travel spending. For the mid-April/ay period, sales are 17.7 per cent ahead of the comparable 1969 period.

"Travel and entertainment charges on American Express cards tell the same story. The latest monthly billings are up 30 per cent over the same 1969 period. This would not seem to indicate that travel by businessmen is being seriously restricted as some have suggested.

"And the pattern holds for foreign travel as reflected in tour bookings. For the four weeks just ended, the increase over the same period last year is 99.7 per cent."

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Dizziness After Standing Up Suddenly Is Common Malady

In orthostatic or postural hypotension the person usually complains of weakness and lightheadedness when he suddenly stands up. The brain does not get enough blood for a moment or two because, on assuming the erect posture, the blood pressure goes down instead of up.

Most of us are not bothered in this way because our reflex center constricts the arteries, raises the pressure, and quickens the pulse thus insuring the brain of enough blood immediately on standing. Postural hypotesion is easily recognized. The blood pressure, taken while reclining and immediately after standing, may drop from 20 to 40 points. The pulse remains unchanged.

DIZZINESS, blurring of vision, faintness, and weakness may also occur under similar cicumstances without a fall in blood pressure. There are other reasons why the brain does not get enough blood. In oldsters, the arteries leading to the brain may be narrowed, and on changing posture, the individual must hang onto the bed or a chair to keep from falling.

The same occurs when the heart muscle is weakened and cannot pump enough blood to the brain in an emergency. A similar situation is seen when the heart rate slows down as a result of a blockage of the conduction system.

Many people complain of wooziness when they first stand up after being bedridden for a week or more. In these circumstances the arteries have lost tone and do not constrict to convey blood to the brain. The best remedy for most of these conditions is to take more time in assuming an erect position. The opposite occurs to the soldier who faints while standing at attention for hours. Through gravity, the blood leaves the brain and accumulates in the abdomen and lower extremities.

Dizziness and fainting that occur after a vigorous cough, hearty laugh, or while urinating, are more difficult to explain.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J.)

DENTURES

N.B. writes: Could loose dentures (only the uppers) be responsible for excessive sneezing? I've sneezed as many as 48 times in one day.

REPLY

No, but don't lose that loose plate. The exception occurs when the loose dentures set up a reflex making the nose itch. Frequent sneezing usually stems from nasal congestion resulting from an allergy or vasomotor rhinitis.

CAFFEINE

I.C. writes: Why is coffee bad for the person with glaucoma?

REPLY

Coffee is a stimulant and when consumed in large amounts, increases tension, especially in narrow angle glaucoma. In this disorder, the outflow of fluid in the eye is blocked and thus eyeball tension is increased.

OVERWORKED

A.N. writes: Can a person become mentally ill through overwork?

REPLY

This is one of the causes, especially when the individual becomes so overwhelmed he cannot see his way clear. Mental illness occurs when the breaking point is reached.

CANCER OF LIP

A reader writes: What are the signs of cancer of the lip?

REPLY

The majority begin as small lumps or crusted lesions that ulcerate and fail to heal. Either of these may produce bleeding. Incidentally, this form of cancer favors men.

Today's Health Hint — A good fence will keep the toddler out of the street.

Motorcycle Theft Suspect Escapes

A man observed trying to put a motorcycle in the rear of a truck parked on Park Street yesterday at 4:30 a.m. fled when police summoned by a witness arrived to investigate.

The motorcycle found underneath a blanket in the truck was stolen from the garage of Monte F. Madeiros at 212 Belle Avenue, police said.

The police are looking for the owner of the truck, Louis Anthony DuBois of Redwood City.

Also found on the seat of the truck were bolt cutters, a wrench, screwdriver, gloves, a flashlight and a radiocorder, police reported.

The only President to use the word "affirm" instead of "swear" when taking the oath of office was Franklin Pierce.

Sewer Plans For Marina Are Studied

Preliminary plans for a sewage disposal system for a 26-unit houseboat marina on Waldo Point north of Sausalito were referred to an engineer for further study this week by directors of the Sausalito-Marin City Sanitary District.

According to chairman Cyril Hansen, the plans from Waldo Point property owners George Kappas and Donlin J. Arques were given to District Engineer Ben C. Albritton who will make recommendations to the board at its June 22 meeting.

The Sausalito-Marin City Sanitary District board also:

SALARIES — Voted to approve a salary for directors of $25 per regular board meeting and $5 per special or adjourned meeting.

RAISES — Approved a 5.6 per cent cost of living raise and step increases for the district's three employees. Plant Supt. William C. Dabner will receive $1,284 a month, up from $1,216. The salary of Raymond Mullis, assistant plant operator, will be raised from $714 to $788 and the salary of Donald S. Jupp, assistant plant operator, will be raised from $630 to $697.

Campaign Signs Are Reported Vandalized

Widespread vandalism of Ray Shone for State Senate campaign signs was reported today by Shone's campaign headquarters.

Richard Nave, his general campaign manager, said more than 50 of the 100 signs on private property in Marin have been covered with a sign showing a skull and crossbones and reading "Recycle Nixon."

Low Wages Aiding Seoul's Economy

Editor's Note:—South Korea is enjojyjiing an export boom, largely because of the low wages paid to the country's workers, more particularly to the women workers.

By MAX SUICH
London Financial Times

SEOUL — At 19, Chung Je Yeung works a 48-hour, six-day week in the acrid fumes of the glue shop of South Korea's biggest plywood factory for a take-home salary of just $38 a month.

She pays out $12 a month for her bed and board and though she's been away from home now for two months she still sends back to her widowed mother $18 a month.

By the time she gives up her job to get married in about 18 months time, Miss Chung will have saved a small but respectable sum—around $100.

These small details of a working girl's budget are among the more important statistics that South Korea can offer today.

For it is on the slim shoulders of Miss Chung and her fellow workers—and on their even slimmer pay packets—that much of the economic future of South Korea rests.

The low wages rates of the 1.5 million employes of manufacturing industry have been the key factor in producing the country's remarkable export boom.

Commodity exports which were worth only $75 million in 1963 were worth a claimed $640 million last year (though some foreign observers believe the figure closer to $600 million).

The average annual growth of commodity exports over the past 10 years has been 40 per cent.

And this export growth has in turn fuelled a major economic recovery in Korea over the past four years.

The nation's low wage rates have also brought an increasing amount of foreign investment to Korea, mainly from the United States and Japan. Foreign investment totalling $27 million flowed into Korea in 1968. Last year it rose sharply to $43 million.

In Seoul, the South Korean capital, this boom is producing a crop of high-rise buildings pushing up from the weeds and crumbling shop fronts of the old city.

Expressways on stilts stride through the capital, and although the whole of Korea can muster only 100,000 vehicles, the taxi-drivers of Seoul can now achieve satisfactory traffic jams in the capital at morning and evening peaks.

In Seoul and the other big cities, too, people are getting their first staste of the consumer society. The office-girls dress smartly and their minis are shorter and more stylish than in Tokyo.

Seoul, with its bulging population of 4.5 million (700,000 of that added in 1969 alone) is now one of the bigger cities of the world.

The rush to the cities has caused a critical housing shortage. But inside the shacks of Seoul's shany towns a growing number of people now have a sewing machine or a transistor radio.

The middle class is just beginning to pursue the status of a new car—a Ford Cortina costs $3,900 and a German Ford Taunus costs $5,800. Both cars are assembled in Korea, and they can only be bought with cash.

Because of the economic recovery, the regime of President Chung Hee Park is growing in authority and confidence, and the man in the city street and rural village is beginning to see a real hope of a substantially better existence in his lifetime.

South Korea of course still faces huge problems. Not the least of these is the Communist regime in the North.

The air of tension that one encounters as the border is approached reflects a genuinely tense situation. Sixteen southern divisions face 16 northern divisions across the Demilitarized Zone. Incidents provoked by both sides are commonplace.

South Korea remains in fear of—and prepares for—another invasion by the North.

South Korea today remains the garrison state it has been since the end of the Korean War. A strict curfew blacks out Seoul and all but two extreme southern provinces every night at midnight.

A standing army of 600,000 men—the fourth biggest in the world—is kept under arms and a further 2 million men are on call in the reserves. A third of the Korean budget and some $160 million of American aid funds were spent defending South Korea last year.

All this has served to deter another invasion.

But in the future South Korea's survival will increasingly depend on its success in maintaining internal stability by its own efforts—a stability that will in turn depend largely on economic performance.

Which brings us full circle back to Miss Chung and her fellow workers whose low wages are attracting increasing foreign interest.

Innocent Plea To Pot Plants

Michael Dennis Giammarese, 24, of San Rafael, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to charges of cultivating and possessing marijuana.

A preliminary hearing was set for June 15.

Giammarese was arrested May 12 after a policeman noticed a suspected marijuana plant in his window and later returned with a search warrant and found more suspected grass.

Emperor In Russia

MOSCOW (UPI) — Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia arrived today on a "friendly official visit" to the Soviet Union and talks with Kremlin leaders, the Soviet news agency Tass reported.

Hickel Reports His Mail Running Heavy

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel says he has received 15,000 letters since he wrote President Nixon three weeks ago to urge the administration to listen more attentively to young people.

Hickel did not indicate whether the majority of the letters favored or opposed his stand. He was questioned by reporters when he appeared with First Lady Pat Nixon at the dedication of the Filene Center for the Performing Arts at Wolf Trap Farm Park in nearby Virginia.

$11 Billion Is Urged To Better Food Supplies

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The world should spend at least $11 billion annually to improve its food supply, members of the American Institute of Food Technology say.

Polled at their 30th annual convention which ends here today, the food experts indicated the money should come from all sources— government, industry and private.

More than 4,700 are attending the convention.

The $11 billion figure was an average of their replies, which said it could be spent most effectively in developing higher yielding strains of present day foods.

Other suggestions were to create new foods from plankton in the sea or from cells feeding upon petroleum, to reduce harvest losses and to train more people in modern food production and processing.

Suharto Sees Some Good In Cambodian Push

WASHINGTON (AP) — Indonesia's President Suharto, says the achievement of American and Vietnamese forces in Cambodia will help speed the Vietnamization process and also contribute to the speedy withdrawal of American forces from Southeast Asia.

He made the comment Wednesday night at an Indonesian embassy reception in his honor at the conclusion of a two-day state visit.

Before departing Thursday for New York and a meeting with U.N. Secretary General U Thant, the 48-year-old Indonesian leader said Indonesia joined with other Asian nations in asking that all foreign forces be withdrawn from Cambodia so that its neutrality can be restored.

The Indonesian leader arranged a farewell call with President Nixon before departing for New York.

Woman Fatally Wounds Robber

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Police said a woman liquor store owner shot a man to death Wednesday night as he robbed her store.

Officers said the owner, Lilly Jee, 41, gave James Norman, 24, of Los Angeles, some money but he demanded more.

Mrs. Jee, whose husband was killed 10 years ago by a robber in the store, shot Norman with a revolver hidden under the counter, police said.

Officers said although Norman was unarmed, no charges were being filed against Mrs. Jee.

"I will work for the passage of a law in California that will make it illegal for California boys to fight overseas in an undeclared, unconstitutional war that the federal government has no intention of militarily winning."

Liberty Amendment
"I will work for the passage by our State Legislature of the 'Liberty Amendment' which would, when passed by three-fourths of the State Legislatures and Congress, repeal the 16th Amendment and the federal personal income, estate and gift taxes. Further, it would cause the federal government to sell back to private industry some seven hundred plus businesses in which it is engaged in direct violation of the Constitution. The money saved and the taxes created by this additional private industry would more than offset the revenue lost through abolishment of the federal personal income, estate and gift taxes."

Campus Unrest
"Campus turmoil at our colleges and universities today is due to a small minority of intellectual revolutionaries and anarchists among the professors and students who are able to lead a percentage of the student body to accomplish any destructive objective. COAST Tells Its Stand On Candidates

Californians Organized to Acquire Access to State Tidelands (COAST) has endorsed candidates in both Sonoma County and state elections on Tuesday.

Richard R. Day, a Rohnert Park attorney, was endorsed for supervisor from Southern Sonoma, while Dale E. Spencer, a Healdsburg contractor, was endorsed for Northern Sonoma supervisor.

Charles E. O'Brien received the organization's approval for state attorney general while Barry Keene of Santa Rosa was endorsed for the Democratic nomination for the state Assembly from the Second District.

Dr. William M. Kortum, a Petaluma veterinarian, was endorsed to win the Democratic nomination to the House of Representatives from the first district.

The organization urged a No vote on Proposition 7, an amendment increasing the interest rate of state bonds.

While saying the amendment may be financially necessary, the group said it objects because nearly half the bonds in question are for the completion of the Feather River project that would transport water from the north to the San Joaquin Valley and Southern California.

The conservationists say rejection of the proposition will slow development and allow time for state and local authorities to carefully plan future growth.

Marin Unit Backs Health Merger Plan

The Marin Comprehensive Health Planning Council has agreed with its eight sister councils that its parent body, the Bay Area Comprehensive Health Planning Council, merge with the Bay Area Health Facilities Planning Council.

Under state and federal law, the regional health planning council thus becomes responsible for review of health facility needs, a function previously handled by the health facilities planning council.

According to Michael Ingerman, administrator of the county comprehensive health group, the merger will also bring the two groups together at the county level.

In agreeing to the merger, the county comprehensive health council will fill seven existing vacancies on its board with four former health facilities planners and three representatives of the poor from the public at large, Ingerman said.

The health facilities agency will go out of existence, Ingerman added. However, local comprehensive health planning council review of facilities will be conducted by former members of health facilities planning.

A nominating committee made up of members from both local groups will meet Monday to consider the seven appointments to the county comprehensive health planning board.

Virginia Twister Injures Pupils

RADFORD, Va. (UPI)—Six children were injured, one of them seriously, when a sudden gust of "twister-like" winds rippled a glass and steel roof from an elementary school Wednesday and slammed it onto a crowded playground.

Officials said David Ridpath, a seven-year-old second grader at Belle Heth Elementary School, suffered a severely cut leg when a large section of wire-reinforced glass struck him down as he was playing near some swings.

They said about 400 children were in the playground when the twisting winds pulled the heavy roof off a "daylight corridor" and slammed it into their midst.

WHAT A WAY TO BEGIN A VACATION

Smoke pours from a northbound car on Highway 101 that broke into flames early today. Driver Michael Fuestas of Campbell taking his family to a vacation outing to the Gualala River when he was flagged down by a passing motorist at 6:49 a.m. south on La Mont Avenue in Novato and told his car was afire. The blaze, starting in the right rear tire, burned through the fender well into the backseat causing an undetermined amount of damage. (Independent-Journal photo)

King Teachers' Anonymous Poll Defends Walton Work

Sidney F. Walton, embattled ex-principal of Martin Luther King School, won a strong vote of confidence from the school's 18 teachers in a poll taken a week before Walton was fired by Sausalito School District trustees. Results were released yesterday.

Anonymously answering 31 questions on Walton's performance, the teachers said by large majorities that he had done an excellent or satisfactory job.

Walton's weakest areas, according to the poll, were in keeping the staff informed of school events, where 11 rated him excellent or satisfactory and seven unsatisfactory, and in checking to see curriculum was followed, where he got eight ratings of excellent or satisfactory and five of unsatisfactory; three teachers indicated they had no chance to observe his performance in this respect.

Walton got a rating of 18 to 0 in providing scheduled in-service training time, 17 to 0 for promptness in responding to work orders, and 15 to 0 in seeing work orders are completed satisfactorily.

Giving "excellent or satisfactory" ratings first, Walton received a vote of 15-3 for insuring school policies are known to all, 12-4 for regularly checking teachers in classrooms, 12-5 for helping and supporting the teaching staff, and 14-3 for helping teachers involved in situations with parents, students or the board.

He had a 14-4 rating for involving students, teachers and parents in making decisions, 11-5 for insuring the classified staff supports teachers, 16-2 for involving teachers in in-service planning, and 14-1 for providing for coordination between grades.

He was given a 16-2 rating for leadership in organizations and over-all administration, 14-3 for handling on-the-spot discipline problems and 14-2 for consistency in discipline matters.

His rating was 15-2 for formulating educational goals, 13-3 for providing ways to implement goals, 10-2 for providing guidelines for each grade's subject areas, and 8-3 for taking corrective action when the curriculum was not taught.

His rating was 10-5 in giving necessary evaluations and suggestions for improvement, 12-4 for resourcefulness in helping staff with curriculum and professional development, and 16-1 for hearing and accepting innovative programming and curriculum.

The teachers rated him excellent or satisfactory by 13-3 for considering staff differences in curriculum development, 17-1 for stressing the need for individualized instruction, 16-2 for seeing teachers have adequate supplies, and 15-3 for seeing class periods are uniform and coordinated.

His rating was 16-2 for making periodic visits of the grounds and buildings, 16-2 for providing adequate playground and building supervision, 13-5 for being available for conferences and emergencies during school hours and 11-3 for forwarding staff correspondence to the superintendent and the board.

Teachers were given the evaluation forms in their mailboxes, and returned them in sealed envelopes to insure a secret vote, according to teacher Armando F. Flores, chairman of the evaluation committee appointed by the school's faculty.

No Verdicts Yet In State Signup Fray

The Sonoma State College judicial board reached no decision today in the case of five students charged with disrupting registration.

The student-faculty judicial board met for several hours yesterday to weigh testimony given at a hearing Tuesday.

If found guilty, the students would be subject to probation, suspension or expulsion.

Accused of overturning tables and disrupting registration on May 5 are Michael Funke, Toni Novak, Charles Bonner, Elliot Raleigh and William Mosely.

At the hearing, students testified that outside agitators were completely responsible for the disruption.

Fiddleheads first sprouted some 300 million years ago. The leaves of some early species grew three feet long. In the Carboniferous age, 250 million years ago, ferns became enormous — 100 feet tall with diameters of several feet. These giant ferns helped form the earth's coal deposits.

Many Names On Ballot For College

An upsurge of interest, at least among candidates, was evident on the College of Marin campus as students voted today and yesterday for fall semester student body officers.

Four candidates are running for president, two for vice president and at least one for each of the eight other posts to be filled. In the past two semesters, several posts had to be filled by appointment for lack of candidates.

Running for president are Christopher Arend, John Leaven, Gerald Foster and Robert Fox. Fox lost to James Detro in the election for spring semester president.

Candidates for vice president are Richard Bottarini and Samuel Walker.

Unopposed candidates are Kathy Reed for secretary, Terri Keyser for yell leader, Elaine Strahlendorf for song leader, and Michael Mulqueeney for public relations commissioner.

William Hinman and Nancy Oliva are running for treasurer; Dean Carry, Kathy Rushton, and Michael Satterlee for college center commissioner; Lynne Huddleston and Richard Mills for spirit and athletics commissioner, and Galen Dunham and Eric Hadden for rallies and assemblies commissioners.

Four class representatives will be appointed by the new officers in the fall. Voting was to end at 4 p.m. today.

Indochina Protest In Muir Beach

The Muir Beach Community Services District board has taken a stand against United States involvement in Indochina.

Chairman Gerry Pearlman said the board has voted to "register its strong protest against the United States involvement in Indochina.

Pearlman said state and federal legislators representing Marin have been informed of the decision.

Sausalito Gun-Waving Denied By Suspects

Victor Altoa Grant, 42, and Jack Bowan McClellan, 35, both of San Francisco pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to charges of assaulting two men in Sausalito last Saturday with a deadly weapon.

They are also accused of displaying a .38 caliber revolver against Steven Barnes and Paul Ferrez in a rude and threatening manner.

Police said that they arrested the San Francisco men after Barnes and Ferrez, who live at 410 Johnson Street, said they were standing in front of their house when two men approached them.

Grant pointed a pistol at Barnes' head, saying "get into Paul's bedroom," Barnes told police. Once inside Grant put the gun away but pulled out a three-inch knife and threatened Barnes.

Grant told Barnes and Ferrez to accompany him, but the Sausalito man ran to the police station. Police later arrested Grant and McClellan after finding a gun and razor near their car.

Their case has been continued to June 3 for setting of a preliminary hearing.

Larry Harris Will Lead Drake High Student Body

Larry Harris has been elected student body president for the fall semester at Sir Francis Drake High School. He defeated Jerry Suyderhoud.

Bill Elliott defeated Stephany Kramer for the office of vice president. Tracy Rudee was elected secretary and Kristin Niemann, treasurer, both candidates unopposed.

Newly elected class officers are:

Senior class: Jim Phelps, running unopposed, was elected president. Mike Ardito defeated Judi Cunnings for vice president in a runoff election after they both defeated Sue La Belle. Toni Soldavini defeated Liz Crean for the office of secretary and Karen Stranzl was elected treasurer, winning over Mollie Perkins.

Junior class: Roger Smith defeated Craig Dahl to become president. Charlene Leone was elected vice president winning over Billie Barbash, Daniel Danner and Denise Hockley. Milly Mensing was elected secretary over Vicki Movey and Jill Ashley. Anne Harrison, running unopposed became treasurer.

Sophomore class: Jeff Franceschi defeated Scott Mensing for president. Karen Evje was elected vice president, winning over Allen Ford and Maggie Olson. Sue Judkins was elected secretary in a runoff election with Viki Lanreville after both defeated Denni Locke and Janice Richey. Josette Casalnuovo defeated Joni Arends in a runoff election for treasurer, both having defeated Leslie Meeker and Dianne Winsor.

Chris Braun, Mark Shepherd and Eileen Wilson, seniors next fall, were elected to the high school senate.

Sophomore yell leaders include Vicki Abballo, Connie Busse, Debbie Clark and Terri Sherseth. Songleaders are Marybeth Boerger; Barbara Gravem, Carol Pugh and Cole Swenson.

Lewis Will Guide Novato Chamber

Charles E. Lewis, manager of the Novato branch of Santa Rosa Savings and Loan Association last night was elected president of the Novato Chamber of Commerce, according to secretary Billie Garl.

Ned Dean of General Business Services, was elected first vice president and attorney John A. Trumbull, second vice president. Iver Suess, manager of the Novato branch of the Bank of America was elected treasurer.

The officers will be installed at the annual dinner at 6:30 p.m. June 24 at the Sportsman's Lodge on Highway 101 north of Novato.

The board voted to favor a use permit for the Pizza Hut on the southeast corner of Machin and De Long avenues, according to Mrs. Garl.

Backs Appointment

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Senate today confirmed the appointment of Martin G. Castillo of California as chairman of the Cabinet Committee on Opportunities for Spanish-Speaking People.

Fires Hit Sausalito Apartments

Fires swept two Sausalito apartments yesterday, causing extensive damage but no injury, according to the Sausalito Fire Department.

Chief Charles E. Masten said the first blaze was reported at 4:07 p.m. Firemen responded to 47 Buckley Avenue and put out a fire in the bedroom of an apartment. Damage was estimated at $500 to building and contents. The tenant, Jay Bass, was not at home.

The second fire, at 9:04 p.m., caused extensive damage to a garage and studio apartment at 65 Cloud View Road, Masten said. It apparently started in the garage and spread to the apartment, he said.

Four units and 19 men brought the blaze under control in 22 minutes, but mopping-up operations weren't complete until midnight.

Damage to the building, owned by Mrs. Fraser Gump, was estimated at $10,000 to $15,000, Masten said.

The causes of both blazes are under investigations.

Lederman Is Redwood High Vote Victor

Junior Steve Lederman has been elected student body president at Redwood High School for the fall term. Lederman defeated Anders Carlsson for the top spot.

Runoff elections were to be held today for vice presidential candidates Cindy Osborn and Ruth MacKay, and candidates for secretary, Kirk Pessner and Christy Wise.

Eliminated in earlier balloting were Chris Fritz and Georgette Barda, running for vice president, and Suze Joy, running for secretary.

Coby Jordan was elected commissioner of justice, defeating Joe Franaszek.

Song girls chosen were Kathy del Portillo, Michelle Pla, Tony Brajkovich, Lesha Clinch, Donnie Dowd, Denise Davis and Mary Dorinson.

Cheer leaders elected were Robert Zimmerman, John Wren, Woody Buckner, Robin Dix, Andrea Schultz, and Pam Tikker.

Student body rules prohibit releasing vote totals in order to avoid embarrassing losers.

Injuries Minor To Greenbrae Motorist

A 44-year-old Greenbrae man was treated at Marin General Hospital yesterday for facial cuts and bruises and a fractured left leg after an accident on Via La Cumbre in Greenbrae.

The California Highway Patrol said a car driven by Robert S. McDannold, of 255 Via La Cumbre, struck a legally parked car belonging to Nicholas A. Boutacoff, of 19 Sonoma Street, San Rafael. No further details were available.

Ferryboat's New Name Is Golden Gate

The ferryboat Point Loma, which was purchased by the Golden Gate Bridge District to run between Sausalito and San Francisco, will be renamed the Golden Gate.

The new name was approved this morning on a 15-1 vote by the Golden Gate Bridge directors. The lone no vote came from Daniel F. Del Carlo of San Francisco, who suggested that Santa Maria should be the name because the bridge district had more trouble getting the ferryboat than Columbus did on his voyage to America.

Dale W. Luehring, general manager of the district, reported that the remodeling of the ferryboat will take more time than expected and the operation is expected to start Aug. 1.

The boat was purchased for $558,000, but will need about $80,000 in modifications. Opening of bids for the modification job is set for June 12. The boat can carry 582 passengers and has a cruising speed of 15 knots. The modifications include enclosing the deck and adding a sun deck on top.

The directors also hired a transit manager to handle the bus and ferry oerations for $26,500 a year. He is H. Donald White, assistant general manager of the Alameda-Contra Costa Transit System. His appointment was approved by a 15-1 vote, with Robert P. Gonzales of San Francisco dissenting. All three of Marin's directors voted for the appointment.

The next meeting of the bridge board was set for 10 a.m. June 11 instead of June 12. Gonzeles asked for the change because he will be out of the state on June 12.

$65,000 Prelim Budget Adopted

The Terra Linda Community Services District last night adopted a preliminary budget of $65,000, Terra Linda Fire Chief George Walser said today.

Although it is $500 above last year's figure, the new budget would mean a decrease in the tax rate from 93 cents to 90 cents per $100 assessed valuation, according to Walser.

The reduction is due to an increase in the assessed value of property in the district from $6.6 million to $7.2 million for the fiscal year beginning July 1, he said.

A public hearing on the budget will be held June 15, Walsher said.

The major items in the budget are street lighting and fire department operation, according to the chief.

VOTE "NO" ☒

COUNTY MEASURE "A" ---- LOW-RENT HOUSING PROJECTS
WHY YOU SHOULD VOTE "NO" [X]

1. The cost is prohibitive and inflationary (proponents estimate 12½ million dollars).
2. Property taxes will spiral as more and more land is removed from the tax rolls.
3. There will be no Federal financial assistance. Our Government is already billions of dollars in debt. Every dollar it supplies will first be taken from we the people.
4. Cost will not end with construction; there will be continuing maintenance, repairs and costly supervision.
5. Interference with local planning; exceptions must be made, not granted to private citizens.
6. Eligibility will be decided by a non-elected board (bureaucratic dictate).
7. People who apply will sacrifice their "freedom of choice" as to where they desire to live.
8. The analysis of this low-income housing measure is too vague for a positive vote. Where will the proposed housing be located? What is decent, safe, sanitary or overcrowded? At what age is a person considered elderly? What proportion of the housing will be allotted to the elderly? There is no cost breakdown provided in the analysis. Approval of this measure would be synonymous to signing a blank check, as few voters understand the many ramifications of public housing programs.
9. By the same authority that the Government provides low-rent housing for low-income families and the elderly, could it not so provide mansions for the rich?
10. Like all socialistic schemes, this one will:
    a) Condition the public to accept the next program that will surely follow.
    b) Contribute to the decline of self-reliance and individual responsibility, as each successive plan brings more dependence on the State.
    c) Require force and complusion to accomplish the program.
    d) Allow a few special interest groups (tax-exempt bond investors, realtors, contractors and architects) to make money, while the average citizen pays and pays.
11. The only solution to a housing, or any other shortage, in a free society must be the competitive private enterprise system with a viable and unrestricted economy. Any other course has no way to go but down to dissolution.
12. Don't be fooled by the reported Number of Organizations That Support this measure. It is an old Socialist Trick to Create the impression of Popular Support.

Editors' Sentences Ire Parisian Students

PARIS (AP) — A Paris court handed down sentences today to two editors of a Maoist newsletter as pro-Peking demonstrators renewed Wednesday night's rioting in a brief clash with police. One policeman was injured, apparently by a rock.

The court sentenced Jean-Pierre de Dantec, 27, to one year imprisonment and Michel le Bris to eight months on charges of provocation against state security.

About 30 youths attacked today from the haven of the College of Science, of the University of Paris, then ducked back into the school. Police are not permitted to enter university premises unless invited by the head of the school.

Police said 81 of their men were injured Wednesday night in clashes with young rioters in the Latin Quarter.

The youths burned cars and set up two barricades in retaliation for the government's ordering the dissolution of the Proletarian Left, a Maoist organization.

There was no word on how many of the rioters were injured, but 490 youths were taken to police headquarters for "verification of their situation."

The youths, wearing crash helmets and armed with gasoline bombs and iron bars, fought running battles with police, who used tear gas.

But the scale of the violence was small compared with the "May events" of 1968, when thousands of students took to the streets to demand reform of the French education system and to complain about life in general.

The government ban on the Proletarian Left came during the afternoon-long trial of two editors of the group's newsletter on charges of crimes against the security of the state and incitement to murder, pillage and arson.

Novelist-philosopher Jean-Paul Sartre told the court that it was illogical to jail the two editors and leave him free since he is now editor of the newsletter. Sartre became a figurehead editor after the two young men were arrested.

Guard Boss Takes Look At Militants

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The commander of the California National Guard says the nation's young revolutionaries fael they "are modern-day barbarians attacking the diseased Rome of the 70s."

Maj. Gen. Glenn C. Ames made the comment Wednesday at a dinner during the Governor's Emergency Planning and Operations Conference attended by some 1,500 law enforcement officers from throughout the state. The business sessions were closed to the public and the press.

Tht general described today's militants as "the brown shirts and Hitler Youth Corps of the early 30s running roughshod over the German establishment of the age."

Statistics, Ames also told the officers, showed an "unchecked upsurge of crime" leading in larger cities to "a fortress existence for many families, many business firms."

There is also a "growing animosity toward the police and the willingness to take them on," the officer said.

"To injure a 'pig' is a mark of high honor," Ames said citing the growing number of policemen being killed or injured in the line of duty.

The state's top military man also said he was confident the National Guard had "the confidence and respect of the American public as you do" although "it's often pretty hard to tell this by reading the public press."

"But," Ames said, "the letters that came into my office after the Kent State shootings and after the National Guard support on the Berkeley campus in May and June last year and Santa Barbara this year... tell me that public trust is there."

A State Military Department spokesman said the conference's business meetings were closed to the press and public because the law enforcement officers were discussing their experiences, problems and proposals on civil disorders.

Nicaragua Asks Canal Pact Ended

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Nicaragua wants to cancel the unused 53-year-old treaty giving the United States the right to build a canal across the country.

President Anastasio Somoza said Wednesday he had instructed his foreign minister to "finish this once and for all for the prestige of Nicaragua."

Both countries announced last year that they would renegotiate the Chamorro-Bryan Canal Treaty of 1917 and eliminate the clauses considered damaging to Nicaragua's sovereignty.

Top Osteopath Warns Against Too-Large Health Care Program

DETROIT (UPI)—The president of the American Osteopathic Association warned Wednesday that the nation's health care system faces progressively more serious problems money alone can't solve.

Dr. J. Scott Heatherington of Gladstone, Ore., said the nation already faces a health care crisis aggravated by a preoccupation with money and the misconception that bigness and centralization insure economy and efficiency.

"I think it is time for the public, and that includes, members of federal and state legislatures, to re-direct their thinking—away from a preoccupation with money, and toward some realistic, health care planning," Heatherington told the Michigan Association of Osteopathic Physicians.

"It is simply not true that anything big is necessarily more efficient and economical than anything small," he said.

"It seems obvious that what our system really needs is not centralization but greater diversity . . . it needs not fewer facilities but more doctors' offices, clinics and hospitals located throughout the community, near where people live and work, and providing care around the clock."

The metropolitan population of Ankara, capital of Turkey is about one million.

Hospital Board Award $81,244 For Intensive Care, X-Ray Rooms

The Marin Hospital District board has awarded an $81,244 contract to Joseph E. Redmond, building contractor, for remodeling of the hospital's Intensive Care Unit and X-ray special procedures room.

Jules Becker, district publicist, said yesterday seven bids were received for the work to expand the intensive care unit, and establish a special room for complicated X-ray proceedures.

Included in the price, is new mechanical equipment such as an air conditioner for the intensive care unit.

Remodeling, which is expected to begin within two weeks, will be completed by September.

Marin Hospital District board also:

DETOXIFICATION — Approved supporting the concept of a detoxification program in Marin County. There is currently no established program with facilities.

MENTAL HEALTH — Heard a report from hospital administrator Ray K. Bolinger explaining the Marin supervisors' agreement that Dr. Donald P. Wilson should be considered along with other applicants for his position as community Mental Health Center director and chief programmer. Bolinger also explained the mechanics of the Community Mental Health Advisory Committee's selection committee.

LEGAL — Referred to the hospital district's attorney two claims against the hospital by Jean and Shirley Larrondo and George E. Taylor.

When Queen Emma of the Hawaiian Islands visited this country in 1866, Andrew Johnson became the first President to receive a visit of a queen.

The board will discuss a proposal for fencing the area near Staidum Way.

North Las Vegas Eyeing Animal Birth Control Plan

NORTH LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)— A city owned and operated animal birth control center, complete with a "spay now-pay later" plan, may be tried in this middle class residential community next to the glitter of Las Vegas.

"Collecting and destroying animals is like bailing out a sinking boat," President Shirley Cole of the Clark County Humane Society told the city council, "and North Las Vegas is drowning in animals."

The council is considering Mrs. Cole's suggestion that it spend money earmarked for a traditional animal shelter on what she believes would be the nation's first animal birth control center. A majority of council members indicated this week their support for the idea.

"For the past 60 years, communities have concentrated on building shelters and destroying animals," said Mrs. Cole. "It's not doing the job. We must spay if we are to keep animals under control."

The cost keeps many dog and cat owners from having their animals operated on so they can not have offspring, she said. A city facility, operating on large volume, could do the job for about half the $40 veterinarian charge and if someone did not have even that much, an installment plan could be instituted, she added.

The city would have the option of destroying strays or operating on them if the proposed facility existed, said Mrs. Cole.

Sammis, Dean, Hastings College of the Law; Professor Norman D. Lattin, Hastings.

These nationally known legal scholars live in Marin . . .

they stand behind HARRY E. RICE

These distinguished legal scholars are among the many Marin residents who know that Harry E. Rice is the kind of a man a judge must be - consistent, objective, vigorous, industrious. Firm yet Fair. They know that Harry E. Rice has a sound legal education, a quick mind, absolute integrity.

WHAT DOES THE MUNICIPAL COURT JUDGE DO?

The Municipal Court Judge makes decisions that most directly affect you.

 He hears civil disputes involving $5,000 or less * He hears misdemeanor criminal cases * He hears small claims cases * He holds hearings to determine whether persons arrested for felonies shall be held for trial in Superior Court * He marries people. ***

HARRY E. RICE HAS IMPECCABLE JUDICIAL QUALIFICATIONS

- Doctor of Jurisprudence (Bachelor of Laws), Boalt Hall, University of California; B.A. Miami University
- Handles a wide variety of civil and criminal cases in private law practice - 9 years experience
- Admitted to practice before the Supreme Court of the United States
- Appears before the California Supreme Court
- Member: Marin County Bar Association, the State Bar of California and the American Bar Association
- Author, "Uninsured Motorist Insurance," California Law Review
- Experienced Arbitrator - 7 years, American Arbitration Association
- Judge Advocate, Reserve Officers' Association of the United States
- Serves in Judge Advocate General's Corps, United States Naval Reserve
- Age: 38
- Member: Reed District Parent Teacher Club, Marin Conservation League

Absolute Integrity

Harry Rice believes there should be no conflict of interest between the public trust and private gain.
He is the only judicial candidate who currently has a Statement of Investments on file for public review at the Marin Civic Center.

WHERE DOES HARRY E. RICE STAND ON THE ISSUES?

Harry Rice believes that new ideas must be used to streamline court procedures. However, he realizes the big problems must be faced first. Problems like the increasing violent crime rate, the rising narcotics traffic, and loss of our natural resources.

Violent Crime

Harry Rice believes that every man accused of a crime is entitled to a fair trial before an impartial judge and jury. He believes that the community has a right to protection from the criminal. Once convicted, the perpetrator of violence must be isolated from society.

Narcotics

Harry Rice believes that narcotics addiction, like alcoholism, is a medical problem. It should be treated as such. However, the narcotics peddler who spreads the misery of addiction for callous cash profit must be imprisoned.

Pollution and the law

Thoughtful citizens everywhere are demanding that our courts recognize the legal right of the public to a pollution-free environment. Richardson Bay may soon be unsafe for swimming, fishing, and water skiing because of sewage being dumped there. Harry Rice believes that our laws against pollution must be enforced. Those who pollute our environment must be stopped. Now.

HARRY E. RICE STANDS FOR FIRMNESS AND FAIRNESS

Harry E. Rice has taken a stand on the issues and Marin residents are standing with him. Here is a partial list:

ALMANAC

adv. for pms. thurs. may 28

Today is Thursday, May 28th, the 148th day of 1970 with 217 to follow.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase. The morning stars are Mercury and Saturn. The evening stars are Venus, Mars and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1798 President John Adams was empowered by Congress to recruit an army of 10,000 volunteers.

In 1934 the Dionne quintuplets were born near Kallender, Ontario.

In 1940 the evacuation of British, French and Belgian troops from Dunkerque on the coast of France, started. When it was completed, 337,000 reached Britain safely, more than 13,000 were killed.

In 1955 director Albert Whitehouse of the United Steelworkers of America predicted automation of the nation's factories would lead to a two-hour day. He didn't say when it would happen.

A thought for the day: Spanish writer Miguel Cervantes said, "My honor is dearer to me than my life."

Police Reserves Set Benefit Circus

The Mill Valley Police Reserve Association benefit circus is scheduled for Saturday at 2 and 8 p.m. at the Tamalpais High School field.

There will be leopards and acrobats and clowns with the rest of the Gatti-Charles Circus to raise money for the police youth program and the Police Athletic League.

Part of the proceeds will go to scholarships and youth programs.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Good Tournament Play Not So Good At Rubber Table

If you're playing rubber bridge, an overtrick is worth only 20 or 30 points; you shouldn't risk your contract for so small a gain.

In tournament bridge, an overtrick may mean several match points and may spell the difference between the championship and defeat.

There's nothing wrong about playing for overtricks as long as you're clear in your mind about which game you're indulging in.

Opening lead — ♠ K

West led three top spades, and South ruffed the third, paying no attention to the fact that East discarded the deuce of diamonds.

South led a club to dummy's ace and returned a diamond to try a finesse with the queen.

SEEMS NORMAL

This play would have been normal at tournament bridge because South would win the rest of the tricks if East had the king of diamonds. South would look very foolish if he were the only player in the room who failed to score and overtrick.

As it happened, however, South was playing rubber bridge, and his attempt to score an overtrick cost him his vulnerable game.

West won with the king of diamonds and led a fourth top spade. East discarded his last diamond, and South ruffed.

Now declarer was in a pickle. If South drew trumps, West would ruff the ace of diamonds and the last spade. If South failed to draw trumps, East would ruff the ace of diamosds to defeat the contract.

SAFER PLAY

After ruffing the third round of spades South should cash the ace of diamonds and give up a diamond. Then South can plan to ruff his last two diamonds with dummy's two high trumps.

Declarer gives up the diamond finesse but makes his contract.

A refinement of this play is safer still. To avoid some kind of club discard, South should lead the king of clubs and then a low club to dummy's ace after ruffing the third spade.

Student Oils Shown

An oil painting exhibit of works by students of Elizabeth Holland McDaniel of Bolinas is on display at the San Rafael Public Library. The work will be displayed through June.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with 1 no-trump (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes.

You hold:
♥ - K 9 2
♦ - 7 3
♣ - A 8 7 3.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Pass. You may miss a thin game if partner has four spades and a full 18 points, but the combination is unlikely. Let your partner play an easy part-score contract.

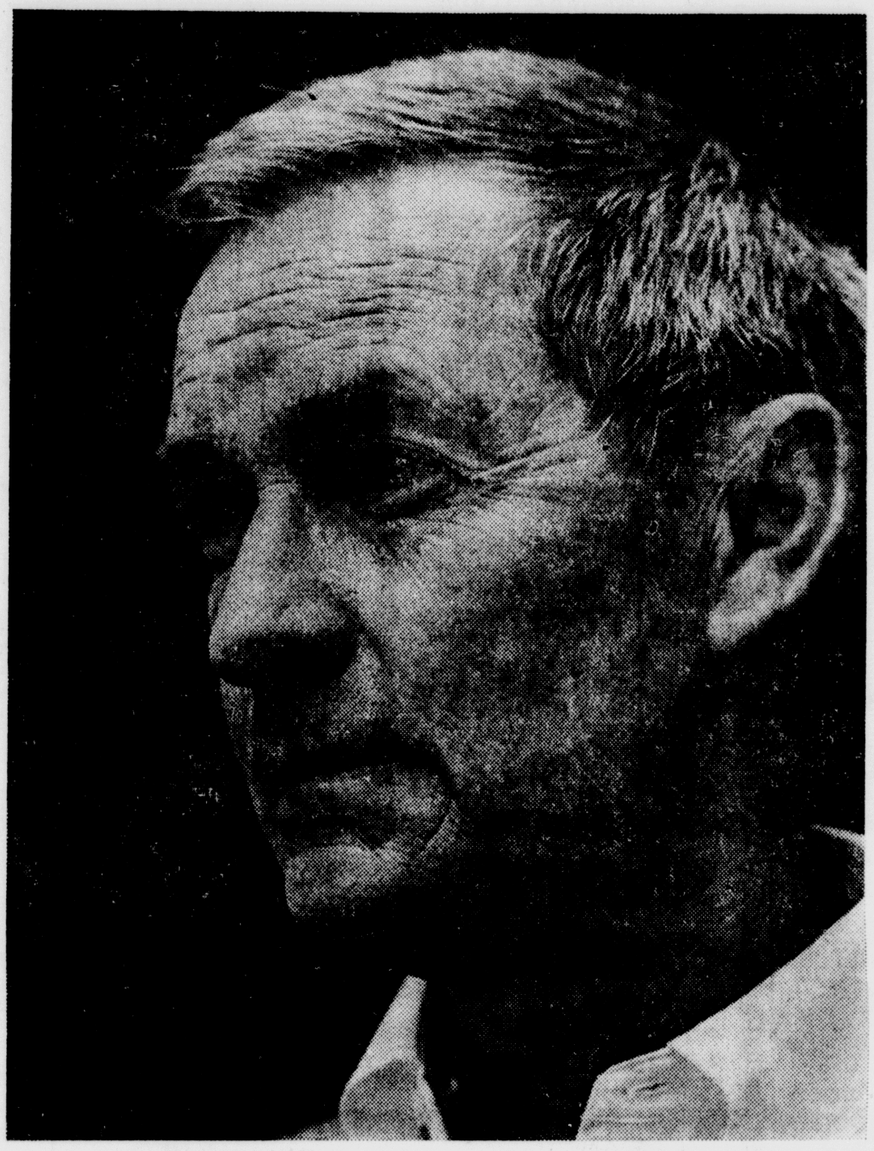
We Republicans support Peter Behr because:



- he is the only candidate to speak out clearly on the issues
- he is the only candidate with first-hand knowledge of how government works - at both the city and county level
- he is the only candidate who won't have to serve an apprenticeship in Sacramento at the expense of the taxpayer
- he is the only candidate with proven credentials in the field of conservation
- he is the only candidate who has agreed to serve full-time in the State Senate
- he has openly supported Governor Ronald Reagan's legislative program and Republican reapportionment of the legislature
- he is the Republican candidate most likely to win in November

a better man for Sacramento

President Richard M. Nixon and Peter Behr recently renewed their friendship at the White House during the signing of the Pt. Reyes National Seashore bill.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Groups of the "militant and anarchist New Left" are a major cause of rising crime rates and a threat to internal security, according to a San Francisco police officer.

Inspector Cecil M. Pharris made the statement in a closed session of the U.S. Senate Internal Security Subcommittee last Jan. 21 at a hearing presided over by Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn. The testimony was released Wednesday by Chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss.

Pharris, who has been assigned to San Francisco's intelligence unit for 12 years, also linked "much of the campus and community unrest" with an alleged effort by militant New Left groups to overthrow the government.

During his testimony, Pharris also contended underground newspapers and "militant literature" had fostered hatred of the police.

"The basic philosophy of the New Left militant can be best expressed in a simple abbreviation—3D—Disturb, Disorganize, and Destroy," Pharris said at the opening of the hearing. "I do not mean this to be a catch phrase, but rather a description of the stages of anarchy and Eentual takeover that is espoused by these organizations."

Pharris gave the committee a list of 13 organizations in response to a request for the names of "subversive and violent" groups active in the San Francisco area.

On the list were the African Descendant People's Republic, Bay Area Radical Education Project, Black Panther Party, Black Student Union, Congress of Racial Equality, Medical Aid for the Vietcong Committee, New Mobilization Committee, Progressive Labor Party, Red Guard, Revolutionary Union, Students for a Democratic Society (SDS), the People's Black Guerrillas, and the Third World Liberation Front.

Pharris also supplied the committee with a list of 31 persons he said were "officially connected" with one or more of the 13 organizations.

"Gentlemen, I cannot stress strongly enough my personal feelings t hat the militant and anarchist New Left philosophy is one of the major contributing causes of the rising crime rate in the United States today, and consequently a very serious threat to our internal security," Pharris said.

"The New Left militant has launched a semantic attack against the police by calling them animal names and obscene hyphenated terms," he said. "An obvious question arises—why does the New Left focus so much hatred on thepolice?

"The answer is quite obvious. The responsibility for the safety of our streets and our citizens, the upholding of the guaranteed constitutional rights of all citizens rests primarily with the police officer. The police officer is the first person the New Left militants must overwhelm if they are to succeed in their revolutionary quest."

Kent Rites Voted

KENT, Ohio (UPI) — The board of trustees at Kent State University voted today to hold spring commencement as scheduled June 13 and tentatively planned to reopen June 22. The university was closed May 4 when four students were shot to death by National Guardsmen.
